STAGE SET FOR NEW TRUCE TALKS

Allied Troops Drive Closer To Kumsong

Resistance Fades Southeast Of Hub

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Monday, Oct. 22(AP)—Chinese Red resistance faded suddenly today on the fog-shrouded hills southeast of Kumsong. Allied forces to the northwest were only a mile from the key road hub.

United Nations infantry pushed unopposed through a mass of rolling hills five miles southeast of Kumsong. There were indications the Chinese had abruptly withdrawn from those central front positions.

No contact with the Communists was reported during the night south of Kumsong itself. Allied forces seized a commanding hillcrest a mile from the former Red stronghold and took most of another Sunday.

Elsewhere along the front, action was limited to patrol clashes.

Six brief skirmishes were reported 15 miles north of Munsan and not far from the security area around Panmunjom, where liaison officers from both sides were arranging for resumption of the Korean truce talks.

Reds Throw Tanks Into Battle

AP Correspondent Sam Summerlin said ground forces reported fighting with three Communist tanks northeast of Kumsong — indicating an Allied encircling movement—but this was not officially verified.

The U. S. Eighth Army communique Sunday night reported the battle for Kumsong, 30 miles north of parallel 38, was the only major action along the entire Korean front. Elsewhere fighting dropped off to minor patrol clashes.

In the air war nine B-29 Superforts assigned a "very special" target in North Korea had to turn back when fighter cover failed to arrive. Instead, the bombers dropped their 65-tons of 100-pound bombs on rail facilities at the frequently raided east coast port of Hamhung.

AP Correspondent O. H. P. King, who accompanied the bomber flight, said briefing officers emphasized that "despite unfavorable weather the target is of such importance that we must have a go at it."

Target Not Identified

The target was not identified and there was no indication as to its location.

Thirty-four U. S. F-86 Sabres tangled with more than 50 Russian-built MIGs elsewhere Sunday.

The Fifth Air Force, after studying gun-camera films of the fight, announced that two MIGs were definitely damaged. Earlier it had reported six MIGs damaged. All Allied planes returned safely, headquarters said.

The air battle raged from four to six miles high between the Communist capital at Pyongyang and Sinanju in extreme Northwest Korea.

Since the battle for Kumsong began Oct. 13, American and South Korean troops have inflicted an estimated 11,900 casualties on Chinese Reds.

No 1952 Trends Expected Nov. 6

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Unless there are some unexpected upsets, major party leaders see little chance of picking up any 1952 election trends from the widespread voting Nov. 6.

Local issues predominate in the scattered state and municipal elections this year. But off-shoots of the Senate crime inquiry may provide some interest in races for the New York City Council and for the New Jersey Legislature.

Philadelphia also has a hot mayoralty contest.

Only two states elect governors—Kentucky and Mississippi. Voting in the latter state, however, will be only a formality as Hugh White, a former governor, won a Democratic primary equivalent to election in that state.

The above two states also elect other state officers and members of the legislature. Virginia and New Jersey also elect state legislators.

Four U. S. House members will be chosen in special elections to fill vacancies. Two seats in Pennsylvania and one in New Jersey were vacated by Republicans and one in Ohio by a Democrat. No change in their political complexion is expected, although Democrats concede they are a little afraid about the Ohio seat.

There are two other House vacancies. One will be filled in a special election tomorrow in Maine and the other in Nebraska Dec. 4.

PRAYS FOR SON—Elmer Zimmerman, Goodville, Pa., farmer, quotes from the Bible to explain why he would not permit his six-year-old son, Elmer, Jr., to be taken to a hospital after the boy was struck by an auto, suffering a skull fracture. Zimmerman believes in "faith healing" but police obtained a court order and took the child to a hospital.

DiSalle Directs His Aides To Aim For Price Cuts

Outlines Objective Of New Regulations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle directed his aides tonight to aim at price cuts wherever possible in a general revision of ceilings now being worked out.

In any event, he said, the price line must be held and increases must be an exception rather than a rule.

DiSalle made that pledge in giving his Office of Price Stabilization experts a full-speed-ahead order on setting dollars and cents ceilings. OPS set a target of next March at the latest for writing up to 500 regulations that will cover almost all of the nation's industry.

As Assistant OPS Director Edward F. Phelps issued a set of standards to guide price experts in writing the new orders, DiSalle gave them this goal:

"Our objective must be to keep from increasing prices and to reduce them wherever possible. Any increase should be the exception rather than the rule, and I will not sign any regulations increasing prices past general freeze levels unless accompanied by the fullest kind of economic justification."

Phelps added at a news conference that:

"If inflationary pressures rebuild as indicated during the winter and spring, it is incumbent upon OPS to cut across the delays and confusion which have arisen recently and to erect the kind of price structure which will withstand those pressures.

"Stabilization policy henceforth will have this goal in mind as a matter of priority importance."

Phelps said he hopes OPS is done with "rolling forward" prices.

He explained that he did not mean there will not be any adjustments upward; that some will be inevitable to allow fair and equitable prices as required by the law.

He pointed out that in many cases ceilings are higher than actual prices and may be lowered.

"Ike" Discovers Flag Flying Upside Down

PRESTWICK, Scotland, Oct. 21 (AP)—"By golly, they've got it upside down," Gen. Dwight Eisenhower exclaimed today when he saw ancient Culzean Castle, Ayrshire, where he's to spend a five-day holiday.

It wasn't the 14th century castle, but the American flag he was talking about. He was right, too.

The flag was hastily lowered and run up correctly.

Protestants Protest Clark's Appointment

Senators Annoyed; Capital Row Seen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Protestant outcries, some of them from the pulpit, added up today to notice that there will be a tremendous row at the Capitol over President Truman's move to enter regular diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

Most Congress members, with a wary eye on re-election campaigns coming up next year, were carefully silent even in off-the-record talk as to either (A) their own views on the surprise nomination of Gen. Mark W. Clark to be ambassador to the Catholic church state or (b) their estimates of the outcome.

But Senate Foreign Relations Committee sources told reporters that various Protestant groups already had filed notices they wanted to be heard in opposition. The lawmakers' attitude suggested that most of them would prefer to leave the fighting to such groups.

Some Senators Annoyed

A number of senators, while emphasizing that they were not stating a position on the main issue, privately expressed sharp annoyance over the President's timing. He sent the nomination up yesterday only a few hours before the time scheduled for adjournment of Congress.

That left the lawmakers the choice of passing up any action until January — which is what they did—or delaying their vacation perhaps for days or weeks.

Dr. Edward H. Pruden, Mr. Truman's own pastor here at Washington's First Baptist Church, led off in the pulpit protests.

He read into his sermon a 500-word statement which said he had done "all that it was possible for anyone to do" to head off such a move as the assignment of an ambassador.

Messages Deluge White House

The White House said it was unable to furnish even a count, much less a pro and con tally, today on messages to Mr. Truman on his move, but the mail and telegraph file was expected to run heavy.

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, state clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the USA which numbers 2,500,000 members, wired the President from Philadelphia protesting "most vigorously." He said he acted both personally and on behalf of his church.

On the other side of the argument Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., (D-Lib-NY), said upon his return to New York from a trip to Europe and Africa that the appointment would be of "tremendous value in our fight against communistic Russia."

Italian Reaction

ROME, Oct. 21 (AP) — Most non-Communist Italian newspapers today interpreted President Truman's decision to appoint an ambassador to the Vatican as bid to win the U. S. friends in Catholic countries.

The majority interpreted the move as political and without religious significance.

The Communist and pro-Communist press violently attacked Mr. Truman's action. L'Unita, the Communist organ, said the nomination of Gen. Mark W. Clark "will turn into an even tighter alliance the fight of American imperialism and the Vatican against millions of people, a great part of whom are Catholic. In a lesser way the new ambassador will be the center of a spy ring linked with (Catholic) church organizations in the People's Democracies."

Church Roof Falls; 9 Die

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 21 (AP)—The heavy arched roof of San Juan Evangelista Church gave way suddenly today and collapsed on a class of children taking instruction for communion. At least nine children and adults were killed and more than 25 seriously injured.

High Winds Force AEC To Postpone Atomic Explosion

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 21 (AP) — Sudden high winds forced postponement of the Atomic Energy Commission's scheduled nuclear explosion today and assured Southern Nevada of a quiet Sabbath.

Strong gusts aloft, with variable cross currents, were the culprits blamed for the latest delay in the AEC's planned series. The atomic test directors didn't want to run the risk of scattering radio-active dust on Las Vegas and other smaller communities near the Yucca Flat test site.

Surface winds in Las Vegas rose to nearly 25 miles an hour early today, but by noon had almost completely subsided. With the weather outlook favorable, Test Chiefs Carroll L. Tyler and Dr. Alvin C. Graves stayed close to the AEC proving grounds.

Bulldozer Blade Protruding From Trailer Kills Nine

Rips Into Truck Carrying Indians

CASA GRANDE, Ariz., Oct. 21 (AP) —A huge bulldozer blade being hauled on the back of a flatbed trailer ripped through a truckload of fiesta-bound Indians last night, killing nine and injuring your.

The projecting knife-like edge of the 3,600-pound blade slashed into the bed of the Papago Indians' truck on a narrow 18-foot bridge. Screaming men, women and children were spilled onto the road and down into a dry wash.

A 16-year-old girl—one of the eight women and one man who died —was cut in two at the waist.

Scene Of Great Confusion

The scene was one of great confusion. Lawrence H. Ruff, 25, Eloy, driver of the bulldozer truck and trailer, his assistant, Arthur M. Sheets, 25, Eloy, and the Indian truck driver, David Henderson, 32, Casa Grande, tried to help the injured and dying.

Ruff went for help and returned within an hour with medical aid and ambulances.

Leon W. Joquin, 20, one of the 19 Indians in the back of the truck, described the scene.

"There was a big crash," he said, "a lot of scraping, and then a lot of screams. I looked up just in time to see the blade sweep all the women (who were riding on the left side) off our truck.

"Our truck didn't turn over but it rocked against the bridge and that is when I cut my face.

"It was real bad afterward. The bodies of the women were scattered all over the bridge and the little kids were crying.

Investigation Launched

"I think I got sick then," he said.

The dead died almost instantly. The injured were removed to Casa Grande Hospital. They are not critically hurt.

The Indians had been working in cotton fields near Coolidge, Ariz., and boarded the truck to attend a village fiesta at Pisinimo on the Papago reservation.

The two vehicles were still on the reservation when they met on an unpaved section of the Casa Grande-Sells road.

Henderson said he saw the approaching truck and trailer but did not see the bulldozer blade.

Federal, state and county authorities began an investigation early today.

Caravan Of Strikers Spreads Dock Tieup

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—A motor caravan of 150 striking longshoremen roved the waterfront today, appealing to non-strikers to join a seven-day-old wildcat walkout.

They spread the work stoppage to the New Jersey shore and interfered with unloading of the Cunard liner, Queen Mary.

Police officials met to prepare for possible violence on the docks tomorrow.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association, said the motor caravan tactics might seriously cripple the port of New York.

Mossadegh To Speak

British Naval Vessels Guard Ends Of Canal

Egypt To Speed Up Mobilization Plans

CAIRO, Oct. 21 (AP)—British warships were reported holding both ends of the Suez Canal today against threats posed by a speedup of Egyptian plans to put the country on a war footing.

Thousands of British troops were on the alert all along the 104-mile canal between the navy-guarded terminals of Port Said on the Mediterranean and Port Suez on the Red Sea.

Among the reinforcements still pouring in were two British Royal Air Force antiaircraft squadrons, trained as riflemen as well, to join ground forces as needed. They were due by air from London tonight.

The independent Cairo newspaper Al Mokattam reported the British, with military control of the canal in their hands, were letting oil tankers bound from the east to Israel through the canal without being searched by Egyptian authorities.

Egypt, Israel Still At War

Egypt still is technically at war with Israel and has maintained her right to seize ships going to Israel despite a United Nations condemnation of such seizures. An armistice has prevailed since the 1948 Arab-Israeli fighting but peace efforts are still dragging on.

British military control of the canal apparently supersedes Egypt's right to make customs inspections at Port Said, the main control point. The British themselves shied away from talk about warship movements. A military spokesman said they were regarded as operational and will be kept secret.

The British said the canal continues under control of the French-operated, privately-owned Suez Canal Company. They have reported there has been no disruption in normal transit at the rate of 1,100 ships a month. Company officials in Suez said Saturday there had been no interference with shipping up to then.

British Hold Up Gas Trucks

A report from Suez said the British held up 100 large gasoline trucks which usually carry gasoline from the Shell refinery at Port Tewfik to Cairo. This is the chief supply for automotive fuel in Cairo.

Egypt meanwhile carried on her plans for general mobilization of manpower in wartime fashion.

The general mobilization order was reported in Cairo newspapers to have Egyptian Supreme Court approval. The next step will be parliamentary approval providing also for establishment of a high council of war.

Three Wives Held In Mates' Deaths

BECKLEY, W. Va., Oct. 21 (AP)—Three Raleigh County women faced murder charges today in unrelated slayings of their husbands within a five-minute period, and in widely separated communities.

State police said one man was beaten fatally about the head with a claw hammer and the other two were stabbed to death between 11:45 and 11:50 p. m. (EST) last night.

Trooper C. C. McGraw identified the victims as William Woodrow Lilly, white, 37-year-old father of five children and a resident of Sullivan Hill; Frank Williams, 27, Lillybrook, and Walter Clark, 25, Lester.

McGraw said Williams and Clark were negroes. Already in jail here today were Mrs. Treva Williams, 25, and Mrs. Nellie Clark, also 25.

McGraw said Mrs. Lilly had admitted verbally that she struck her husband between 10 and 12 times in the head, but that she was not taken into custody immediately because of her children.

The officer related that Lilly died about 5 a. m. today in a Beckley hospital.

West Opposes German Reds' Seizure Of Town

BERLIN, Oct. 21 (AP) — The Western Allies reached a united decision today to oppose the East German seizure of the village of Steinstueckeen on the American sector border of Berlin.

Maj. Gen. Lemuel Mathewson, American commandant, said the British and French in a three-power parley had supported his protest to the Russians.

The Americans have demanded that the Soviet control commission nullify the action of their East German police and restore Steinstueckeen to its original status. The village, in somewhat of a no-man's land directly on the Soviet-American frontier, has been functioning as part of West Berlin since 1945.

Charge Boys Burned

Revenue Bureau Employes Face Financial Quiz

Questionnaire Will Be Sent Out To 40,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The scandal-shaken Internal Revenue Bureau is setting out this week on the biggest job of inquiry into employes' financial affairs ever attempted by any government agency.

Officials said today they have decided — with sharp misgivings — to require about 40,000 of the bureau's 57,000 employes to submit to a painfully detailed questionnaire.

Full Answers To Be Urged

Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap is preparing a careful message to his staff, urging full answers to all questions as the best way "to prove the integrity of the revenue service to the public."

The bureau is sending out the questionnaire at the prodding of a House investigating subcommittee, which wants to know how many bureau employes may be picking up questionable dollars on the side.

Already the subcommittee, headed by Rep. King (D-Calif), has put the spotlight on bizarre tales of gambling, bribery and high living involving several tax employes.

Many Employes May Balk

Officials and lesser workers who have seen the questions say they are amazed at the mass of detailed information sought, not only about themselves but about all members of their immediate families.

They raise the question that perhaps many employes will consider the questionnaire improper invasion of privacy, a stigma upon them, and just too much trouble.

Officials said Dunlap's message to his staff, expected to go out with the questionnaire in a few days, is designed to ease resentment and try to prevent any disruption of morale or wave of resignations.

Girl Killed When Piano Tips Over In Sunday School

LEVITTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—A five-year-old girl was crushed to death today when a piano tipped over in her Sunday school class.

The child, Jennifer Ann Hume, was the daughter of Nathan E. Hume, a staff sergeant attached to the Continental Air Command at Mitchell Air Force Base.

Another girl, Nancy Algyer, 5, also was caught under the piano but escaped with only bruises.

It fell when several children climbed on it, while their teacher was helping others into their coats to go home.

British Papers See Tory Victory

LONDON, Oct. 21 (AP) — The electoral gap between the Conservatives and Socialists has narrowed, British newspapers of all political faiths reported today — but most forecast a Tory victory in the general election Thursday.

The independent Sunday Observer reported Prime Minister Clement Attle's Laborites made considerable headway during the last seven days of intensive campaigning. That newspaper, though, predicted Winston Churchill's Conservatives will have a majority of 57 in the new House of Commons.

The Conservative Sunday Times said the Conservative majority in the Commons would be at least 100.

In a three-column front page box, the pro-Labor "The People" said its own surveys showed the Conservatives would have a majority of 43 in the new Commons "if the present trend of public opinion continues."

In an apparent attempt to spur Labor supporters, the newspaper added:

"If there is an upward swing of only one per cent in the popularity of Labor, this could swing the election to give Attlee a small majority."

Boy, 3, Kills Brother, Wounds Mother At Drive-In Theater

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (AP)—A policeman's three-year-old son shot and killed his baby brother, officers reported, and wounded his mother early today while the family was watching a movie in a drive-in theater.

The distraught father, Los Angeles Policeman Andrew J. Baquet, 32, told other officers the tragedy occurred this way:

The family went to the drive-in theater in suburban Inglewood last night. Baquet was in the front seat of their car with his son, Ronald, three, beside him. Mrs. Emily Baquet, 28, was in the back seat holding the baby, Mark, four months.

Baquet had placed his .38 caliber pistol in its holster on the floor in the back of the car, directly behind him.

There was a gun-fire scene near the end of the movie about 1 a. m. and the parents were watching the picture so intently that they didn't notice that Ronald had crawled from the front to the back of the car.

Baquet said the first he knew of the actual shooting was when his wife stumbled out of the car, moaning: "The baby's dead—I'm hurt."

The baby was dead on arrival at a hospital, shot in the neck. Mrs. Baquet was critically wounded with a bullet in the abdomen.

Investigators believe little Ronald, upon finding his father's gun, held it in both hands and pulled the trigger, much as he had done with a toy pistol at home. Only one bullet was fired.

Blind Girl's Piano-Playing Gives Her Chance For Sight

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The piano-playing talent of a 21-year-old Texas girl, blind since birth, is providing the means that may give her sight.

The girl, Nanette Tyson, won a television talent program in her home state last Wednesday through her ability at the keyboard.

The prize originally was a week's visit to Hollywood. But it was changed to a trip to New York and examination tomorrow by Dr. Ramon Castroviejo, a corneal transplant specialist at St. Clare's Extension Hospital.

As she stepped off a plane today at La Guardia Airport with her seeing-eye dog, "Hope," Miss Tyson said:

"Of course I am very excited. Everything seems to be happening all at once. I am very hopeful and I think I have a good chance."

The young woman was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. R. J. Tyson, Mobeetie, Tex., where her father is a postmaster.

The sightless girl, who said she learned to type while in the eighth grade, currently is a typist for the Texas State Welfare Department in Dallas.

She said she had been treated by Dr. Castroviejo two years ago and had been saving up ever since for corneal transplant operations. Winning the TV program prize, she said, gave her the chance she has been waiting for.

Allied And Red Officers Sign Security Pact

Delegations Meet Within 48 Hours

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Oct. 22 (AP)—Allied and Communist liaison officers today signed an agreement setting the stage for resumption of the long-suspended Korean armistice talks.

The agreement, providing security arrangements for resumption of the talks at Panmunjon, was signed during an hour and eight-minute session at that small village.

Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior Allied liaison officer, announced afterwards that the full five-member truce delegations would meet within 48 hours.

The agreement provides for three-mile security zones around Red-held Kaesong and this advance U. N. peace camp; a 1,000-yard security zone around Panmunjon; and a quarter-mile corridor on the road to Panmunjon from Kaesong and Munsan.

Subject To Ratification

These "ground rules" are to be ratified by the full truce delegations at their first meeting. There were three copies of the agreement — in Chinese, Korean and English.

The new setting for the talks will be a sandy-floored tent, 36 feet in length and 21 feet wide, supported by four posts. Its only furnishings are a long conference table, four small tables and cloth-covered metal camp chairs. The Reds supplied the tent.

The truce talks had been held at Kaesong until the Reds broke them off Aug. 23.

The liaison officers had gone into Sunday's meeting—their 11th since Oct. 10—stymied on only one issue. That was: Whether Allied planes should have the right to fly over designated attack-free areas, especially over Kaesong, headquarters of the Red truce delegation.

Friendly Spirit Prevails

The Reds wanted mere overflight to be considered a hostile act.

They finally accepted a U. N. promise to limit flights over the security areas "insofar as practicable."

The Allies pointed out they could not guarantee that planes damaged or off course for any reason would not fly over the zone.

"Since they agreed on that point," Kinney said, "we had nothing further to argue about."

It was settled in the same friendly spirit of give and take that has characterized the liaison meetings in the past week.

Both sides will be able to keep troops in the security area but agreed not to commit hostile acts in the zone.

'Lethargia' Ends 1,800-Mile Trip

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21 (AP) — A bronzed, disheveled pair of unmarried couples landed their raft "Lethargia" at the foot of New Orleans' famed Canal Street today ending an 1,800-mile odyssey down three rivers.

The odd-looking bundle of warped boards and oil drums drifted into the Mississippi River bank landing at 3:30 p. m. (CST) 99 days after leaving New Kensington, Pa., to float down the Allegheny, Ohio and Mississippi.

The climax of the highly-publicized trip fell a little flat. Only the press, the mothers of the two girls and a couple of hundred curiousity seekers met the conquering rafters.

Skipper Mary Ellin McCrady, Ann Arbor, Mich., 24-year-old sociology graduate who organized the trip, was the first ashore.

With the onlookers crowded around, Mary Ellin and Geraldine Garcia, Boston, 24, the other girl crew member, introduced their mothers to Don Brown, Detroit, 24, and Milton Borden, New Bedford, Mass., 30, the two men on the trip.

Jessup Indicates He'd Accept Appointment

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Ambassador-at-Large Philip Jessup indicated today he would accept a presidential appointment as interim delegate to the United Nations.

His nomination has been rejected, 3-2, by a Senate subcommittee. Since it wasn't voted on by the Senate, the President has authority to appoint him for service until the next session of Congress Jan. 8.

Jessup, whose record in Far Eastern affairs has been criticized by some Congress members, said on a television program that President Truman has not offered him an interim appointment.

Pressed on whether he would accept it if offered, he replied that he is ambassador-at-large and as such is under orders of the President.

But Senate Foreign Relations Committee sources told reporters that various Protestant groups already had filed notices they wanted to be heard in opposition. The lawmakers' attitude suggested that most of them would prefer to leave the fighting to such groups.

Some Senators Annoyed

A number of senators, while emphasizing that they were not stating a position on the main issue, privately expressed sharp annoyance over the President's timing. He sent the nomination up yesterday only a few hours before the time scheduled for adjournment of Congress.

That left the lawmakers the choice of passing up any action until January — which is what they did—or delaying their vacation perhaps for days or weeks.

Dr. Edward H. Pruden, Mr. Truman's own pastor here at Washington's First Baptist Church, led off in the pulpit protests.

He read into his sermon a 500-word statement which said he had done "all that it was possible for anyone to do" to head off such a move as the assignment of an ambassador.

Messages Deluge White House

The White House said it was unable to furnish even a count, much less a pro and con tally, today on messages to Mr. Truman on his move, but the mail and telegraph file was expected to run heavy.

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, state clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the USA which numbers 2,500,000 members, wired the President from Philadelphia protesting "most vigorously." He said he acted both personally and on behalf of his church.

On the other side of the argument Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., (D-Lib-NY), said upon his return to New York from a trip to Europe and Africa that the appointment would be of "tremendous value in our fight against communistic Russia."

Italian Reaction

ROME, Oct. 21 (AP) — Most non-Communist Italian newspapers today interpreted President Truman's decision to appoint an ambassador to the Vatican as bid to win the U. S. friends in Catholic countries.

The majority interpreted the move as political and without religious significance.

The Communist and pro-Communist press violently attacked Mr. Truman's action. L'Unita, the Communist organ, said the nomination of Gen. Mark W. Clark "will turn into an even tighter alliance the fight of American imperialism and the Vatican against millions of people, a great part of whom are Catholic. In a lesser way the new ambassador will be the center of a spy ring linked with (Catholic) church organizations in the People's Democracies."

Church Roof Falls; 9 Die

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 21 (AP)—The heavy arched roof of San Juan Evangelista Church gave way suddenly today and collapsed on a class of children taking instruction for communion. At least nine children and adults were killed and more than 25 seriously injured.

High Winds Force AEC To Postpone Atomic Explosion

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 21 (AP) — Sudden high winds forced postponement of the Atomic Energy Commission's scheduled nuclear explosion today and assured Southern Nevada of a quiet Sabbath.

Strong gusts aloft, with variable cross currents, were the culprits blamed for the latest delay in the AEC's planned series. The atomic test directors didn't want to run the risk of scattering radio-active dust on Las Vegas and other smaller communities near the Yucca Flat test site.

Surface winds in Las Vegas rose to nearly 25 miles an hour early today, but by noon had almost completely subsided. With the weather outlook favorable, Test Chiefs Carroll L. Tyler and Dr. Alvin C. Graves stayed close to the AEC proving grounds.

Bulldozer Blade Protruding From Trailer Kills Nine

Rips Into Truck Carrying Indians

CASA GRANDE, Ariz., Oct. 21 (AP) —A huge bulldozer blade being hauled on the back of a flatbed trailer ripped through a truckload of fiesta-bound Indians last night, killing nine and injuring your.

The projecting knife-like edge of the 3,600-pound blade slashed into the bed of the Papago Indians' truck on a narrow 18-foot bridge. Screaming men, women and children were spilled onto the road and down into a dry wash.

A 16-year-old girl—one of the eight women and one man who died —was cut in two at the waist.

Scene Of Great Confusion

The scene was one of great confusion. Lawrence H. Ruff, 25, Eloy, driver of the bulldozer truck and trailer, his assistant, Arthur M. Sheets, 25, Eloy, and the Indian truck driver, David Henderson, 32, Casa Grande, tried to help the injured and dying.

Ruff went for help and returned within an hour with medical aid and ambulances.

Leon W. Joquin, 20, one of the 19 Indians in the back of the truck, described the scene.

"There was a big crash," he said, "a lot of scraping, and then a lot of screams. I looked up just in time to see the blade sweep all the women (who were riding on the left side) off our truck.

"Our truck didn't turn over but it rocked against the bridge and that is when I cut my face.

"It was real bad afterward. The bodies of the women were scattered all over the bridge and the little kids were crying.

Investigation Launched

"I think I got sick then," he said.

The dead died almost instantly. The injured were removed to Casa Grande Hospital. They are not critically hurt.

The Indians had been working in cotton fields near Coolidge, Ariz., and boarded the truck to attend a village fiesta at Pisinimo on the Papago reservation.

The two vehicles were still on the reservation when they met on an unpaved section of the Casa Grande-Sells road.

Henderson said he saw the approaching truck and trailer but did not see the bulldozer blade.

Federal, state and county authorities began an investigation early today.

Caravan Of Strikers Spreads Dock Tieup

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—A motor caravan of 150 striking longshoremen roved the waterfront today, appealing to non-strikers to join a seven-day-old wildcat walkout.

They spread the work stoppage to the New Jersey shore and interfered with unloading of the Cunard liner, Queen Mary.

Police officials met to prepare for possible violence on the docks tomorrow.

British Naval Vessels Guard Ends Of Canal

Egypt To Speed Up Mobilization Plans

CAIRO, Oct. 21 (AP)—British warships were reported holding both ends of the Suez Canal today against threats posed by a speedup of Egyptian plans to put the country on a war footing.

Thousands of British troops were on the alert all along the 104-mile canal between the navy-guarded terminals of Port Said on the Mediterranean and Port Suez on the Red Sea.

Among the reinforcements still pouring in were two British Royal Air Force antiaircraft squadrons, trained as riflemen as well, to join ground forces as needed. They were due by air from London tonight.

The independent Cairo newspaper Al Mokattam reported the British, with military control of the canal in their hands, were letting oil tankers bound from the east to Israel through the canal without being searched by Egyptian authorities.

Egypt, Israel Still At War

Egypt still is technically at war with Israel and has maintained her right to seize ships going to Israel despite a United Nations condemnation of such seizures. An armistice has prevailed since the 1948 Arab-Israeli fighting but peace efforts are still dragging on.

British military control of the canal apparently supersedes Egypt's right to make customs inspections at Port Said, the main control point. The British themselves shied away from talk about warship movements. A military spokesman said they were regarded as operational and will be kept secret.

The British said the canal continues under control of the French-operated, privately-owned Suez Canal Company. They have reported there has been no disruption in normal transit at the rate of 1,100 ships a month. Company officials in Suez said Saturday there had been no interference with shipping up to then.

British Hold Up Gas Trucks

A report from Suez said the British held up 100 large gasoline trucks which usually carry gasoline from the Shell refinery at Port Tewfik to Cairo. This is the chief supply for automotive fuel in Cairo.

Egypt meanwhile carried on her plans for general mobilization of manpower in wartime fashion.

The general mobilization order was reported in Cairo newspapers to have Egyptian Supreme Court approval. The next step will be parliamentary approval providing also for establishment of a high council of war.

Three Wives Held In Mates' Deaths

BECKLEY, W. Va., Oct. 21 (AP)—Three Raleigh County women faced murder charges today in unrelated slayings of their husbands within a five-minute period, and in widely separated communities.

State police said one man was beaten fatally about the head with a claw hammer and the other two were stabbed to death between 11:45 and 11:50 p. m. (EST) last night.

Trooper C. C. McGraw identified the victims as William Woodrow Lilly, white, 37-year-old father of five children and a resident of Sullivan Hill; Frank Williams, 27, Lillybrook, and Walter Clark, 25, Lester.

McGraw said Williams and Clark were negroes. Already in jail here today were Mrs. Treva Williams, 25, and Mrs. Nellie Clark, also 25.

McGraw said Mrs. Lilly had admitted verbally that she struck her husband between 10 and 12 times in the head, but that she was not taken into custody immediately because of her children.

The officer related that Lilly died about 5 a. m. today in a Beckley hospital.

West Opposes German Reds' Seizure Of Town

BERLIN, Oct. 21 (AP) — The Western Allies reached a united decision today to oppose the East German seizure of the village of Steinstuecken on the American sector border of Berlin.

Maj. Gen. Lemuel Mathewson, American commandant, said the British and French in a three-power parley had supported his protest to the Russians.

The Americans have demanded that the Soviet control commission nullify the action of their East German police and restore Steinstuecken to its original status. The village, in somewhat of a no-man's land directly on the Soviet-American frontier, has been functioning as part of West Berlin since 1945.

Charge Boys Burned

Two women, one the wife of the head of an orphanage and school at Anaheim, Calif., are under arrest on charges of unjustifiable punishment after the hands of three boys in the institution allegedly were burned. Revenue Bureau Employes Face Financial Quiz

Questionnaire Will Be Sent Out To 40,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The scandal-shaken Internal Revenue Bureau is setting out this week on the biggest job of inquiry into employes' financial affairs ever attempted by any government agency.

Officials said today they have decided — with sharp misgivings — to require about 40,000 of the bureau's 57,000 employes to submit to a painfully detailed questionnaire.

Full Answers To Be Urged

Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap is preparing a careful message to his staff, urging full answers to all questions as the best way "to prove the integrity of the revenue service to the public."

The bureau is sending out the questionnaire at the prodding of a House investigating subcommittee, which wants to know how many bureau employes may be picking up questionable dollars on the side.

Already the subcommittee, headed by Rep. King (D-Calif), has put the spotlight on bizarre tales of gambling, bribery and high living involving several tax employes.

Many Employes May Balk

Officials and lesser workers who have seen the questions say they are amazed at the mass of detailed information sought, not only about themselves but about all members of their immediate families.

They raise the question that perhaps many employes will consider the questionnaire improper invasion of privacy, a stigma upon them, and just too much trouble.

Officials said Dunlap's message to his staff, expected to go out with the questionnaire in a few days, is designed to ease resentment and try to prevent any disruption of morale or wave of resignations.

Girl Killed When Piano Tips Over In Sunday School

LEVITTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—A five-year-old girl was crushed to death today when a piano tipped over in her Sunday school class.

The child, Jennifer Ann Hume, was the daughter of Nathan E. Hume, a staff sergeant attached to the Continental Air Command at Mitchell Air Force Base.

Another girl, Nancy Algyer, 5, also was caught under the piano but escaped with only bruises.

It fell when several children climbed on it, while their teacher was helping others into their coats to go home.

British Papers See Tory Victory

LONDON, Oct. 21 (AP) — The electoral gap between the Conservatives and Socialists has narrowed, British newspapers of all political faiths reported today — but most forecast a Tory victory in the general election Thursday.

The independent Sunday Observer reported Prime Minister Clement Attle's Laborites made considerable headway during the last seven days of intensive campaigning. That newspaper, though, predicted Winston Churchill's Conservatives will have a majority of 57 in the new House of Commons.

The Conservative Sunday Times said the Conservative majority in the Commons would be at least 100.

In a three-column front page box, the pro-Labor "The People" said its own surveys showed the Conservatives would have a majority of 43 in the new Commons "if the present trend of public opinion continues."

In an apparent attempt to spur Labor supporters, the newspaper added:

"If there is an upward swing of only one per cent in the popularity of Labor, this could swing the election to give Attlee a small majority."

Boy, 3, Kills Brother, Wounds Mother At Drive-In Theater

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (AP)—A policeman's three-year-old son shot and killed his baby brother, officers reported, and wounded his mother early today while the family was watching a movie in a drive-in theater.

The distraught father, Los Angeles Policeman Andrew J. Baquet, 32, told other officers the tragedy occurred this way:

The family went to the drive-in theater in suburban Inglewood last night. Baquet was in the front seat of their car with his son, Ronald, three, beside him. Mrs. Emily Baquet, 28, was in the back seat holding the baby, Mark, four months.

Baquet had placed his .38 caliber pistol in its holster on the floor in the back of the car, directly behind him.

There was a gun-fire scene near the end of the movie about 1 a. m. and the parents were watching the picture so intently that they didn't notice that Ronald had crawled from the front to the back of the car.

Baquet said the first he knew of the actual shooting was when his wife stumbled out of the car, moaning: "The baby's dead—I'm hurt."

The baby was dead on arrival at a hospital, shot in the neck. Mrs. Baquet was critically wounded with a bullet in the abdomen.

Investigators believe little Ronald, upon finding his father's gun, held it in both hands and pulled the trigger, much as he had done with a toy pistol at home. Only one bullet was fired.

Allied And Red Officers Sign Security Pact

Delegations Meet Within 48 Hours

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Oct. 22 (AP)—Allied and Communist liaison officers today signed an agreement setting the stage for resumption of the long-suspended Korean armistice talks.

The agreement, providing security arrangements for resumption of the talks at Panmunjon, was signed during an hour and eight-minute session at that small village.

Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior Allied liaison officer, announced afterwards that the full five-member truce delegations would meet within 48 hours.

The agreement provides for three-mile security zones around Red-held Kaesong and this advance U. N. peace camp; a 1,000-yard security zone around Panmunjon; and a quarter-mile corridor on the road to Panmunjon from Kaesong and Munsan.

Subject To Ratification

These "ground rules" are to be ratified by the full truce delegations at their first meeting. There were three copies of the agreement — in Chinese, Korean and English.

The new setting for the talks will be a sandy-floored tent, 36 feet in length and 21 feet wide, supported by four posts. Its only furnishings are a long conference table, four small tables and cloth-covered metal camp chairs. The Reds supplied the tent.

The truce talks had been held at Kaesong until the Reds broke them off Aug. 23.

The liaison officers had gone into Sunday's meeting—their 11th since Oct. 10—stymied on only one issue. That was: Whether Allied planes should have the right to fly over designated attack-free areas, especially over Kaesong, headquarters of the Red truce delegation.

Friendly Spirit Prevails

The Reds wanted mere overflight to be considered a hostile act.

They finally accepted a U. N. promise to limit flights over the security areas "insofar as practicable."

The Allies pointed out they could not guarantee that planes damaged or off course for any reason would not fly over the zone.

"Since they agreed on that point," Kinney said, "we had nothing further to argue about."

It was settled in the same friendly spirit of give and take that has characterized the liaison meetings in the past week.

Both sides will be able to keep troops in the security area but agreed not to commit hostile acts in the zone.

'Lethargia' Ends 1,800-Mile Trip

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21 (AP) — A bronzed, disheveled pair of unmarried coupies landed their raft "Lethargia" at the foot of New Orleans' famed Canal Street today ending an 1,800-mile odyssey down three rivers.

The odd-looking bundle of warped boards and oil drums drifted into the Mississippi River bank landing at 3:30 p. m. (CST) 99 days after leaving New Kensington, Pa., to float down the Allegheny, Ohio and Mississippi.

The climax of the highly-publicized trip fell a little flat. Only the press, the mothers of the two girls and a couple of hundred curiousity seekers met the conquering rafters.

Skipper Mary Ellin McCrady, Ann Arbor, Mich., 24-year-old sociology graduate who organized the trip, was the first ashore.

With the onlookers crowded around, Mary Ellin and Geraldine Garcia, Boston, 24, the other girl crew member, introduced their mothers to Don Brown, Detroit, 24, and Milton Borden, New Bedford, Mass., 30, the two men on the trip.

Jessup Indicates He'd Accept Appointment

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Ambassador-at-Large Philip Jessup indicated today he would accept a presidential appointment as interim delegate to the United Nations.

His nomination has been rejected, 3-2, by a Senate subcommittee. Since it wasn't voted on by the Senate, the President has authority to appoint him for service until the next session of Congress Jan. 8.

Jessup, whose record in Far Eastern affairs has been criticized by some Congress members, said on a television program that President Truman has not offered him an interim appointment.

Pressed on whether he would accept it if offered, he replied that he is ambassador-at-large and as such is under orders of the President.

Blind Girl's Piano-Playing Gives Her Chance For Sight

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The piano-playing talent of a 21-year-old Texas girl, blind since birth, is providing the means that may give her sight.

The girl, Nanette Tyson, won a television talent program in her home state last Wednesday through her ability at the keyboard.

The prize originally was a week's visit to Hollywood. But it was changed to a trip to New York and examination tomorrow by Dr. Ramon Castroviejo, a corneal transplant specialist at St. Clare's Extension Hospital.

As she stepped off a plane today at La Guardia Airport with her seeing-eye dog, "Hope," Miss Tyson said:

"Of course I am very excited. Everything seems to be happening all at once. I am very hopeful and I think I have a good chance."

The young woman was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. R. J. Tyson, Mobeetie, Tex., where her father is a postmaster.

The sightless girl, who said she learned to type while in the eighth grade, currently is a typist for the Texas State Welfare Department in Dallas.

She said she had been treated by Dr. Castroviejo two years ago and had been saving up ever since for corneal transplant operations. Winning the TV program prize, she said, gave her the chance she has been waiting for.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

William A. Stitcher Dies In Hospital

William A. Stitcher, 70, of 417 Valley Sreet, retired B. and O. machinist, died yesterday at 6:50 a. m. in Allegany Hospital. He was a brother of J. Henry Stitcher, city policeman.

He was also the father of the late Carl Stitcher for whom Stitcher's Field in North End, is named. Carl was one of the first local soldiers killed in action during World War II.

A native of Cumberland, he was born July 17, 1881, a son of the late John and Caroline Becker Stitcher. He was a member of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles; and the International Association of Machinists.

Surviving are two sons, John R. and Louis E. Stitcher, both this city; three daughters, Mrs. Katherine Lango, at home; Mrs. Josephine Colosini and Mrs. Agnes Meagher, both this city.

Also surviving are another brother, Frank Stitcher; two sisters, Miss Dora Stitcher and Mrs. Ella Riley, all this city; 20 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

A requiem mass will be celebrated Wednesday at 9 a. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church with burial in the church cemetery. The body is at the residence.

PATRICIA A THOMAS

MIDLAND—Patricia Ann Thomas, 17-month-old daughter of Sgt. Samuel and Laura (Smith) Thomas, died Friday at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, following an illness of two months.

The child had been a patient at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, prior to entering Johns Hopkins.

Sgt. Thomas, who was granted an emergency leave due to his daughter's illness, is now enroute to Japan.

Survivors include her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Richard Hawkins.

The body is at the Smith residence.

If you like matchmates, you can run up a colorful apron to match your kitchen towels in practically no time at all. It requires one kitchen towel, some cotton skirt facing and bias binding. Turn up 10 inches at the lower edge of the towel and stitch through lengthwise center of deep fold to make two pockets. Bind outside edges with bias tape. Pleat top edge of towel for fullness at waistline. Use skirt facing folded through lengthwise center for belt and tie strings, allowing about 27 inches for each string. Stitch from end to end of facing, sewing in apron at belt section.

Women who use razor blades in slitting seams and for other sewing tasks may find this a helpful hint: rescue an old, used match folder from the wastebasket, tear off the cardboard flap, and use the thick stub ends and abrasive strip to slip over one edge of the razor blade. Simply insert one edge of the blade between the stubs to make this handy holder for protecting fingertips.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Did You Ever Chase A Fox?

We were invited to hunt breakfast the other day which is an excuse for all hands to lie about their prowess and get tight around half-past eleven in the morning at the expense of the M. F. H.—Master of Fox Hounds to you. They admit pedestrians to these affairs, so we showed up. There was a bar with two gents behind it in white coats and a lot in front and no tabs. You only had to mention your poison — whisky, cocktails, champagne. In fact, everybody was there but the fox, and maybe he was smart to stay away, and that's how he got his reputation.

John Wheeler

There was an old friend of mine named George Buckley, who was an accomplished character and full of quaint sayings, stories, and frequently chewed up pieces of glass. When feeling fit, he would take a bite out of a highball tumbler and crunch it between his teeth, like a cow chewing her cud, a trick that was very entertaining to the bystanders and less harmful. One kibitzer, after witnessing a performance, made the cynical crack which I may have mentioned before.

"What?" he asked. "You're not going to eat the stems? Why they are the best part."

As an example of his quaint sayings, I once heard him turn to a friend and remark,

"May the skin of a gooseberry cover your enemies."

He was born and grew up in the Middle West on the wrong side of the tracks, the same side as the local livery stable. Some of his richer neighbors decided to organize a fox hunt, so they sent to England to get a few books to read the rules. George goes on with the tale.

"Some bought horses and the rest rented them from the livery stable. They collected red coats and hounds and had photographs made for the local paper. The first meeting was scheduled for Thanksgiving morning, and the bunch gathered on the outskirts of town. Soon the dogs gave tongue and were off hell bent with the riders straggling behind and no fences higher to jump than the railroad tracks for they headed that way. Finally the whole gang wound up in a blind alley alongside the public barn and cornered was not a fox, but a female dog which had strayed across their path, and ran home to try to escape the turmoil. Some of the more timid members resigned after this initial experience."

When I first moved to Ridgefield, Conn., I had a horse which would jump, and I bought a hard hat and black coat, as I was only a private in the rear rank and did not rate a pink one. Strange as it may seem, the M.F.H. was a lady and for my money it was hard to tell her from one of the dogs of the same sex. On a bright morning, I started out full of enthusiasm and chased the hunt for about 10 miles before I caught up when I reported for duty. Instead of being welcomed, I got bawled out for breaking some rule I had never heard of, so I made a couple of suggestions as to what she could do with her outfit, and maybe she tried them, for she has never been very well since. One was to stuff the hounds down her gullet one by one.

The local hunt had a little deer trouble a few years ago, because the dogs got to running these animals instead of foxes, and some of the members found they made better eating. Anyway, there must have been a spy or a game warden in the crowd, for the next thing there was hell to pay, and it looked as if some of the boys and girls might go to the sneezer for a while. The matter was settled for a fine that amounted to something like $16,000 as I recall it which made the venison more expensive than if they had ordered it in the Restaurant 21.

There are a lot of gadgets in connection with this sport. In the first place, you must have money and then dress a certain way. If they want the hounds to chase the fox, they don't holler — "Go on Fido," but "Yoicks." When you see the quarry, shout "View halloo." If you yell, "There goes the so-and-so now," you will be stripped of your uniform, thrown out and become a retired fox hunter.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

William A. Stitcher Dies In Hospital

William A. Stitcher, 70, of 417 Valley Sreet, retired B. and O. machinist, died yesterday at 6:50 a. m. in Allegany Hospital. He was a brother of J. Henry Stitcher, city policeman.

He was also the father of the late Carl Stitcher for whom Stitcher's Field in North End, is named. Carl was one of the first local soldiers killed in action during World War II.

A native of Cumberland, he was born July 17, 1881, a son of the late John and Caroline Becker Stitcher. He was a member of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles; and the International Association of Machinists.

Surviving are two sons, John R. and Louis E. Stitcher, both this city; three daughters, Mrs. Katherine Lango, at home; Mrs. Josephine Colosini and Mrs. Agnes Meagher, both this city.

Also surviving are another brother, Frank Stitcher; two sisters, Miss Dora Stitcher and Mrs. Ella Riley, all this city; 20 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

A requiem mass will be celebrated Wednesday at 9 a. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church with burial in the church cemetery. The body is at the residence.

PATRICIA A THOMAS

MIDLAND—Patricia Ann Thomas, 17-month-old daughter of Sgt. Samuel and Laura (Smith) Thomas, died Friday at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, following an illness of two months.

The child had been a patient at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, prior to entering Johns Hopkins.

Sgt. Thomas, who was granted an emergency leave due to his daughter's illness, is now enroute to Japan.

Survivors include her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Richard Hawkins.

The body is at the Smith residence.

MRS. BERTHA V. BRUNER

Mrs. Bertha Viola Bruner, 53, of Bedford Valley, Pa., died Saturday afternoon in Memorial Hospital where she was admitted a week ago.

Her parents were the late Morgan and Jane (Gillum) Oliver.

Surviving are two sons, Joseph F. Bruner, Baltimore Pike, and Alvin P. Bruner, Bedford Valley; two daughters, Mrs. Wilbur L. Collins, Rawlings, and Mrs. John F. DeMoss, Bedford Road; three sisters, Mrs. Dorsey Nave and Mrs. Ellis Miller, Bedford, Pa., and Mrs. Howard Bennett, Montezuma, N. Y., and eight grandchildren.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home. Services will be conducted today at 2 p. m. in Bethel Methodist Church, Bedford Valley, by Rev. Paul D. Woodbury.

LYLE M. HAINES

ROMNEY, W. Va. — Lyle M. Haines, son of Mrs. C. W. Haines and the late Mr. Haines, died October 11 in U. S. Marine Hospital, Baltimore.

Services were held last Saturday in Romney Baptist Church with Rev. W. R. McCoy officiating. Full military honors at the grave in Indian Mound Cemetery were accorded by Hampshire Post No. 91, American Legion; Wappacoma Post No. 1101, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Company "C," 398th Air, local reserve unit.

Mr. Haines was a graduate of Romney High School and Potomac Academy. Having completed a law course, he was admitted to the bar in Ohio and practiced his profession several years in Akron and Columbus.

While serving with the Marine Corps in World War I, Mr. Haines was wounded and gassed. During War II, he was in the Intelligence Department of the Air Force stationed at Los Angeles. After the war, he was an adjudicator in the law branch of the Veterans Administration.

Surviving, besides his mother here, are his widow, the former Miss Nell Canaday, Los Angeles; a brother, Blair M. Haines, and three sisters, Mrs. E. M. Whedbee, Mrs. Ray Luttrell and Mrs. Floyd J King, all of Romney.

MRS. VIVIAN S. STARK

GRANTSVILLE — Mrs. Vivian Susan Stark, 82, died Friday at her home near Bittinger following an illness of six years.

Born near Bittinger, Mrs. Stark was a daughter of the late Samuel J. and Christine (Durst) Slubach. She was a member of Bittinger Lutheran Church.

Surviving are a son, George Stark, Bittinger; three brothers, Noah Slaubach, Mt. Lake Park; Clayton Slaubach, Hutton, and Elwood Slaubach, Weston, W. Va.; two sisters, Mrs. Orpha Compton, Mt. Lake Park, and Mrs. W. M. Hutchinson, Flint, Mich.; two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The body is at the Winterberg Funeral Home here. Services will be conducted in Bittinger Lutheran Church at 2 p. m. today with interment in Bittinger Cemetery.

MRS. MOLLIE STUBBLEFIELD

Mrs. Mollie B. Stubblefield, 85, widow of Samuel Stubblefield, died Saturday night at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Robert R. Goldenn, this city. The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

A native of Lantz's Mill, Va., she was born February 7, 1866, a daughter of the late Samuel and Lydia Ann Coffelt Jackson. She was a charter member of the First Christian Church.

Surviving besides her daughter, are one son, Leo M. Stubblefield, Baltimore; two sisters, Mrs. J. Norman Stoner, Edinburg, Va.; and Mrs. Nelson M. Douglas, York, Pa.; one grandchild and two great grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Stein's Chapel with Rev. E. W. Gearhart, pastor of First Christian Church, and Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of Fairview Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Lutheran Cemetery.

McELFISH BURIAL

FLINTSTONE—A funeral service for Alva Bruce McElfish, 63, retired farmer, who was found dead Thursday at his home, Star Route, was held yesterday afternoon at the Hafer Funeral Home. Mr. Richard Roberts and Mrs. Robert Rennie, of Gospel Hall, officiated. Burial was in the I.O.O.F. Cemetery, Flintstone.

Pallbearers were John Davis, Walter Davis, Jarius Chaney, Ellery Chaney, Chester Robinette and Howard Robinette.

BOEHLERT RITES

FROSTBURG — A requiem mass for Mrs. Rose Mary (Smith) Boehlert, 45, wife of Leonard J. Boehlert, Washington, who died Tuesday, was celebrated Saturday morning in St. Michael's Catholic Church by Rev. Francis J. Montgomery. Burial was in the parish cemetery.

Pallbearers were John, William, Thomas and Bernard Byrnes, Jr., James Drum and Robert Smith.

McBRIDE FUNERAL

Rites for Mrs. Elsie Virginia McBride, 67, of 72 Maryland Avenue, who died Thursday at Memorial Hospital, were conducted Saturday afternoon in Mt. Zion Church, Slanesville, W. Va., by Rev. Kenneth M. Hayes, pastor of Second Baptist Church here. Interment was in Mt. Union Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Richard Collins, Paul Joyce, Lloyd Diehl and Theodore, Wilbur and Donald Crabtree.

BIBLE SERVICES

Services were held Saturday afternoon at the Hafer Funeral Home for Frederick Madison Bible, 54, Star Route, Flintstone, who died Wednesday. Rev. Walter Twigg and Rev. R. Eugene May officiated. Burial was in Glendale Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Talmadge Luttrell, Russell H. King, James L. Lewis, William A. Bowman, Emory J. Bowman, Emory J. Robertson and Robert L. Carter.

If you like matchmates, you can run up a colorful apron to match your kitchen towels in practically no time at all. It requires one kitchen towel, some cotton skirt facing and bias binding. Turn up 10 inches at the lower edge of the towel and stitch through lengthwise center of deep fold to make two pockets. Bind outside edges with bias tape. Pleat top edge of towel for fullness at waistline. Use skirt facing folded through lengthwise center for belt and tie strings, allowing about 27 inches for each string. Stitch from end to end of facing, sewing in apron at belt section.

Women who use razor blades in slitting seams and for other sewing tasks may find this a helpful hint: rescue an old, used match folder from the wastebasket, tear off the cardboard flap, and use the thick stub ends and abrasive strip to slip over one edge of the razor blade. Simply insert one edge of the blade between the stubs to make this handy holder for protecting fingertips.

The Old Second Guesser

Did You Ever Chase A Fox?

We were invited to hunt breakfast the other day which is an excuse for all hands to lie about their prowess and get tight around half-past eleven in the morning at the expense of the M. F. H.—Master of Fox Hounds to you. They admit pedestrians to these affairs, so we showed up. There was a bar with two gents behind it in white coats and a lot in front and no tabs. You only had to mention your poison — whisky, cocktails, champagne. In fact, everybody was there but the fox, and maybe he was smart to stay away, and that's how he got his reputation.

John Wheeler

There was an old friend of mine named George Buckley, who was an accomplished character and full of quaint sayings, stories, and frequently chewed up pieces of glass. When feeling fit, he would take a bite out of a highball tumbler and crunch it between his teeth, like a cow chewing her cud, a trick that was very entertaining to the bystanders and less harmful. One kibitzer, after witnessing a performance, made the cynical crack which I may have mentioned before.

"What?" he asked. "You're not going to eat the stems? Why they are the best part."

As an example of his quaint sayings, I once heard him turn to a friend and remark,

"May the skin of a gooseberry cover your enemies."

He was born and grew up in the Middle West on the wrong side of the tracks, the same side as the local livery stable. Some of his richer neighbors decided to organize a fox hunt, so they sent to England to get a few books to read the rules. George goes on with the tale.

"Some bought horses and the rest rented them from the livery stable. They collected red coats and hounds and had photographs made for the local paper. The first meeting was scheduled for Thanksgiving morning, and the bunch gathered on the outskirts of town. Soon the dogs gave tongue and were off hell bent with the riders straggling behind and no fences higher to jump than the railroad tracks for they headed that way. Finaly the whole gang wound up in a blind alley alongside the public barn and cornered was not a fox, but a female dog which had strayed across their path, and ran home to try to escape the turmoil. Some of the more timid members resigned after this initial experience."

When I first moved to Ridgefield, Conn., I had a horse which would jump, and I bought a hard hat and black coat, as I was only a private in the rear rank and did not rate a pink one. Strange as it may seem, the M.F.H. was a lady and for my money it was hard to tell her from one of the dogs of the same sex. On a bright morning, I started out full of enthusiasm and chased the hunt for about 10 miles before I caught up when I reported for duty. Instead of being welcomed, I got bawled out for breaking some rule I had never heard of, so I made a couple of suggestions as to what she could do with her outfit, and maybe she tried them, for she has never been very well since. One was to stuff the hounds down her gullet one by one.

The local hunt had a little deer trouble a few years ago, because the dogs got to running these animals instead of foxes, and some of the members found they made better eating. Anyway, there must have been a spy or a game warden in the crowd, for the next thing there was hell to pay, and it looked as if some of the boys and girls might go to the sneezer for a while. The matter was settled for a fine that amounted to something like $16,000 as I recall it which made the venison more expensive than if they had ordered it in the Restaurant 21.

There are a lot of gadgets in connection with this sport. In the first place, you must have money and then dress a certain way. If they want the hounds to chase the fox, they don't holler — "Go on Fido," but "Yoicks." When you see the quarry, shout "View halloo." If you yell, "There goes the so-and-so now," you will be stripped of your uniform, thrown out and become a retired fox hunter.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

LAS VEGAS, Nev., (INS)—Somehow it was oddly comforting—when that bomb fizzled the other morning in the desert—to note that human frailty is still the true master of the world. Master even of as ferocious an example of the industrial age as a nuclear explosion.

Some Joe from the electrical union failed to tighten the widget that connects with the gadget that aggitates the dingbat that applies the punk to the fuse of the plutonium (first semi-stable element created by other than God).

So the thingamagig foofed off like a penny firecracker submerged in a rainy 4th of July. The whole involved and costly program fell down around the ankles of the earnest young atomic wizards and distinguished military people conducting history's first atomic war games.

They recalled later—when they appeared dog tired at a news conference, like the good sports they are—that when nothing happened atop the bomb tower their eyes sought one another's questioningly, and they said "but all the green lights changed to red and the thingmajig did the right nip-ups, and energy equals m. c. square."

But the Joe from the electrical union had got in his incompetent licks and there wasn't anything to do. Joe was somewhere back in Las Vegas looking for a dice table with good odds on a nine the hard way—three threes.

As one correspondent who "felt" for the frustrated atomic wizards said later, Joe had rigged up a Christmas tree's lights with one bad bulb, so none of them lighted up. That wasn't any rap against the three.

The men of science were so flabbergasted, or are so intrinsically honest, that they did not even try to alibi away their befuddlement, although they knew they'd soon have half a hundred querulous redeyed and unshaven correspondents breathing heavily upon them. They just said they muffed it. They might have said "boys, we called it off at the last minute because the transmutation of cirrus layers of aboreal framskans might well have fricaseed the North Star." For one, I would gladly have accepted that explanation with a knowing leer of a half-mast eyelid.

But getting back to human frailties' retention of the championship, the more aggressive conductors of these atomic tests announced shortly after the fizzle that Joe's bad wire would be spliced in a jiffy, that the reprieved test animals would be given a double tot of "Red Heart" and the test would go ahead on schedule the next day—same time, same atomic battlefield, same sponsor.

But the jaws of the 2,000 experts needed to conduct the test were drooping. They were sleepy after 30 hours in the field, just plain sleepy. Even the Nobel prize winning timber among the experts yawned just like other people. Can't very well split an atom—a rather small object—when you're pooped out, can you? So let's hit the sack, like we were tired plumbers.

Then there was the case of Charlie Clark. Ever hear of Charlie Clark? Neither did I until about 5 a. m. Friday morning at Cactus Springs, Nevada. Cactus Springs consists of a fine little filling station, a really good restaurant and curio shop, a few cabins, a horse that barrels through his wire coral every time an a-bomb goes off, a Dalmatian, a gentle little mama dog who is three-quarters coyote, and a wonderful couple named Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wilkinson. That's all, except that Jim used to be a big man with the United States Rubber Company, got fed up with strikes after he came out of the Navy, and came out this way to found not only the smallest town in America but the one closest to the biggest news on earth, our a-bomb tests.

Anyway, a car screeched into Cactus Springs, Nevada, at the aforesaid 5 a. m. Friday morning and scraped to a stop near the town's tallest structure—gas pump No. 2. Out jumped a man who saluted Jim respectfully and asked him if he had Charlie Clark staying with him in one of the cabins. Jim shook his head and the man wheezed unhappily.

"Charlie hasn't checked out of the bomb area," the man said. (It was expected to go off any moment.) Then he jumped back into his car and sped off into the night, searching for the needle that was Charlie Clark in the haystack of the gnarled mountains. Human beings still matter. So do their frailties. For example, the proprietor of a local gambling house nailed a big sign to his wall that night. It read:

"Forget the atom bomb — just shoot craps."

Girl Scouts To Open Course

The Girl Scout Organization is offering a course in Group Leadership to young women beginning tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the Girl Scout House, Greene Street.

Mrs. Roberta McFarland, local Girl Scout executive director, will give the course which is designed primarily for Girl Scout leaders and troop committee members, but which will include material for playground leaders, Sunday School teachers or club leaders of any group. There will be five sessions, as follows: Oct. 23, 1 to 3 p.m.; Oct. 30, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. (lunch); Nov. 13, trip to camp, and Nov. 20, 1 to 3 p.m.

The course will include discussions on what girls want and need; service to others; role of the volunteer leader; and program planning.

Members of the course will have a chance to participate in folk dancing, simple crafts, nature lore and group singing. A trip to the Girl Scout camp at Green Ridge has been planned where the group will learn the art of out-door cookery.

Anyone may enroll by calling the Girl Scout office, 4633.

Motion To Dismiss Estes Suit Filed

A motion to dismiss the suit filed by John L. Estes, this city, member of the Employment Security Board, against J. Millard Tawes, state comptroller, for a salary increase was docketed in Circuit Court here.

The motion was filed by William G. Walsh, who is acting as attorney for the comptroller.

The petition contends that the Allegany County court lacks the jurisdiction in this case and declares that the state comptroller cannot be sued in any other county other than Ann Arundel, in which the state capital is located.

Two weeks ago an answer to the suit, docketed by Paul M. Fletcher and W. Earle Cobey for Estes, was received here from the office of the Attorney General Hall Hammond.

Estes' suit declares that he was appointed to the state position in May and assumed office June 1.

However, the suit states, the General Assembly last spring ordered the State Salary Board to re-set the wage scale of the Employment Security Board members.

This the salary group did on July 3, raising the salary from $5,000 annually to $6,500. Estes declares that he was paid on the $5,000 basis during June, and during the first half of July received the $6,500 scale.

The second half wage was held up by Tawes, the suit contends, because the attorney general's office had ruled the $5,000 schedule still applied to the job held by Estes.

Estes contends he had no salary technically when he assumed office because of the action of the General Assembly ordering an increase.

A state law says the salary of a state employe cannot be increased or decreased during his term of office.

B&O President To Speak At CC Dinner Here Nov. 1

Col. Roy B. White, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, and chairman of the boards of directors of the Reading Co. and the Central Railroad of New Jersey, will be the guest of honor and only speaker at a Chamber of Commerce sponsored dinner November 1 at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club honoring the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad as one of Cumberland's leading industries.

Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Second National Bank and of the C. of C., will preside and introduce Col. White.

A similar public dinner sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce last May honored the Celanese Corporation and had Harold Blancke, Celanese president, as the only speaker.

These public dinner-meetings are a project of the C. of C. under Mr. Naughton's leadership to bring the heads of Cumberland industries into closer contact with representative groups of citizens, and to talk straight from the shoulder about mutual problems.

William H. Buchholtz, City Commissioner of Finance, is chairman of the membership activities committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner meeting. Others on the committee are Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., Tom. V. Litzenburg, Malcolm Campbell, James Orr, Thomas L. Keech, James B. Reinhart, Ward N. Hauger, Simon Rosenbaum, Ray F. Hammer and H. Clifford Spiker.

The dinner will get under way at 6:30 p.m. and reservations may be made starting today.

Col. White began his railroad career as an operator at Indianapolis in 1900 before he was 17 years old. He was a train dispatcher less than three years later and was promoted to chief train dispatcher at Indianapolis in 1908. At the age of 26 he was a division superintendent. On May 1, 1917 White had his first eastern assignment, becoming superintendent of the Philadelphia division. Then followed transfer to Baltimore as division superintendent, and promotion to be general superintendent of the Maryland District in 1921. He was serving as general manager of B & O New York properties and as senior vice president and then president of the Central of N. J. when he resigned to take the presidency of Western Union Telegraph Co. in 1933.

Col. White was elected president of the Baltimore and Ohio June 1, 1941. He continues as a member of the Western Union board of directors and is on the board of trustees for Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

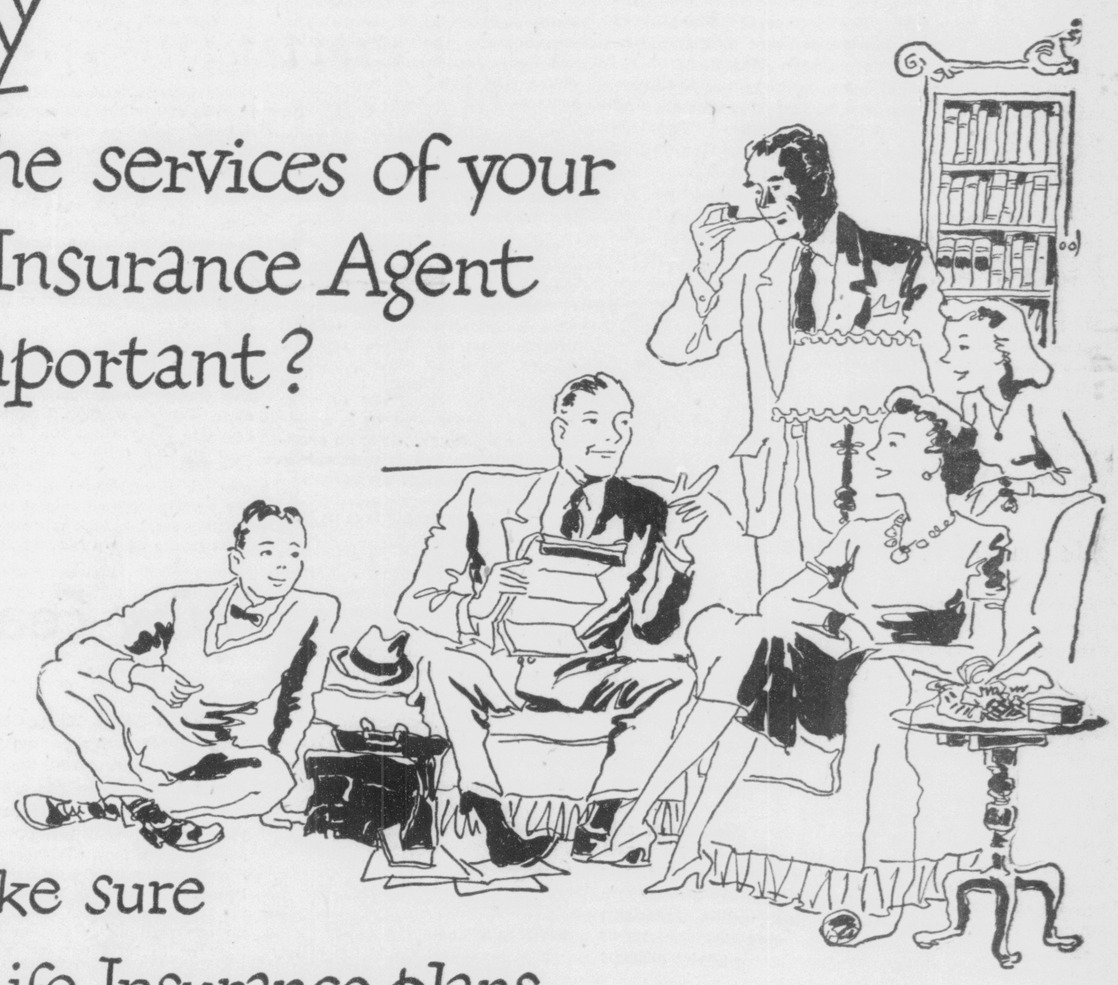
Why are the services of your Life Insurance Agent so important?



To make sure your Life Insurance plans continue to fit your needs and desires

Families have different incomes and varying needs for life insurance. Some have to support children. Others have the responsibility for aging parents. Some want to assure maximum protection for the family now, or plan for college for the youngsters. Still others want to provide for their own retirement years

These situations change throughout a person's lifetime.

At any time, you are entitled to call upon your life insurance agent and your company for the service you need to meet these changes.

Today more than 150,000 life insurance agents are qualified by training and experience to help you select and use life insurance effectively.

Your policies should be checked over at least every second year. This service is without extra charge. And both your life insurance company and your agent want you to make use of it. It is every policyholder's privilege.

America's 83 million policyholders, through life insurance, are making America a better place to work in and to live in. They are providing for the future of their families and themselves. Their life insurance dollars are invested all over the country. And their healthy habit of thrift is one of the nation's strongest bulwarks against inflation.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

LAS VEGAS, Nev., (INS)—Somehow it was oddly comforting—when that bomb fizzled the other morning in the desert—to note that human frailty is still the true master of the world. Master even of as ferocious an example of the industrial age as a nuclear explosion.

Some Joe from the electrical union failed to tighten the widget that connects with the gadget that aggitates the dingbat that applies the punk to the fuse of the plutonium (first semi-stable element created by other than God).

So the thingamagig foofed off like a penny firecracker submerged in a rainy 4th of July. The whole involved and costly program fell down around the ankles of the earnest young atomic wizards and distinguished military people conducting history's first atomic war games.

They recalled later—when they appeared dog tired at a news conference, like the good sports they are—that when nothing happened atop the bomb tower their eyes sought one another's questioningly, and they said "but all the green lights changed to red and the thingmajig did the right nip-ups, and energy equals m. c. square."

But the Joe from the electrical union had got in his incompetent licks and there wasn't anything to do. Joe was somewhere back in Las Vegas looking for a dice table with good odds on a nine the hard way—three threes.

As one correspondent who "felt" for the frustrated atomic wizards said later, Joe had rigged up a Christmas tree's lights with one bad bulb, so none of them lighted up. That wasn't any rap against the three.

The men of science were so flabbergasted, or are so intrinsically honest, that they did not even try to alibi away their befuddlement, although they knew they'd soon have half a hundred querulous red-eyed and unshaven correspondents breathing heavily upon them. They just said they muffed it. They might have said "boys, we called it off at the last minute because the transmutation of cirrus layers of aboreal framskans might well have fricaseed the North Star." For one, I would gladly have accepted that explanation with a knowing leer of a half-mast eyelid.

But getting back to human frailties' retention of the championship, the more aggressive conductors of these atomic tests announced shortly after the fizzle that Joe's bad wire would be spliced in a jiffy, that the reprieved test animals would be given a double tot of "Red Heart" and the test would go ahead on schedule the next day—same time, same atomic battlefield, same sponsor.

But the jaws of the 2,000 experts needed to conduct the test were drooping. They were sleepy after 30 hours in the field, just plain sleepy. Even the Nobel prize winning timber among the experts yawned just like other people. Can't very well split an atom—a rather small object—when you're pooped out, can you? So let's hit the sack, like we were tired plumbers.

Then there was the case of Charlie Clark. Ever hear of Charlie Clark? Neither did I until about 5 a. m. Friday morning at Cactus Springs, Nevada. Cactus Springs consists of a fine little filling station, a really good restaurant and curio shop, a few cabins, a horse that barrels through his wire coral every time an a-bomb goes off, a Dalmatian, a gentle little mama dog who is three-quarters coyote, and a wonderful couple named Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wilkinson. That's all, except that Jim used to be a big man with the United States Rubber Company, got fed up with strikes after he came out of the Navy, and came out this way to found not only the smallest town in America but the one closest to the biggest news on earth, our a-bomb tests.

Anyway, a car screeched into Cactus Springs, Nevada, at the aforesaid 5 a. m. Friday morning and scraped to a stop near the town's tallest structure—gas pump No. 2. Out jumped a man who saluted Jim respectfully and asked him if he had Charlie Clark staying with him in one of the cabins. Jim shook his head and the man wheezed unhappily.

"Charlie hasn't checked out of the bomb area," the man said. (It was expected to go off any moment.) Then he jumped back into his car and sped off into the night, searching for the needle that was Charlie Clark in the haystack of the gnarled mountains. Human beings still matter. So do their frailties. For example, the proprietor of a local gambling house nailed a big sign to his wall that night. It read:

"Forget the atom bomb — just shoot craps."

Girl Scouts To Open Course

The Girl Scout Organization is offering a course in Group Leadership to young women beginning tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the Girl Scout House, Greene Street.

Mrs. Roberta McFarland, local Girl Scout executive director, will give the course which is designed primarily for Girl Scout leaders and troop committee members, but which will include material for playground leaders, Sunday School teachers or club leaders of any group. There will be five sessions, as follows: Oct. 23, 1 to 3 p.m.; Oct. 30, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. (lunch); Nov. 13, trip to camp, and Nov. 20, 1 to 3 p.m.

The course will include discussions on what girls want and need; service to others; role of the volunteer leader; and program planning.

Members of the course will have a chance to participate in folk dancing, simple crafts, nature lore and group singing. A trip to the Girl Scout camp at Green Ridge has been planned where the group will learn the art of out-door cookery.

Anyone may enroll by calling the Girl Scout office, 4633.

Motion To Dismiss Estes Suit Filed

A motion to dismiss the suit filed by John L. Estes, this city, member of the Employment Security Board, against J. Millard Tawes, state comptroller, for a salary increase was docketed in Circuit Court here.

The motion was filed by William G. Walsh, who is acting as attorney for the comptroller.

The petition contends that the Allegany County court lacks the jurisdiction in this case and declares that the state comptroller cannot be sued in any other county other than Ann Arundel, in which the state capital is located.

Two weeks ago an answer to the suit, docketed by Paul M. Fletcher and W. Earle Cobey for Estes, was received here from the office of the Attorney General Hall Hammond.

Estes' suit declares that he was appointed to the state position in May and assumed office June 1.

However, the suit states, the General Assembly last spring ordered the State Salary Board to re-set the wage scale of the Employment Security Board members.

This the salary group did on July 3, raising the salary from $5,000 annually to $6,500. Estes declares that he was paid on the $5,000 basis during June, and during the first half of July received the $6,500 scale.

The second half wage was held up by Tawes, the suit contends, because the attorney general's office had ruled the $5,000 schedule still applied to the job held by Estes.

Estes contends he had no salary technically when he assumed office because of the action of the General Assembly ordering an increase.

A state law says the salary of a state employe cannot be increased or decreased during his term of office.

Jihad–The Holy War

The rising Moslem nationalism throughout the Middle East is being described as a kind of Jihad, or Holy War. Early reports from Pakistan indicated that the assassin of Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan was a religious fanatic urging holy war by Pakistan's Moslems against India's Hindus.

Ali Razmara, Irania npremier, was assassinated by extremists for going too slow on nationalizing the British oil concession, and King Abdullah of Jordan was killed by firebrands angered by his negotiations with Britain and his alleged cordiality to Israel. Other Western-oriented leaders have been the victims of mobs in Syria, Lebanon, Egypt, and anti-foreign sentiment seems to be on the rise in Iraq.

Aroused nationalists in Egypt would throw the British infidels out of their country, the Suez Canal Zone, the Sudan. Egypt is expected to bring before the UN General Assembly meeting at Paris in November charges that the new regime in Libya is little more than a British puppet state, also demands for the independence of French-governed Morocco. From his asylum in Egypt, the exiled Riff leader, Abd-el-Krim warns, "I am working for the independence of all North Africa, not just Morocco."

But except in Pakistan, the Moslem nationalistic pressures appear political rather than religious. Although Mohammedanism is no longer the state religion of Turkey, the majority of Turks are Moslems. Yet Turkey has eagerly cooperated with the West, and in the United Nations has maintained a course independent of Arab League policy. Saudi Arabia, another Moslem state, is friendly to the West.

Moreover, for centuries nationalistic feeling has split Islam. Mohammedans in Morocco, for example, recognize as caliph (religious leader) their sultan, "only living descendant of the prophet." Some Mohammedans recognize seven caliphs; others, 12.

The concept of the Jihad, or Holy War, emerged early in the development of Mohammedanism. Based on the religious obligation to disseminate the faith—either by persuasion or by the sword—it became almost a sixth commandment for the faithful.

The Persian and Byzantine empires were first to come under the control of Islam. In their second stage of expansion the Moslems controlled the Middle East and captured North Africa and Spain. Then the Abbaside empire stretched from the Atlantic Ocean to China.

For the true Moslem, resistance to the great Crusades of the 11th, 12th, and 13th Centuries was participation in holy war. The conquering Mongols of Genghis Khan became Moslemized and took the Moslem religion back to Mongolia with them.

The last of the great Islam empires was the Ottoman, which reached its peak in the 16th Century and survives today in the republic of Turkey. "The collapse of the jihad as a significant force," according to Babinger, "was made clear in 1914 when the Ottoman sultan in his capacity of caliph summoned the whole world to a holy war against the entente." The summons went unheeded. The Turks fought their holy war, but on the other side were Moslems enlisted as allies.

Rather than presaging a true holy war, the rising Moslem nationalism would appear part of a vast inter-continental revolt that emerged after World War I and gained impetus with World War II. Only thus can the nationalism of the Moslem states be related with that of India, Indo-China, China itself—as an anti-colonial rising of the have-nots against the haves. Viewed thus, a historical analogy would be the stries of revolutions by which the nations of Latin America threw off the Spanish yoke.

He Found No Friends

Ambassador Alan G. Kirk, who has just returned from Moscow, seems disappointed that the Russians did not embrace him as a kindred spirit. He went to Moscow in July, 1949, determined, he says, "to work unremittingly to better relations existing between our two nations" and to interpret the way Americans feel to the Russian people. Now he confesses failure.

Why he thought he could make a big hit with the Russians by "interpreting" the way Americans feel about them is something of a mystery. Or doesn't Kirk know how Americans feel about the Russians?

Kirk says he was permitted to take trips in the Soviet Union totaling 10,000 miles, more than any other American ambassador since the day Roosevelt started sending ambassadors to the Reds in 1933. His personal relations with Soviet officials have been superficially correct and cordial. But, unlike American ambassadors in non-bolshevik countries, he never found it possible to meet representative Soviet citizens on friendly or unofficial terms.

All that, of course, is an old story by now. Some time in the thirties, newspapermen and other souls who went to Moscow, in many instances, because they were sympathetic to communism, found their Russian friends dropping away. Former intimates would get in touch with them secretly and tearfully, to say: "Please don't try to communicate with me any more. It might be dangerous for both of us."

In the twenties and thirties, contacts between Russians and Americans were encouraged by Moscow. Russia even had an organization called Intourist to promote visits to Russia by non-Communists. Today only foreign Communists and persons approved by them enjoy such limited privileges in Russia. Ambassador Kirk seems to belong to the circle that longs for the good old days, and to be mystified by the change that has come over Russia.

But to persons who were never impressed by Russia or its government, there is no mystery. In the twenties and thirties Russian espionage was forced to adopt a friendly pose to obtain information and to bore from within. There was no Russian embassy in Washington, infested with Russian spies. There was no United Nations in New York, similarly infested.

When the portals to this country were opened to the Reds in 1933, this pose of friendship was no longer necessary. It would have been dropped completely sooner except for the war interlude, when a form of pretense had to be carried on by the Moscow Communists while this country saved Russia from Hitler.

But in those days the Red spies in the U. S. were busy as ever. There is no longer any doubt they were quite successful in ferreting out atomic secrets.

Removing Skin Bacteria

Antiseptics have undergone revolutionary changes in the last half century. Most of the old timers such as witch hazel and Pond's extract have been discarded because they failed to kill bacteria. More potent preparations, such as carbolic acid and strong iodine, met the same fate because they burned the tissues.

An amusing sidelight on the efficacy of an antiseptic agent centers about the criteria used in pronouncing the germ dead. After all, most micro-organisms never move even when alive and they have no heart to stop beating when the end finally comes. As a result it is not easy to determine whether a solution kills bacteria (bactericide) or stops growth and reproduction (bacteriostatic). Most laboratories rely upon culture media to make these tests.

It has been said that the perfect antiseptic never has been devised. The goal is the irrevocable destruction of 100 per cent of the bacteria on and in the human skin, without damaging the tissues. The effect should be quick and lasting Many come close to these standards and, for practical purposes, are so superior to the older products that comparison is impossible.

The latest type of antiseptic is a mixture of soap and the chemicals AT-7 or G-11. Numerous such preparations are on the market; they combine the mechanical action of soap in the removal or organisms with the antibacterial effect of chemical antiseptics. These compounds have the additional advantage of remaining on the skin for a longer time, resulting in a more prolonged action. Sodium, potassium, and ammonium soaps are good cleansing agents and have a certain amount of antibacterial action against various germs. The streptococcus, the staphylococcus, and the typhoid bacillus are exceptions. The newer cationic detergents also are superior antiseptics; the most useful of this group are the quarternary ammonium salts. The antibiotics such as penicillin, aureomycin, and terramycin are recent enough to be included among the modern products.

Ethyl alcohol, still popular as an antiseptic, is one of the most widely used for this purpose. It must be of the proper concentration, however, to be effective. The optimal concentration is 70 per cent by volume, which so often is sold in drug stores. Isopropyl alcohol is slightly more potent but twice as toxic as ethyl alcohol (if it should be taken by mouth). It is an excellent antiseptic and is used chiefly to disinfect needles, syringes, and instruments.

The oxidizing agents take us back many more years to the period when iodine, chlorine, and nascent oxygen were at the height of their popularity. These chemicals owed their success to their ability to liberate the above mentioned elements when applied locally. Tincture of iodine, chloramine, hydrogen peroxide, potassium permanganate, and sodium perborate belong in this general category. Many metals are capable of killing a variety of germs. They were of limited use and owed most of their popularity to the fact that the majority were nontoxic and nonirritating. Mercury and silver preparations held the center of the stage for a time.

TOMORROW: Scurvy; a vitamin C deficiency.

SWOLLEN LEG

Mrs. L. writes: Could the effects of a milk leg recur 22 years later? I had this trouble when my daughter was born and I recovered but now I notice that whenever I stand for any length of time, as in ironing, the involved leg becomes swollen and red spots appear on the skin.

REPLY

This is possible but there is a better chance that a new condition has developed. Examination is in order, as there are several causes of swelling of the legs.

BEDWETTING

Mrs. T. writes: At what age should bedwetting be considered abnormal?

REPLY

Many youngsters have dry nights beginning at the end of the first year but if bedwetting continues until the age of 4, it calls for investigation. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on enuresis.

GANGRENE ON BEDSORE

Mrs. A. writes: If a spot on a bedsore turns black, does this indicate gangrene?

REPLY

Yes, but gangrene in this type of lesion is only skin deep and healing is possible.

MORTALITY

F. T. writes: How many deaths occurred in the United States last year?

REPLY

One million 456 thousand. This means a rate of 9.6 per 1,000, the lowest ever recorded.

OTOSCLEROSIS

F. C. writes: Does otosclerosis cause head noises and dizziness?

REPLY

Yes. These symptoms often coexist with deafness and occasionally are so pronounced they overshadow the loss of hearing.

Jessup Debate Highlights Legislation By Fear; Newspaper Criticized For Way It Handled Story; Austin And Eisenhower Backed Up Jessup

WASHINGTON — Historians who evaluate the closing days of the 82nd Congress will probably make special note of the confirmation debate over Ambassador Philip Jessup because of two things:

1. It marked the high-water mark in this country of legislation through fear. Such senators as Gillette of Iowa and Smith of New Jersey were fully aware of the unfairness of the charges against Jessup but bowed to their fear of a small, intolerant, vociferous segment of the American public sometimes called McCarthyites.

2. It also marked a period when newspaper editors were criticizing the White House on freedom of the press, while one wing of the press seriously confused the public by distorting or suppressing important facts so necessary to a free press.

Unquestionably the timidity of certain senators was due in part to this confused and poorly informed state of public opinion. Unquestionably also the great majority of newsmen in this country are anxious to protect the truth of the press as well as its freedom; for without the first the second cannot survive.

Therefore, let's look at some of the facts in the Jessup hearing and see how brazenly some of them were twisted by certain publishers with political axes to grind. Take, as an example, the two biggest cities in the United States—New York and Chicago — and two newspaper groups that control a big slice of their circulation.

"World's Greatest Newspaper"

One is the "world's greatest newspaper," the Chicago Tribune, with a million circulation in the heart of the Midwest, which also controls the heaviest circulating newspaper in the U. S. A., the New York News (Sunday circulation 4,123,276), together with the Washington Times-Herald.

The other is the New York World-Telegram, published by Roy Howard, high-ranking Republican and bitter critic of the State Department, who also publishes 18 other papers from Pittsburgh to San Francisco and who is one of the largest stockholders in the United Press.

In contrast to the New York Times and the Herald Tribune, which were objective, here is how the World-Telegram lived up to its obligation of a free and truthful press in reporting the debate over Ambassador Jessup.

ON OCTOBER 7—Harold Stassen accused Ambassador Jessup of lying. Jessup had sworn under oath that he did not attend a White House conference at which cutting off aid to Chiang Kai-shek was discussed.

"This matter goes to the heart of the veracity of Jessup," Stassen insisted with great vigor. He stated that his memory of a conversation with the late Senator Vandenberg was "crystal clear;" that Vandenberg reported Jessup was present. Stassen demanded that Vandenberg's diary be produced.

Jessup Wasn't the Liar

ON OCT. 9 — The State Department showed senators confidential documents regarding conversations with other governments on the recognition of China. Even GOP Sen. Alexander Smith admitted that they showed Stassen to be wrong. Jessup had not favored recognition of Communist China.

This story, favorable to Jessup, the World-Telegram buried inside on Page 19—though failing to report that Republican Senator Smith supported Jessup on this point.

ON OCT. 10 — Warren Austin, a rock-ribbed ex-senator from Vermont, now ambassador to the United Nations, stated that U.N. records showed Jessup to have been in New York on the date Stassen claimed he was at the White House conference on Chinua. This completely refuted Stassen's charge that Jessup was a liar.

However, the World-Telegram, after playing up the Stassen charge on Page 1, buried Austin's refutation deep inside the paper, way back on Page 28.

ON OCT. 15—General Eisenhower confirmed Jessup's statement that on Feb. 5, 1949 the date of the White House conference on China, Jessup was in New York conferring with Eisenhower on extending his leave of absence from Columbia University. This again made Stassen the liar, not Jessup. The World-Telegram carried this on Page 5.

Vandenberg's Diary

Meanwhile, Senator Vandenberg's diary had been made public, showing that Jessup was not at the White House conference — despite Stassen's statement that his memory was "crystal clear." Stassen had also claimed: "This goes to the heart of the veracity of Jessup." But despite this, Stassen kept bringing new charges, while his friends on the World-Telegram kept on featuring them.

ON OCT. 11 — Stassen charged that Ambassador Jessup had urged recognition of Communist China at a State Deportment round-table discussion. He demanded that the record of the meeting be published. "Every factor in my recollection of the round-table meeting can be substantiated by the transcript," said the ex-governor of Minnesota.

NEXT DAY, OCT. 12 —The State Department promptly published the transcript. It showed Jessup had taken no part in the discussion, that the State Department actually had opposed recognition of Communist China, and that those favoring recognition were private citizens, led by business executives William Herod, president of the Export Branch of General Electric, and William A. Robertson of American and Foreign Power, one of the biggest utilities on Wall Street.

Despite this, the World-Telegram next day featured an editorial blasting the State Department. The same issue also carried United Press report that "Stassen offers new evidence against Jessup," together with a glowing feature story on Stassen's career from poor farm boy to governor of Minnesota under the headline: "Harold Stassen's career is a real-life Horatio Alger story."

The same issue also featured a glowing eulogy of Stassen's book, though it turned out to be a mere collection of Stassen quotations.

This is how one powerful publisher stacked the news for the American public, thus contributing to the confusion of the reader, the intimidation of the Senate, and the difficulty of the great majority of fair-minded publishers to champion the freedom of the press. The story of another powerful publisher will follow shortly.

Why Fear Inflation?

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 21—Most people worry at the wrong time; and worry about the wrong thing. A few years ago when no one was fearful of inflation, readers know I was continually warning against it. In fact, the Frederick A. Stokes Company of New York published in 1937 a book by me entitled "If Inflation Comes." At that time no one paid any attention to the book or to inflation; but recently the book has gone through 10 editions. People are now frightened about inflation.

People Usually Wrong

In 1937 the cost-of-living index was 10.3. Since then it has risen 80 per cent and average weekly earnings have risen 160 per cent. Now all the columnists are warning of inflation! It is just like the stock market. When stocks are cheap, as they were in 1932 and 1933, no one was interested in buying them; but in 1951 when they have risen 175 per cent and the Dow-Jones Average is up from 100 in 1933 to 275 today, people want to buy stocks.

I am not condoning inflation. It is bad. But there is no legitimate excuse for the increase in prices and the cost-of-living. If people had been worried about inflation in the thirties, as they are today, inflation would not have happened. It is just as bad now to fear inflation will "bust the country" as it was then to ignore it.

Look At The Record

After every great war, until now, there has been a decline in the cost-of-living. After the Civil War, 1861-1865, the cost-of-living gradually declined until 1896. After World War I, the cost-of-living, beginning in 1920, declined until it reached a low point in 1933. The cost-of-living then fluctuated for a few years and again increased during World War II. The natural thing would have been for it to be on the decline again today. If it followed the course of all previous wars, including the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and World War I, we would now have deflation instead of inflation.

The truth is that the present trend is contrary to previous economic history. Inflationary prices are due to organized labor, aided by the politicians reducing working hours. Labor leaders yell about the high cost-of-living and blame it on "inflation;" but they will not tell you the real cause for inflation. This is not necessarily a criticism of labor unions. I have always defended collective bargaining. The fact, nevertheless, remains that if the labor leaders had been reasonable, the cost-of-living would have gone down following World War II.

No Reason To Fear

The talk now is that the armament program will "bust the country;" but I don't believe this. Bankers point to the fact that an expenditure of $50 billion a year on armaments will either result in taxes so high that the people cannot stand them, or else will cause our government to get into terrible debt. The facts do not uphold this nonsensical talk. Labor leaders can solve the problem whenever they wish and this will not require a reduction in "take home" wages. Fifty billion dollars a year can be spent on armaments, the cost-of-living can be reduced, federal employes can continue to hold their jobs, the government can operate with a surplus, instead of a deficit, and taxes can be reduced by extending the working day from eight hours to 10 hours without a pay increase.

The total income of the country for 1951 will be about $275 billion. Of this amount about $175 billion will go to wageworkers on the basis of an eight-hour day. If we all worked two hours more—which would be no longer than our fathers worked — this would be equivalent to increasing production 25 per cent. This could solve our inflation problem and pay for all our military preparations. To talk about Russia waiting until our country is busted is the "bunk." Of course, we will sometime have another business depression for trying to get something for nothing; but if such threatens our existence, it can quickly be cured by all of us working longer and harder. By doing this now we would have Russia licked once and for all. No wonder the Communists and fellow travelers are urging labor to resist a longer work day.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Now, And Then

WASHINGTON

Perhaps the strangest characteristic of our time is the distortion of the sense of history. Because they uttered sentiments in wartime that were widely shard by irreproachable, church-going, Republican-voting, tax-paying, payroll-meeting citizens, unfortunate people are now hauled before Senatorial bars to answer the charge of pro-communism.

By way of contrast, a man like Philip Jessup, who took a thoroughly pernicious part in the "America First" movement, proudly drapes the "America First" mantle around his shoulders to prove that he is not a Communist. And far from suggesting that an extreme America-Firster may not have the kind of judgment needed for a post of high responsibility, everybody wags his head and says, "Ah, that's a strong point in Jessup's favor." The whole business has become nonsensical.

These reflections are inspired by this reporter's curious experience of sitting for long, weary hours, waiting to take his turn on the stand, while Robert Morris, counsel of Sen. McCarran's Subcommittee on Internal Security, grilled Henry A. Wallace on selected tiny morsels from the distant past. One of the main subjects of inquiry was a rather silly pamphlet Wallace wrote for the Institute of Pacific Relations in 1944, called "Our Job in the Pacific." Morris treated this unrepaying 10 cents worth as though it was a red-hot bomb, confected in the secret cellars of the Kremlin.

Implication Remained

The pamphlet did not mention American arms for the Chinese Communists. It did not mention coalition in China. Indeed, it did not even touch upon the Chinese Communists at all, while it included a glowingly laudatory reference to Chiang Kai-shek. These points were not remarked upon. The pamphlet was also anti-colonial in general tone. An American who sympathizes with colonies struggling to be free is not by definition pro-communist. Yet as far as this implication could be left upon the record, Morris left it.

The great point that Morris made, however, was that poor Wallace was pro-Communist in a series of waffling expressions of hope that the Soviets would be nice after the war. In brief, Wallace had written that the Russians had shown good faith by not previously interfering in Chinese affairs (which was wrong, since Marshal Stalin was the first to give active aid to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in the war against Japan). He had written further that he believed the Russians had no imperialist aspirations, and that he hoped the Russians, Chinese and Americans would all be able to co-operate cosily in the post-war world.

As Morris droned on with his accusatory questions, this reporter automatically sought distraction in an article in the well-known fellow-travelling publication, "Amerasia." This article turned out to contain generous quotations from two other papers, by the Morris system also by inference fellow-travelling, "Life" and "The New York Times." In the spring of 1944, the "Life" editorial had commented on an unusually venomous attack on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government by the Time-Life correspondent in China, Theodore Write. Reproducing a few of the more choice White epithets, the "Life" editors remarked:

Editorials Cited

"The U. S. cannot ignore the fact that if China's government should become a fascistic, power-hungry, repressive, landlords'-and-usurers' government, it is all too likely to get into trouble with Russia; whereas a government which stands for freedom, reform and international cooperation is not. Under no circumstances would the American people ever wish to be embroiled with the Soviet Union in a struggle in which they would feel politically on the wrong side."

This "Life" editorial, so closely paralleling Wallace, except that he was genial towards the Generalissimo, closed with the prediction that if the Chinese would only be "freedom-loving, progressive," there would be no trouble with the Soviets. As for the "New York Times," in the fall of 1944 its editorial page ringingly called upon President Roosevelt to "make it clear to Chiang that his prestige will be enhanced, not diminished, if he takes certain steps." Among these steps were ceasing to "hold a great part of (his armies) on guard duty against his political opponents (the Chinese Communists);" making "a genuine truce with the Chinese Communists;" and consenting "to take into his government members of the representative groups and parties."

Here, in the "New York Times," was strong stuff indeed. Here was open advocacy of several points that the eminent professional ex-Communist, Louis Budenz, had testified on oath belonged to the Communist party line. Here was worse than Wallace, with a vengeance. But who was on the stand? Why, Wallace of course, under charges of pro-communism. The reader can find his own language to characterize this sort of thing.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Limited Wars

At the present moment, the United States and varied allies, Northern Korea and Soviet China are fighting in Korea; the French are fighting a Communist force in French Indo-China and live in expectation of a Soviet Chinese force attacking them; India and Pakistan are on the verge of war over Cashmir; the British are preparing to meet the Suez question by military force if they are pressed to the wall; yet the whole world is supposed to be at peace.

Such an event as the seizure of the property of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company would, in the past, have provoked military intervention which could have led to a general war. The assassination of the Austrian archduke at Sarajevo was not of greater importance. Nor was the sinking of the battleship "Maine" historically more serious than the seizure of the Suez Canal.

But, the sinking of the "Maine" led to a limited war between the United States and Spain which ended Spain's colonial empire in America and Asia, and the shooting of the archduke produced World War I.

The fact of the matter seems to be that the great powers are war-weary and are prepared to accept peace, at this moment, on almost any terms short of invasion of their own territory. Great Britain, since Mary lost Calais (1558), has not accepted the umbrage meted out to her by the Moslems, and the United States, since the days of the Barbary Coast pirates (1800-1830), has not accepted such offenses as North Korea and Soviet China offer.

Yet, there is no general war. And although Nato is war-preparation and General Eisenhower's activities are aimed at Soviet Russia as a direct target, the response of the objective enemy has not been what might have been expected. Either Stalin is as war-weary as the Western world is or his industries have not served him amply or he is bidding his time as we are. Whatever the reason, the general war which in other eras came so readily, almost at the droop of a king's eyebrow, is held off.

From that standpoint, the fact that Sir Gladwyn Jebb and Dr. Mossadegh did come to the United Nations is of historic importance. In the "War of Jenkins' Ear," an obscure affair in the years 1739-1741, the British fought for much less than Dr. Mossadegh has done.

It is not necessary to be as brilliant an historian as Arnold Toynbee nor as great a statesman as Benjamin Disraeli to realize that we are living through a period of vast reorganization of political power, the emergence of new peoples, the resurrection of ancient nations and the shifting of the balances of authority from Europe to Asia. The process may take a century, even in these swift times, before stability reappears.

Usually, such eras as the age of Pericles in Greece or Agustus in Rome or Charlemange in Europe are at the end rather than at the beginning of a great upsurge of peoples. Genghis Khan, whose movement of races from Asia to Europe was not unlike the effort of Stalin to build an overwhelming empire in the Eurasian heartland, ushered in the pressures which disturbed the then known world from the Pacific to the Mediterranean Sea and the Indian Ocean. Amazingly similar is the area currently affected, except that the United States, then unknown, is now included.

And that makes the difference: for while all the world may be war-weary, the United States can produce in unlimited quantities and in novel forms munitions of war, food and clothing so that the human mass, so often the determining factor in war or peace, is less important.

The United States is only 150,000,000 persons and the so-called free world in Europe runs about 275,000,000, making an outside total, say, of 425,000,000. The Soviet world is roughly 800,000,000 and the Moslem world about 200,000,000. The remaining free peoples of Asia, apart from the Moslems, will run to perhaps 270,000,000.

In this unbalanced situation, the greatest factor is the production of weapons of death, their degree of effectiveness, and the capacity of industry to keep pace with death-dealing novelties. Equally important is the provisioning not only of armies but of civilian populations. Food takes on altogether a new aspect in total war because even if production were possible, distribution becomes very difficult.

The balance of power is obviously in Asia Minor among the Moslems. What they do with it will make the history of the next decades.

Jihad–The Holy War

The rising Moslem nationalism throughout the Middle East is being described as a kind of Jihad, or Holy War. Early reports from Pakistan indicated that the assassin of Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan was a religious fanatic urging holy war by Pakistan's Moslems against India's Hindus.

Ali Razmara, Irania npremier, was assassinated by extremists for going too slow on nationalizing the British oil concession, and King Abdullah of Jordan was killed by firebrands angered by his negotiations with Britain and his alleged cordiality to Israel. Other Western-oriented leaders have been the victims of mobs in Syria, Lebanon, Egypt, and anti-foreign sentiment seems to be on the rise in Iraq.

Aroused nationalists in Egypt would throw the British infidels out of their country, the Suez Canal Zone, the Sudan. Egypt is expected to bring before the UN General Assembly meeting at Paris in November charges that the new regime in Libya is little more than a British puppet state, also demands for the independence of French-governed Morocco. From his asylum in Egypt, the exiled Riff leader, Abd-el-Krim warns, "I am working for the independence of all North Africa, not just Morocco."

But except in Pakistan, the Moslem nationalistic pressures appear political rather than religious. Although Mohammedanism is no longer the state religion of Turkey, the majority of Turks are Moslems. Yet Turkey has eagerly cooperated with the West, and in the United Nations has maintained a course independent of Arab League policy. Saudi Arabia, another Moslem state, is friendly to the West.

Moreover, for centuries nationalistic feeling has split Islam. Mohammedans in Morocco, for example, recognize as caliph (religious leader) their sultan, "only living descendant of the prophet." Some Mohammedans recognize seven caliphs; others, 12.

The concept of the Jihad, or Holy War, emerged early in the development of Mohammedanism. Based on the religious obligation to disseminate the faith—either by persuasion or by the sword—it became almost a sixth commandment for the faithful.

The Persian and Byzantine empires were first to come under the control of Islam. In their second stage of expansion the Moslems controlled the Middle East and captured North Africa and Spain. Then the Abbaside empire stretched from the Atlantic Ocean to China.

For the true Moslem, resistance to the great Crusades of the 11th, 12th, and 13th Centuries was participation in holy war. The conquering Mongols of Genghis Khan became Moslemized and took the Moslem religion back to Mongolia with them.

The last of the great Islam empires was the Ottoman, which reached its peak in the 16th Century and survives today in the republic of Turkey. "The collapse of the jihad as a significant force," according to Babinger, "was made clear in 1914 when the Ottoman sultan in his capacity of caliph summoned the whole world to a holy war against the entente." The summons went unheeded. The Turks fought their holy war, but on the other side were Moslems enlisted as allies.

Rather than presaging a true holy war, the rising Moslem nationalism would appear part of a vast inter-continental revolt that emerged after World War I and gained impetus with World War II. Only thus can the nationalism of the Moslem states be related with that of India, Indo-China, China itself—as an anti-colonial rising of the have-nots against the haves. Viewed thus, a historical analogy would be the stries of revolutions by which the nations of Latin America threw off the Spanish yoke.

He Found No Friends

Ambassador Alan G. Kirk, who has just returned from Moscow, seems disappointed that the Russians did not embrace him as a kindred spirit. He went to Moscow in July, 1949, determined, he says, "to work unremittingly to better relations existing between our two nations" and to interpret the way Americans feel to the Russian people. Now he confesses failure.

Why he thought he could make a big hit with the Russians by "interpreting" the way Americans feel about them is something of a mystery. Or doesn't Kirk know how Americans feel about the Russians?

Kirk says he was permitted to take trips in the Soviet Union totaling 10,000 miles, more than any other American ambassador since the day Roosevelt started sending ambassadors to the Reds in 1933. His personal relations with Soviet officials have been superficially correct and cordial. But, unlike American ambassadors in non-bolshevik countries, he never found it possible to meet representative Soviet citizens on friendly or unofficial terms.

All that, of course, is an old story by now. Some time in the thirties, newspapermen and other souls who went to Moscow, in many instances, because they were sympathetic to communism, found their Russian friends dropping away. Former intimates would get in touch with them secretly and tearfully, to say: "Please don't try to communicate with me any more. It might be dangerous for both of us."

In the twenties and thirties, contacts between Russians and Americans were encouraged by Moscow. Russia even had an organization called Intourist to promote visits to Russia by non-Communists. Today only foreign Communists and persons approved by them enjoy such limited privileges in Russia. Ambassador Kirk seems to belong to the circle that longs for the good old days, and to be mystified by the change that has come over Russia.

But to persons who were never impressed by Russia or its government, there is no mystery. In the twenties and thirties Russian espionage was forced to adopt a friendly pose to obtain information and to bore from within. There was no Russian embassy in Washington, infested with Russian spies. There was no United Nations in New York, similarly infested.

When the portals to this country were opened to the Reds in 1933, this pose of friendship was no longer necessary. It would have been dropped completely sooner except for the war interlude, when a form of pretense had to be carried on by the Moscow Communists while this country saved Russia from Hitler.

But in those days the Red spies in the U. S. were busy as ever. There is no longer any doubt they were quite successful in ferreting out atomic secrets.

Editorialaraphs

In a short time this country will have a stockpile of 1,000 atomic bombs, it is alleged. This will be reassuring if they are not divided with Russia as were American ships and planes during the last war.

Removing Skin Bacteria

Antiseptics have undergone revolutionary changes in the last half century. Most of the old timers such as witch hazel and Pond's extract have been discarded because they failed to kill bacteria. More potent preparations, such as carbolic acid and strong iodine, met the same fate because they burned the tissues.

An amusing sidelight on the efficacy of an antiseptic agent centers about the criteria used in pronouncing the germ dead. After all, most micro-organisms never move even when alive and they have no heart to stop beating when the end finally comes. As a result it is not easy to determine whether a solution kills bacteria (bactericide) or stops growth and reproduction (bacteriostatic). Most laboratories rely upon culture media to make these tests.

It has been said that the perfect antiseptic never has been devised. The goal is the irrevocable destruction of 100 per cent of the bacteria on and in the human skin, without damaging the tissues. The effect should be quick and lasting Many come close to these standards and, for practical purposes, are so superior to the older products that comparison is impossible.

The latest type of antiseptic is a mixture of soap and the chemicals AT-7 or G-11. Numerous such preparations are on the market; they combine the mechanical action of soap in the removal or organisms with the antibacterial effect of chemical antiseptics. These compounds have the additional advantage of remaining on the skin for a longer time, resulting in a more prolonged action. Sodium, potassium, and ammonium soaps are good cleansing agents and have a certain amount of antibacterial action against various germs. The streptococcus, the staphylococcus, and the typhoid bacillus are exceptions. The newer cationic detergents also are superior antiseptics; the most useful of this group are the quarternary ammonium salts. The antibiotics such as penicillin, aureomycin, and terramycin are recent enough to be included among the modern products.

Ethyl alcohol, still popular as an antiseptic, is one of the most widely used for this purpose. It must be of the proper concentration, however, to be effective. The optimal concentration is 70 per cent by volume, which so often is sold in drug stores. Isopropyl alcohol is slightly more potent but twice as toxic as ethyl alcohol (if it should be taken by mouth). It is an excellent antiseptic and is used chiefly to disinfect needles, syringes, and instruments.

The oxidizing agents take us back many more years to the period when iodine, chlorine, and nascent oxygen were at the height of their popularity. These chemicals owed their success to their ability to liberate the above mentioned elements when applied locally. Tincture of iodine, chloramine, hydrogen peroxide, potassium permanganate, and sodium perborate belong in this general category. Many metals are capable of killing a variety of germs. They were of limited use and owed most of their popularity to the fact that the majority were nontoxic and nonirritating. Mercury and silver preparations held the center of the stage for a time.

TOMORROW: Scurvy; a vitamin C deficiency.

SWOLLEN LEG

Mrs. L. writes: Could the effects of a milk leg recur 22 years later? I had this trouble when my daughter was born and I recovered but now I notice that whenever I stand for any length of time, as in ironing, the involved leg becomes swollen and red spots appear on the skin.

REPLY

This is possible but there is a better chance that a new condition has developed. Examination is in order, as there are several causes of swelling of the legs.

BEDWETTING

Mrs. T. writes: At what age should bedwetting be considered abnormal?

REPLY

Many youngsters have dry nights beginning at the end of the first year but if bedwetting continues until the age of 4, it calls for investigation. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on enuresis.

GANGRENE ON BEDSORE

Mrs. A. writes: If a spot on a bedsore turns black, does this indicate gangrene?

REPLY

Yes, but gangrene in this type of lesion is only skin deep and healing is possible.

MORTALITY

F. T. writes: How many deaths occurred in the United States last year?

REPLY

One million 456 thousand. This means a rate of 9.6 per 1,000, the lowest ever recorded.

OTOSCLEROSIS

F. C. writes: Does otosclerosis cause head noises and dizziness?

REPLY

Yes. These symptoms often coexist with deafness and occasionally are so pronounced they overshadow the loss of hearing.

Jessup Debate Highlights Legislation By Fear; Newspaper Criticized For Way It Handled Story; Austin And Eisenhower Backed Up Jessup

WASHINGTON — Historians who evaluate the closing days of the 82nd Congress will probably make special note of the confirmation debate over Ambassador Philip Jessup because of two things:

1. It marked the high-water mark in this country of legislation through fear. Such senators as Gillette of Iowa and Smith of New Jersey were fully aware of the unfairness of the charges against Jessup but bowed to their fear of a small, intolerant, vociferous segment of the American public sometimes called McCarthyites.

2. It also marked a period when newspaper editors were criticizing the White House on freedom of the press, while one wing of the press seriously confused the public by distorting or suppressing important facts so necessary to a free press.

Unquestionably the timidity of certain senators was due in part to this confused and poorly informed state of public opinion. Unquestionably also the great majority of newsmen in this country are anxious to protect the truth of the press as well as its freedom; for without the first the second cannot survive.

Therefore, let's look at some of the facts in the Jessup hearing and see how brazenly some of them were twisted by certain publishers with political axes to grind. Take, as an example, the two biggest cities in the United States—New York and Chicago — and two newspaper groups that control a big slice of their circulation.

"World's Greatest Newspaper"

One is the "world's greatest newspaper," the Chicago Tribune, with a million circulation in the heart of the Midwest, which also controls the heaviest circulating newspaper in the U. S. A., the New York News (Sunday circulation 4,123,276), together with the Washington Times-Herald.

The other is the New York World-Telegram, published by Roy Howard, high-ranking Republican and bitter critic of the State Department, who also publishes 18 other papers from Pittsburgh to San Francisco and who is one of the largest stockholders in the United Press.

In contrast to the New York Times and the Herald Tribune, which were objective, here is how the World-Telegram lived up to its obligation of a free and truthful press in reporting the debate over Ambassador Jessup.

ON OCTOBER 7—Harold Stassen accused Ambassador Jessup of lying. Jessup had sworn under oath that he did not attend a White House conference at which cutting off aid to Chiang Kai-shek was discussed.

"This matter goes to the heart of the veracity of Jessup," Stassen insisted with great vigor. He stated that his memory of a conversation with the late Senator Vandenberg was "crystal clear;" that Vandenberg reported Jessup was present. Stassen demanded that Vandenberg's diary be produced.

The World-Telegram played up this story, critical of Jessup, on Page 1.

Jessup Wasn't the Liar

ON OCT. 9 — The State Department showed senators confidential documents regarding conversations with other governments on the recognition of China. Even GOP Sen. Alexander Smith admitted that they showed Stassen to be wrong. Jessup had not favored recognition of Communist China.

This story, favorable to Jessup, the World-Telegram buried inside on Page 19—though failing to report that Republican Senator Smith supported Jessup on this point.

ON OCT. 10 — Warren Austin, a rock-ribbed ex-senator from Vermont, now ambassador to the United Nations, stated that U.N. records showed Jessup to have been in New York on the date Stassen claimed he was at the White House conference on Chinua. This completely refuted Stassen's charge that Jessup was a liar.

However, the World-Telegram, after playing up the Stassen charge on Page 1, buried Austin's refutation deep inside the paper, way back on Page 28.

ON OCT. 15—General Eisenhower confirmed Jessup's statement that on Feb. 5, 1949 the date of the White House conference on China, Jessup was in New York conferring with Eisenhower on extending his leave of absence from Columbia University. This again made Stassen the liar, not Jessup. The World-Telegram carried this on Page 5.

Vandenberg's Diary

Meanwhile, Senator Vandenberg's diary had been made public, showing that Jessup was not at the White House conference — despite Stassen's statement that his memory was "crystal clear." Stassen had also claimed: "This goes to the heart of the veracity of Jessup." But despite this, Stassen kept bringing new charges, while his friends on the World-Telegram kept on featuring them.

ON OCT. 11 — Stassen charged that Ambassador Jessup had urged recognition of Communist China at a State Deportment round-table discussion. He demanded that the record of the meeting be published. "Every factor in my recollection of the round-table meeting can be substantiated by the transcript," said the ex-governor of Minnesota.

NEXT DAY, OCT. 12 —The State Department promptly published the transcript. It showed Jessup had taken no part in the discussion, that the State Department actually had opposed recognition of Communist China, and that those favoring recognition were private citizens, led by business executives William Herod, president of the Export Branch of General Electric, and William A. Robertson of American and Foreign Power, one of the biggest utilities on Wall Street.

Despite this, the World-Telegram next day featured an editorial blasting the State Department. The same issue also carried United Press report that "Stassen offers new evidence against Jessup," together with a glowing feature story on Stassen's career from poor farm boy to governor of Minnesota under the headline: "Harold Stassen's career is a real-life Horatio Alger story."

The same issue also featured a glowing eulogy of Stassen's book, though it turned out to be a mere collection of Stassen quotations.

This is how one powerful publisher stacked the news for the American public, thus contributing to the confusion of the reader, the intimidation of the Senate, and the difficulty of the great majority of fair-minded publishers to champion the freedom of the press. The story of another powerful publisher will follow shortly.

Why Fear Inflation?

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 21—Most people worry at the wrong time; and worry about the wrong thing. A few years ago when no one was fearful of inflation, readers know I was continually warning against it. In fact, the Frederick A. Stokes Company of New York published in 1937 a book by me entitled "If Inflation Comes." At that time no one paid any attention to the book or to inflation; but recently the book has gone through 10 editions. People are now frightened about inflation.

People Usually Wrong

In 1937 the cost-of-living index was 10.3. Since then it has risen 80 per cent and average weekly earnings have risen 160 per cent. Now all the columnists are warning of inflation! It is just like the stock market. When stocks are cheap, as they were in 1932 and 1933, no one was interested in buying them; but in 1951 when they have risen 175 per cent and the Dow-Jones Average is up from 100 in 1933 to 275 today, people want to buy stocks.

I am not condoning inflation. It is bad. But there is no legitimate excuse for the increase in prices and the cost-of-living. If people had been worried about inflation in the thirties, as they are today, inflation would not have happened. It is just as bad now to fear inflation will "bust the country" as it was then to ignore it.

Look At The Record

After every great war, until now, there has been a decline in the cost-of-living. After the Civil War, 1861-1865, the cost-of-living gradually declined until 1896. After World War I, the cost-of-living, beginning in 1920, declined until it reached a low point in 1933. The cost-of-living then fluctuated for a few years and again increased during World War II. The natural thing would have been for it to be on the decline again today. If it followed the course of all previous wars, including the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and World War I, we would now have deflation instead of inflation.

The truth is that the present trend is contrary to previous economic history. Inflationary prices are due to organized labor, aided by the politicians reducing working hours. Labor leaders yell about the high cost-of-living and blame it on "inflation;" but they will not tell you the real cause for inflation. This is not necessarily a criticism of labor unions. I have always defended collective bargaining. The fact, nevertheless, remains that if the labor leaders had been reasonable, the cost-of-living would have gone down following World War II.

No Reason To Fear

The talk now is that the armament program will "bust the country;" but I don't believe this. Bankers point to the fact that an expenditure of $50 billion a year on armaments will either result in taxes so high that the people cannot stand them, or else will cause our government to get into terrible debt. The facts do not uphold this nonsensical talk. Labor leaders can solve the problem whenever they wish and this will not require a reduction in "take home" wages. Fifty billion dollars a year can be spent on armaments, the cost-of-living can be reduced, federal employes can continue to hold their jobs, the government can operate with a surplus, instead of a deficit, and taxes can be reduced by extending the working day from eight hours to 10 hours without a pay increase.

The total income of the country for 1951 will be about $275 billion. Of this amount about $175 billion will go to wageworkers on the basis of an eight-hour day. If we all worked two hours more—which would be no longer than our fathers worked — this would be equivalent to increasing production 25 per cent. This could solve our inflation problem and pay for all our military preparations. To talk about Russia waiting until our country is busted is the "bunk." Of course, we will sometime have another business depression for trying to get something for nothing; but if such threatens our existence, it can quickly be cured by all of us working longer and harder. By doing this now we would have Russia licked once and for all. No wonder the Communists and fellow travelers are urging labor to resist a longer work day.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Now, And Then

WASHINGTON

Perhaps the strangest characteristic of our time is the distortion of the sense of history. Because they uttered sentiments in wartime that were widely shard by irreproachable, church-going, Republican-voting, tax-paying, payroll-meeting citizens, unfortunate people are now hauled before Senatorial bars to answer the charge of pro-communism.

By way of contrast, a man like Philip Jessup, who took a thoroughly pernicious part in the "America First" movement, proudly drapes the "America First" mantle around his shoulders to prove that he is not a Communist. And far from suggesting that an extreme America-Firster may not have the kind of judgment needed for a post of high responsibility, everybody wags his head and says, "Ah, that's a strong point in Jessup's favor." The whole business has become nonsensical.

These reflections are inspired by this reporter's curious experience of sitting for long, weary hours, waiting to take his turn on the stand, while Robert Morris, counsel of Sen. McCarran's Subcommittee on Internal Security, grilled Henry A. Wallace on selected tiny morsels from the distant past. One of the main subjects of inquiry was a rather silly pamphlet Wallace wrote for the Institute of Pacific Relations in 1944, called "Our Job in the Pacific." Morris treated this unrepaying 10 cents worth as though it was a red-hot bomb, confected in the secret cellars of the Kremlin.

Implication Remained

The pamphlet did not mention American arms for the Chinese Communists. It did not mention coalition in China. Indeed, it did not even touch upon the Chinese Communists at all, while it included a glowingly laudatory reference to Chiang Kai-shek. These points were not remarked upon. The pamphlet was also anti-colonial in general tone. An American who sympathizes with colonies struggling to be free is not by definition pro-communist. Yet as far as this implication could be left upon the record, Morris left it.

The great point that Morris made, however, was that poor Wallace was pro-Communist in a series of waffling expressions of hope that the Soviets would be nice after the war. In brief, Wallace had written that the Russians had shown good faith by not previously interfering in Chinese affairs (which was wrong, since Marshal Stalin was the first to give active aid to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in the war against Japan). He had written further that he believed the Russians had no imperialist aspirations, and that he hoped the Russians, Chinese and Americans would all be able to co-operate cosily in the post-war world.

As Morris droned on with his accusatory questions, this reporter automatically sought distraction in an article in the well-known fellow-travelling publication, "Amerasia." This article turned out to contain generous quotations from two other papers, by the Morris system also by inference fellow-travelling, "Life" and "The New York Times." In the spring of 1944, the "Life" editorial had commented on an unusually venomous attack on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government by the Time-Life correspondent in China, Theodore Write. Reproducing a few of the more choice White epithets, the "Life" editors remarked:

Editorials Cited

"The U. S. cannot ignore the fact that if China's government should become a fascistic, power-hungry, repressive, landlords'-and-usurers' government, it is all too likely to get into trouble with Russia; whereas a government which stands for freedom, reform and international cooperation is not. Under no circumstances would the American people ever wish to be embroiled with the Soviet Union in a struggle in which they would feel politically on the wrong side."

This "Life" editorial, so closely paralleling Wallace, except that he was genial towards the Generalissimo, closed with the prediction that if the Chinese would only be "freedom-loving, progressive," there would be no trouble with the Soviets. As for the "New York Times," in the fall of 1944 its editorial page ringingly called upon President Roosevelt to "make it clear to Chiang that his prestige will be enhanced, not diminished, if he takes certain steps." Among these steps were ceasing to "hold a great part of (his armies) on guard duty against his political opponents (the Chinese Communists);" making "a genuine truce with the Chinese Communists;" and consenting "to take into his government members of the representative groups and parties."

Here, in the "New York Times," was strong stuff indeed. Here was open advocacy of several points that the eminent professional ex-Communist, Louis Budenz, had testified on oath belonged to the Communist party line. Here was worse than Wallace, with a vengeance. But who was on the stand? Why, Wallace of course, under charges of pro-communism. The reader can find his own language to characterize this sort of thing.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Limited Wars

At the present moment, the United States and varied allies, Northern Korea and Soviet China are fighting in Korea; the French are fighting a Communist force in French Indo-China and live in expectation of a Soviet Chinese force attacking them; India and Pakistan are on the verge of war over Cashmir; the British are preparing to meet the Suez question by military force if they are pressed to the wall; yet the whole world is supposed to be at peace.

Such an event as the seizure of the property of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company would, in the past, have provoked military intervention which could have led to a general war. The assassination of the Austrian archduke at Sarajevo was not of greater importance. Nor was the sinking of the battleship "Maine" historically more serious than the seizure of the Suez Canal.

But, the sinking of the "Maine" led to a limited war between the United States and Spain which ended Spain's colonial empire in America and Asia, and the shooting of the archduke produced World War I.

The fact of the matter seems to be that the great powers are war-weary and are prepared to accept peace, at this moment, on almost any terms short of invasion of their own territory. Great Britain, since Mary lost Calais (1558), has not accepted the umbrage meted out to her by the Moslems, and the United States, since the days of the Barbary Coast pirates (1800-1830), has not accepted such offenses as North Korea and Soviet China offer.

Yet, there is no general war. And although Nato is war-preparation and General Eisenhower's activities are aimed at Soviet Russia as a direct target, the response of the objective enemy has not been what might have been expected. Either Stalin is as war-weary as the Western world is or his industries have not served him amply or he is bidding his time as we are. Whatever the reason, the general war which in other eras came so readily, almost at the droop of a king's eyebrow, is held off.

From that standpoint, the fact that Sir Gladwyn Jebb and Dr. Mossadegh did come to the United Nations is of historic importance. In the "War of Jenkins' Ear," an obscure affair in the years 1739-1741, the British fought for much less than Dr. Mossadegh has done.

It is not necessary to be as brilliant an historian as Arnold Toynbee nor as great a statesman as Benjamin Disraeli to realize that we are living through a period of vast reorganization of political power, the emergence of new peoples, the resurrection of ancient nations and the shifting of the balances of authority from Europe to Asia. The process may take a century, even in these swift times, before stability reappears.

Usually, such eras as the age of Pericles in Greece or Agustus in Rome or Charlemange in Europe are at the end rather than at the beginning of a great upsurge of peoples. Genghis Khan, whose movement of races from Asia to Europe was not unlike the effort of Stalin to build an overwhelming empire in the Eurasian heartland, ushered in the pressures which disturbed the then known world from the Pacific to the Mediterranean Sea and the Indian Ocean. Amazingly similar is the area currently affected, except that the United States, then unknown, is now included.

And that makes the difference: for while all the world may be war-weary, the United States can produce in unlimited quantities and in novel forms munitions of war, food and clothing so that the human mass, so often the determining factor in war or peace, is less important.

The United States is only 150,000,000 persons and the so-called free world in Europe runs about 275,000,000, making an outside total, say, of 425,000,000. The Soviet world is roughly 800,000,000 and the Moslem world about 200,000,000. The remaining free peoples of Asia, apart from the Moslems, will run to perhaps 270,000,000.

In this unbalanced situation, the greatest factor is the production of weapons of death, their degree of effectiveness, and the capacity of industry to keep pace with death-dealing novelties. Equally important is the provisioning not only of armies but of civilian populations. Food takes on altogether a new aspect in total war because even if production were possible, distribution becomes very difficult.

The balance of power is obviously in Asia Minor among the Moslems. What they do with it will make the history of the next decades.

Potomac State Dedicates New Science Hall

Dr. J. M. Foggs Is Principal Speaker

KEYSER, W. Va.—Dr. John M. Foggs, Jr., Philadelphia, told Potomac State School students and faculty members Saturday that "this is an age of science, as well as a day of specialization."

Dr. Foggs, who is vice provost of University of Pennsylvania and head of university's science department, was speaker at the dedication of the new science hall at the local college.

William H. Ansel, Jr., state treasurer, Charleston, made the presentation address in formally turning the new building over to the school, and E. G. Otey, Bluefield, president of the Board of Governors, West Virginia University, accepted the building on behalf of Potomac State School and the university.

Ansel, a native of this section of the state, attended the local college.

The general program was presented by Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State, who introduced some of the visitors to the school for the dedication from other parts of the state. The invocation was given by Joseph C. Gluck, director of student affairs at West Virginia University.

A ceremony in which "The Lamp of Light" and Learning" was used, was impressively given under leadership of Dean Kirkland S. McKee, who opened the ceremony by lighting the lamp from a five tapered candelabra, denoting the five stages of the school's life to date.

After giving the 50th anniversary commemoration he called on Lester R. Reynolds, grandson of Judge Francis M. Reynolds, who framed the bill which provided for the establishment of the school.

He then called to the stage representatives of various graduating classes of the school.

Among the guests introduced by Dr. Church were C. T. Neff, Jr., vice president of the University Board of Governors; Dr. A. A. Reese, University Science department; Dr. Howard L. Briggs, representing Frostburg State Teachers College; L. D. Smith, architect for the new Science Hall; Edwin M. Steckel, director of the Oglebay Institute, Wheeling; John I. Rogers, Mineral County member of the House of Delegates; Dr. O. S. Ikenberry, president of Shepherd College, Shepherdstown; Dean John Pence. Fairmont State Teachers College; Prof. William Long of West Virginia State College, and W. A. Thornton, registrar at West Virginia University Technology College.

Music was furnished before and after the program by the Potomac State Orchestra under direction of Carl J. Peterson. Singing of the National Anthem and of the college Alma Mater was led by Miss Frances Sarullo of Potomac State music department.

Luncheon followed at 12:30 p. m. in the new Science Hall with 150 invited guests present.

Miss Joyce Nelson was elected Miss Catamount XIII between halves of the Potomac State-Concord College football game Saturday afternoon. She reigned at a Homecoming Ball in the evening.

Bruce High Plans Spotlight Dance

WESTERNPORT — The annual Spotlight Dance will be held in the auditorium of Bruce High School from 8 to 11 p. m. Friday.

Miss Spotlight V will be crowned by Principal John W. Fisher and a grand march and floor show will follow. Music for dancing will be by the Cornets.

The candidates for Miss Spotlight include Jeanne Nofsinger, Delores Barnard, Barbara Haywood, Gilda Cosner, Marlene Nichols, Lois Kesecker, Velma Wright and Geraldine Morehead.

The Queen's escort will be chosen from Erwin Berry, James Devine, Kenneth Smith, Robert McIntyre, Eugene Ferguson, Thomas Smith, Louis Complesi and James Wilkinson.

Bowen Promoted By School Patrol

BARTON—At a recent meeting of the Barton High School Patrol, James Bowen, 5th Grade student, was promoted to lieutenant because of added responsibilities in his duties. He will substitute for Captain Bobby Andrews when needed.

Kenneth Derham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Derham, was added as a patrolman on the Mill Run bus, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Norman Kyle.

Tri-Towns Briefs

Mt. Carmel Encampment No. 7, IOOF, will hold a public card party Thursday, November 1 at 8 p. m. in the social room of the Westernport Tea Room. Five hundred, setback, bridge and canasta will be played.

A public card party will be held by Victory Unit No. 155, American Legion Auxiliary, Friday, November 2 at 8 p. m. at the Legion Home, Westernport. Setback and 500 will be played.

Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 16, Westernport, will hold a Halloween party Thursday at 7:30 p. m. All members are asked to wear masks. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served.

The Young Ladies Bible Class of Trinity Methodist Church, Piedmont, will hold its annual Halloween masked party Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Hugh Wilson, 303 Fairview Street, Luke. Mrs. Avelino Diaz will be co-hostess.

College To Give 12-Week Courses; Meeting Tonight

KEYSER, W. Va. — An organizational meeting for all persons interested in Potomac State School's second Adult Education program will be held at 7 p. m. today in the auditorium of the Administration Building. Registration for classes will take place at this time.

The program will be for 12 weeks and will consist of Bible, (a study of the Old Testament), bird study, child development, conservation of renewable resources, practical and current economics, geography, human physiology, marriage and family relations, music appreciation, community orchestra, recreation, cultural heritage (humanities), welding, engineering drawing and white print reading, typing, shorthand, office machines, accounting, arithmetic, beginning chemistry, elementary and practical electricity, English grammar, first aid, home economics, modern languages, public speaking and trigonometry.

These courses, and any other suggested courses the college is able to offer, will be given, provided there is a sufficient number of persons enrolled in each course.

The enrollment fee is $15 a course, with an additional $3 laboratory fee for home economics. Classes will meet one night a week, for two or three hours.

Lonaconing GOP Club Celebrates

LONACONING—James Park, Republican State Central Committee member, was master of ceremonies at the Lonaconing Republican club's eighth anniversary celebration.

Guest speakers included Mayor Virgil Alexander, Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney, Walter Abbott, Judge of Orphans Court; Edgar M. Lewis, assistant chairman of Republican State Central Committee; Charles M. See, Estel C. Kelley, Fred B. Driscoll, members of the Maryland House of Delegates; J. Milton Dick, trial magistrate, and John B. Elliott, president of the local club.

Mrs. Nelson Humes was chairman of the refreshment committee, assisted by Mrs. Margaret McCormick, Mrs. Jean Thompson and Mrs. Bessie Beeman. A dance followed the turkey dinner. Over 350 persons attended.

Plans were made for a Halloween dance October 30.

Wheeling Shrine Women Honored

KEYSER, W. Va. — The Big Four Ladies Oriental Shrine Club entertained three visitors from Wheeling district of Isis Court of North America at a recent dinner at the Shrine clubrooms. The visitors were Lady Davis, Marion, Ohio, high priestess of Isis Court; Lady Worfuel, past grand high priestess, and Lady Schambra, a past high priestess who is treasurer of Isis Court.

Lady McDaniel, president of the Keyser club, opened the meeting, with Lady Grant leading group singing. Lady Derham, Westernport, gave the invocation.

Lady Davis presented a report based on the work being done by members of the shrine in the five crippled children's hospitals located at various points in the United States. She also demonstrated the sewing done by Isis Court for the crippled children. Lady Shear gave a humorous reading and this was followed by group singing, which closed the meeting.

Two members of the Keyser group, Lady Sligar and Lady McDaniels, entertained for the visitors at their respective homes.

Scouters Recommend Kooken For Post

WESTERNPORT — V. Browne Kooken was recommended for the position of district commissioner of the Boy Scouts at a recent meeting of the Tri-Towns District Scouters at the Odd Fellow's Hall. Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, district chairman, presided.

Okey Michael, chairman of the board of review, presented a report of the monthly meeting and reports on Cider Sunday and the Fall Roundup at Claysville, W. Va., were also given.

Plans for the Senior Scout trip to the National Girl Scout Camp at Bethesda were discussed.

Local cub leaders were invited to attend a cub leaders meeting at Grace Methodist Church, Keyser, W. Va., today at 7:30 p. m.

Luke Research Chemist Retires

LUKE—Dr. Francis G. Rawling, research chemist at the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, has retired.

He has been located here since 1930 and had previously been employed here from 1916 to 1924.

Dr. and Mrs. Rawling have gone to Delray Beach, Fla., to spend the winter.

Twins Join Navy

KEYSER, W. Va.—Conald Walter and Ronald Austin Rogers, 20-year-old twins, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gratton W. Rogers, Route 3, Keyser, have enlisted in the Navy for four years as seaman recruits.

They were transferred to the Naval Training Center at Bainbridge to complete basic training, according to Chief Teddy M. Beckham, local recruiter. Before enlisting they were employed in the local A. & P. Store.

Two Criminal Cases Scheduled In Keyser Court

16-Year-Old Youth Faces Arson Charge

KEYSER, W. Va.—Two cases from the criminal calendar of Mineral County Circuit Court are set for hearing today before Judge Ernest A. See.

Lewis Bernard Baker 16-year-old boy charged with four counts of arson, will be tried on one indictment today. The bill charges him with attempt to destroy by fire the tower of the Upper Potomac Television Company on a hill at Piedmont.

The other case is that of the State vs. Francis M. Hamilton, Lonaconing, indicted on a charge of soliciting business for a legal firm in Philadelphia in violation of the laws of West Virginia.

The case involves an alleged attempt to have Mrs. Virginia Miller, this county, engage Nathanial B. Richter, an attorney of the Philadelphia firm, to file suit against the B&O Railroad Company on a negligence charge in the death of her husband, an employe of the company who was fatally injured in an accident.

There are three other cases pending against Baker, these indictments being postponed until after disposition of Indictment No. 1.

Judge See spent most of Thursday and Friday dealing with chancery and juvenile matters. He granted six divorce decrees to:

WSCS To Mark "Quiet Day"

KEYSER, W. Va.—The WSCS of Grace Methodist Church met Thursday evening at the church, with Mrs. Claude Martin presiding. The October division had charge of the program.

Taking part were Mrs. Russell Arnold, division leader, Mrs. James Reese, Mrs. Carl Broome, Mrs. Morgan Bane, Mrs. Justin Arnold, Mrs. Elliot Jenkins, Mrs. Walter Cross, Mrs Kenneth Junkins, and Miss Virginia Jenkins.

At the business meeting, Mrs. Frank Snider announced that a "quiet day" during the "Week of Prayer and Self-denial" would be held on October 31 at 1:30 p. m., with Mrs. A. V. Gallion and the fellowship committee serving tea. The program for the "Week of Prayer" will be held in conjunction with First Methodist Church at First Church on October 29.

Potomac State Dedicates New Science Hall

Dr. J. M. Foggs Is Principal Speaker

KEYSER, W. Va.—Dr. John M. Foggs, Jr., Philadelphia, told Potomac State School students and faculty members Saturday that "this is an age of science, as well as a day of specialization."

Dr. Foggs, who is vice provost of University of Pennsylvania and head of university's science department, was speaker at the dedication of the new science hall at the local college.

William H. Ansel, Jr., state treasurer, Charleston, made the presentation address in formally turning the new building over to the school, and E. G. Otey, Bluefield, president of the Board of Governors, West Virginia University, accepted the building on behalf of Potomac State School and the university.

Ansel, a native of this section of the state, attended the local college.

The general program was presented by Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State, who introduced some of the visitors to the school for the dedication from other parts of the state. The invocation was given by Joseph C. Gluck, director of student affairs at West Virginia University.

A ceremony in which "The Lamp of Light" and Learning" was used, was impressively given under leadership of Dean Kirkland S. McKee, who opened the ceremony by lighting the lamp from a five tapered candelabra, denoting the five stages of the school's life to date.

After giving the 50th anniversary commemoration he called on Lester R. Reynolds, grandson of Judge Francis M. Reynolds, who framed the bill which provided for the establishment of the school.

He then called to the stage representatives of various graduating classes of the school.

Among the guests introduced by Dr. Church were C. T. Neff, Jr., vice president of the University Board of Governors; Dr. A. A. Reese, University Science department; Dr. Howard L. Briggs, representing Frostburg State Teachers College; L. D. Smith, architect for the new Science Hall; Edwin M. Steckel, director of the Oglebay Institute, Wheeling; John I. Rogers, Mineral County member of the House of Delegates; Dr. O. S. Ikenberry, president of Shepherd College, Shepherdstown; Dean John Pence, Fairmont State Teachers College; Prof. William Long of West Virginia State College, and W. A. Thornton, registrar at West Virginia University Technology College.

Music was furnished before and after the program by the Potomac State Orchestra under direction of Carl J. Peterson. Singing of the National Anthem and of the college Alma Mater was led by Miss Frances Sarullo of Potomac State music department.

Luncheon followed at 12:30 p. m. in the new Science Hall with 150 invited guests present.

Miss Joyce Nelson was elected Miss Catamount XIII between halves of the Potomac State-Concord College football game Saturday afternoon. She reigned at a Homecoming Ball in the evening.

WESTERNPORT—The dances for teenagers have been resumed at the home of Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, after a two-months recess.

Mrs. Katherine McGiboney, guidance teacher at Bruce High School, and Howard Blackburn, commander of Victory Post, spoke to the 300 teenagers present at a recent meeting.

The dances will be held each Monday from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m.

NEW ROAD SIGN—The Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, noting that 11 deer were killed by automobiles last summer in the Cumberland area alone, is urging motorists to be particularly careful in watching for game on the highways. Although Maryland has no record of animal traffic fatalities, Pennsylvania kept a check last year in seven counties. The total was 20,081 dead wild birds and animals, including 11,727 rabbits and 142 deer.

Guardsmen Plan Drill Exhibit In Frostburg

Will Hold Open House Tomorrow

FROSTBURG — A model drill will be conducted and an open house held tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. by Company D, 115th Infantry Regiment, Maryland National Guard, according to Capt. Gerald Reeves, commanding officer. The double event will be held in St Michael's Hall.

Capt. Reeves said the event is for the purpose of acquainting the public with what goes on at a typical "drill" and to express the unit's appreciation to citizens of Frostburg for their interest in the current recruiting program.

In charge of instruction on the heavy machine gun will be M/Sgt. Donald Lloyd and Lt. Francis J Allen. Lt. Robert M. Andres and M/Sgt. Harry Hitchins will conduct classes on the 81 mm mortar.

Sgt. First Class Anthony W. McKenzie and Sgt. John A. Woods will explain the workings of one of the infantry's newest support weapons, the 75 mm recoilless rifle.

This class will include the outstanding feature of the rifle, the reasons why the "doughboy's cannon" does not kick when it fires a shell from a small tripod.

Capt. Reeves stated parents of unit members and interested young men are especially welcome to the drill and open house. Concluding the program will be refreshments for everyone.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21 (INS)—Just before James ("South Pacific") Michener took off for India and Singapore to finish his new novel, he sold the film rights to his current book, "Return To Paradise."

The purchasers are Mark Robson and Robert Wise, two of Hollywood's up and coming young directors. Robson just finished "I Want You," and Wise directed the much discussed "The Day The Earth Stood Still."

Michener, who will share in the profits, has agreed to do the adaptation of two stories from "Return To Paradise," "Mr. Morgan" and "Until They Sail." Robson will make the former in Canton Island in the Pacific, and Wise the latter in New Zealand.

The story Producer Mort Briskin tells about his film, "The Magic Face" is as baffling as any mystery ever written.

He says he made "The Magic Face," which is a satire on Hitler, in Austria, and after it was finished he sent it to American Ambassador Walter J. Donnelly, and the president of Austria for approval. Ten days ago it was air mailed back to Briskin, but in place of the film, old newspapers had been substituted in the package.

The U. S. Secret Service is interested enough to get to work on the mystery. One solution is that the stolen print may have been smuggled behind the iron curtain and the satire distorted to make America seem pro-Nazi in sympathy.

Briskin also says "No Time For Flowers" an anti-Communist comedy, which likewise had been shipped from Vienna, had 18 scenes dealing with Stalin cut out by some unknown person.

Errol Flynn has returned from his hurried trip to New York and Ruth Roman has him. I mean on the screen in "Mara Maru." That is, Ruth will have Errol after she finishes "Young Man In A Hurry" at MGM. Flynn, himself, reports for work at Warners today.

Jack Warner, who felt Ruth was right for the role, has to wait for Ruth, however, until she is finished later this week at MGM. Then she'll have to hot foot it to the Burbank studio. This is Ruth's twelfth picture in two years. She's a hard working gal.

Mario Lanza has dieted so strenuously to look romantic for his picture, "Because You're Mine," that he is run down. Furthermore, he has a thyroid condition. So his doctors say he cannot work for three or four weeks.

That means Lanza's picture is postponed. The sad part is that Mario still has to whittle off a few more pounds to be as attractive as he was in "The Great Caruso."

Meanwhile, Lanza's leading lady, Doretta Morrow, who was to be here next week, has been told to stay right with "The King And I" company in New York until she is further notified.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Betsy Von Furstenberg received a call from Nicky Hilton asking her to fly to Houston. MGM said no—she has an important test today. Your guess is as good as mine. I'd have sworn a few days ago that Nicky and Liz Taylor were reconciling.

Gene Tierney, who has been bedded the past week in the Argentine with virus and unable to work, is being taken care of by the personal physician to Dictator Juan Peron.

Mrs. Broderick Crawford, who joined Brod on his trip east, flies back to Hollywood to be with her two children. But the reconciliation did take place all right. Brod has to tour for a few weeks before he rejoins Mrs. Crawford.

Marlene Dietrich and Yul Brynner, who can't be considered romantically inclined, since he and his wife have reconciled, still enjoy dancing together. They were glimpsed the other night at the Stork Club.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

No space for exercising? Try this one-chair, all-figure exercise that's designed to answer your needs!

SECRETS OF CHARM

Not every women who says she can't exercise because of too little time or too little space is doing a bit of falsifying to ease her conscience. I suppose there are some woman who lead such busy lives that they can't even spare ten minutes each morning and night for the sake of their figure beauty. They couldn't all be goldbrickers!

And there's many a good, figure-contouring gymnastic that takes a deal more space than can be found in some of the modern apartments. But the "no-room-to-exercise" excuse will hold less water in the future for any of you who read this column today.

Waistline Threat

Here's a Powers Girl figure trimmer that can be performed with little more room than is required for you and just one chair. And it's a whole figure work-out at that! Want to try it?

Stand profile about two feet away from an armless chair. Place the heel of one foot on the chair so that the leg is completely straight. Raise both arms overhead and lock your thumbs. Now, twisting in the waist, bend and try to touch your hands to your raised foot. Never mind if you can't quite make it. Stretch, stretch and stretch toward your toe—that's what counts. Repeat five times, relax for a moment; then move to the other side of the chair and start over with the opposite leg. When you're through your waistline will know that you're watching it!

Hips Away!

Next, give your hips some attention. Stand to one side of the chair and hold on to the back with one hand. Bend the knee that is farthest from the chair sharply upward and swing it outward to the side as far as possible. Swing it back to forward position and then kick the leg out behind you to its full extension. Keep your chest up and your back straight. By maintaining good posture during any standing exercise you will hasten results. Perform this exercise ten times with each leg for one week and increase to twenty times on each side at your own speed.

Now, who says she hasn't room to exercise?

Tomorrow: Grace for legs and feet.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21 (INS)—Just before James ("South Pacific") Michener took off for India and Singapore to finish his new novel, he sold the film rights to his current book, "Return To Paradise."

The purchasers are Mark Robson and Robert Wise, two of Hollywood's up and coming young directors. Robson just finished "I Want You," and Wise directed the much discussed "The Day The Earth Stood Still."

Michener, who will share in the profits, has agreed to do the adaptation of two stories from "Return To Paradise," "Mr. Morgan" and "Until They Sail." Robson will make the former in Canton Island in the Pacific, and Wise the latter in New Zealand.

The story Producer Mort Briskin tells about his film, "The Magic Face" is as baffling as any mystery ever written.

He says he made "The Magic Face," which is a satire on Hitler, in Austria, and after it was finished he sent it to American Ambassador Walter J. Donnelly, and the president of Austria for approval. Ten days ago it was air mailed back to Briskin, but in place of the film, old newspapers had been substituted in the package.

The U. S. Secret Service is interested enough to get to work on the mystery. One solution is that the stolen print may have been smuggled behind the iron curtain and the satire distorted to make America seem pro-Nazi in sympathy.

Briskin also says "No Time For Flowers" an anti-Communist comedy, which likewise had been shipped from Vienna, had 18 scenes dealing with Stalin cut out by some unknown person.

Errol Flynn has returned from his hurried trip to New York and Ruth Roman has him. I mean on the screen in "Mara Maru." That is, Ruth will have Errol after she finishes "Young Man In A Hurry" at MGM. Flynn, himself, reports for work at Warners today.

Jack Warner, who felt Ruth was right for the role, has to wait for Ruth, however, until she is finished later this week at MGM. Then she'll have to hot foot it to the Burbank studio. This is Ruth's twelfth picture in two years. She's a hard working gal.

• — • — •

Mario Lanza has dieted so strenuously to look romantic for his picture, "Because You're Mine," that he is run down. Furthermore, he has a thyroid condition. So his doctors say he cannot work for three or four weeks.

That means Lanza's picture is postponed. The sad part is that Mario still has to whittle off a few more pounds to be as attractive as he was in "The Great Caruso."

Meanwhile, Lanza's leading lady, Doretta Morrow, who was to be here next week, has been told to stay right with "The King And I" company in New York until she is further notified.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Betsy Von Furstenberg received a call from Nicky Hilton asking her to fly to Houston. MGM said no—she has an important test today. Your guess is as good as mine. I'd have sworn a few days ago that Nicky and Liz Taylor were reconciling.

Gene Tierney, who has been bedded the past week in the Argentine with virus and unable to work, is being taken care of by the personal physician to Dictator Juan Peron.

Mrs. Broderick Crawford, who joined Brod on his trip east, flies back to Hollywood to be with her two children. But the reconciliation did take place all right. Brod has to tour for a few weeks before he rejoins Mrs. Crawford.

Marlene Dietrich and Yul Brynner, who can't be considered romantically inclined, since he and his wife have reconciled, still enjoy dancing together. They were glimpsed the other night at the Stork Club.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

No space for exercising? Try this one-chair, all-figure exercise that's designed to answer your needs!

SECRETS OF CHARM

Not every women who says she can't exercise because of too little time or too little space is doing a bit of falsifying to ease her conscience. I suppose there are some woman who lead such busy lives that they can't even spare ten minutes each morning and night for the sake of their figure beauty. They couldn't all be goldbrickers!

And there's many a good, figure-contouring gymnastic that takes a deal more space than can be found in some of the modern apartments. But the "no-room-to-exercise" excuse will hold less water in the future for any of you who read this column today.

Waistline Threat

Here's a Powers Girl figure trimmer that can be performed with little more room than is required for you and just one chair. And it's a whole figure work-out at that! Want to try it?

Stand profile about two feet away from an armless chair. Place the heel of one foot on the chair so that the leg is completely straight. Raise both arms overhead and lock your thumbs. Now, twisting in the waist, bend and try to touch your hands to your raised foot. Never mind if you can't quite make it. Stretch, stretch and stretch toward your toe—that's what counts. Repeat five times, relax for a moment; then move to the other side of the chair and start over with the opposite leg. When you're through your waistline will know that you're watching it!

Hips Away!

Next, give your hips some attention. Stand to one side of the chair and hold on to the back with one hand. Bend the knee that is farthest from the chair sharply upward and swing it outward to the side as far as possible. Swing it back to forward position and then kick the leg out behind you to its full extension. Keep your chest up and your back straight. By maintaining good posture during any standing exercise you will hasten results. Perform this exercise ten times with each leg for one week and increase to twenty times on each side at your own speed.

Now, who says she hasn't room to exercise?

Tomorrow: Grace for legs and feet.

Dr. Christian Celebrates His Fifteenth

Another anniversary, the 15th, has rolled around for the good gray country Doctor Christian, one of the perennial wonders of radio. Gee, how time flies. It seems like only yesterday that Dr. Christian, who as any fool knows, is just an alias for Jean Hersholt, performed an appendectomy with a kitchen knife on the son of a fisherman.

John Crosby

That was Mr. Hersholt's first radio operation; it was his first program, as a matter of fact, and it took place in November 1937. It was an afternoon soap opera in those days; today it still has a lot of soap in its ears but it has for for many years been an evening half-hour program (CBS 8:30 p. m. EST Wednesdays) which gives it the illustration of respectability. In 15 years, Dr. Hersholt — he's got so many honorary degrees that it's disrespectful to address him as mister —has carved up ailing citizens by the hundredweight, all within sound of a microphone.

• — • — •

The program claims an audience of 11,000,000 people which is a lot of people. It's a rather curious audience, composed in large part of the chronically sick or disabled whose interest in medical matters is probably a little deeper than that of the rest of us. As a rule, the medical profession is a tough thing to write about, the doctors scrutinizing every syllable with grave distrust. This doesn't apply to Hersholt. Doctors, especially country doctors which is what he plays in Dr. Christian, have taken him to their heart and even write him and ask for solutions to their problems, a new twist on an old relationship. Many of them have gone out to see him in Hollywood.

The reason for this acceptance is simply that medicine is pretty largely avoided except in the most general terms. Dr. Christian dispenses a lot of other things besides pills — psychiatry, marital advice, heart balm, philosophy — and in these fields the doctors allow free rein. The rainfall on Dr. Christian sometimes is pretty heavy.

The program bills itself as written by the audience which is slightly misleading. Anyone can take a crack at writing a Dr. Christian script and by now, most everyone has. The amateurs win more often than the professionals and frequently are so stimulated by their prizes — anywhere from $250 to $2,000 — that they enter what is sometimes erroneously referred to as the writing game in place of genuinely useful employment and are miserable for the rest of their lives.

• — • — •

First of the $2,000 prizes way back 15 years ago went to a man named John League Oberg who now writes for movies and television and probably has a full quota of ulcers. A girl named Eleanor Tarshis, now associate producer and director on "One Man's Family," used her $2,000 for an operation to restore her eyesight, a plot idea that could easily have been used on Dr. Christian, and for all I know, may have been.

Naturally, the out-pourings of these prize-hungry novitiates — they're not always youngsters—are not anything you could confuse with literature. On the fifteenth anniversary, the story, a fairly typical one, concerned a married couple whose young dreams had soured terribly. He had wanted to be a lawyer but the war had torn him from law school and deposited him, after a suitable interval of service, on a farm where his wife slaved from morning till night, growing no younger. They had wanted six children but an auto accident washed maternity out of her future forever. So, in their ninth anniversary, she decided to divorce him.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SELF-CONTROL MAY PAY

TAKING positive action at the first opportunity is a characteristic of most good players. But there is another type of competitor who favors keeping his batteries masked for a while to create an illusion of weakness, even when able to do something definite on his first turn. Following either extreme plan as a steady policy can be unwise. The very best players vary their tactics. Sometimes one of these divergent methods pays dividends, sometimes the other.

2. Pass	Pass	1 ♦	2 ♣
2 ♠	Dbl

Self-control paid dividends to East at Table 1 on this occasion in a duplicate tournament. It resulted in his side doubling spades at one level higher than where East got into the auction on his initial turn. At a majority of tables the final contract was some number of spades, doubled by West. Since eight tricks were taken in each case, the 2-Spades declarers made their doubled contracts, whereas the 3-Spades declarers were beaten a trick doubled.

The height of the final contract determined the difference between top score and bottom score at each of the tables where spade contracts were attempted. There was one case of a 3-Clubs contract by East, who was not doubled. He managed to get beaten a trick to give his pair a medium score, a goodly distance from either top or bottom.

Where spades were trumps, a club lead started the play and the defenders followed their trick in that suit with three more, one of them with the heart K, one with the ruff of a heart and two regular trump tricks. If there was some way for South to build an end-play to make a 3-Spades contract, none of the declarers found it.

Dr. Christian Celebrates His Fifteenth

Another anniversary, the 15th, has rolled around for the good gray country Doctor Christian, one of the perennial wonders of radio. Gee, how time flies. It seems like only yesterday that Dr. Christian, who as any fool knows, is just an alias for Jean Hersholt, performed an appendectomy with a kitchen knife on the son of a fisherman.

John Crosby

That was Mr. Hersholt's first radio operation; it was his first program, as a matter of fact, and it took place in November 1937. It was an afternoon soap opera in those days; today it still has a lot of soap in its ears but it has for for many years been an evening half-hour program (CBS 8:30 p. m. EST Wednesdays) which gives it the illustration of respectability. In 15 years, Dr. Hersholt — he's got so many honorary degrees that it's disrespectful to address him as mister —has carved up ailing citizens by the hundredweight, all within sound of a microphone.

• — • — •

The program claims an audience of 11,000,000 people which is a lot of people. It's a rather curious audience, composed in large part of the chronically sick or disabled whose interest in medical matters is probably a little deeper than that of the rest of us. As a rule, the medical profession is a tough thing to write about, the doctors scrutinizing every syllable with grave distrust. This doesn't apply to Hersholt. Doctors, especially country doctors which is what he plays in Dr. Christian, have taken him to their heart and even write him and ask for solutions to their problems, a new twist on an old relationship. Many of them have gone out to see him in Hollywood.

The reason for this acceptance is simply that medicine is pretty largely avoided except in the most general terms. Dr. Christian dispenses a lot of other things besides pills — psychiatry, marital advice, heart balm, philosophy — and in these fields the doctors allow free rein. The rainfall on Dr. Christian sometimes is pretty heavy.

The program bills itself as written by the audience which is slightly misleading. Anyone can take a crack at writing a Dr. Christian script and by now, most everyone has. The amateurs win more often than the professionals and frequently are so stimulated by their prizes — anywhere from $250 to $2,000 — that they enter what is sometimes erroneously referred to as the writing game in place of genuinely useful employment and are miserable for the rest of their lives.

• — • — •

First of the $2,000 prizes way back 15 years ago went to a man named John League Oberg who now writes for movies and television and probably has a full quota of ulcers. A girl named Eleanor Tarshis, now associate producer and director on "One Man's Family," used her $2,000 for an operation to restore her eyesight, a plot idea that could easily have been used on Dr. Christian, and for all I know, may have been.

Naturally, the out-pourings of these prize-hungry novitiates — they're not always youngsters—are not anything you could confuse with literature. On the fifteenth anniversary, the story, a fairly typical one, concerned a married couple whose young dreams had soured terribly. He had wanted to be a lawyer but the war had torn him from law school and deposited him, after a suitable interval of service, on a farm where his wife slaved from morning till night, growing no younger. They had wanted six children but an auto accident washed maternity out of her future forever. So, in their ninth anniversary, she decided to divorce him.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SELF-CONTROL MAY PAY

TAKING positive action at the first opportunity is a characteristic of most good players. But there is another type of competitor who favors keeping his batteries masked for a while to create an illusion of weakness, even when able to do something definite on his first turn. Following either extreme plan as a steady policy can be unwise. The very best players vary their tactics. Sometimes one of these divergent methods pays dividends, sometimes the other.

2 ♠	Pass	Pass	3 ♣
3 ♠	Dbl
2. Pass	Pass	1 ♦	2 ♣
2 ♠	Dbl

Self-control paid dividends to East at Table 1 on this occasion in a duplicate tournament. It resulted in his side doubling spades at one level higher than where East got into the auction on his initial turn. At a majority of tables the final contract was some number of spades, doubled by West. Since eight tricks were taken in each case, the 2-Spades declarers made their doubled contracts, whereas the 3-Spades declarers were beaten a trick doubled.

The height of the final contract determined the difference between top score and bottom score at each of the tables where spade contracts were attempted. There was one case of a 3-Clubs contract by East, who was not doubled. He managed to get beaten a trick to give his pair a medium score, a goodly distance from either top or bottom.

Where spades were trumps, a club lead started the play and the defenders followed their trick in that suit with three more, one of them with the heart K, one with the ruff of a heart and two regular trump tricks. If there was some way for South to build an end-play to make a 3-Spades contract, none of the declarers found it.

Leonardo da Vinci, The Artist, Also Was Great Inventor; Foresaw Many Scientific Wonders Of This Modern Age

By CHARLES E. LYONS
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—Mention the name of Leonardo da Vinci and most people think of the "Mona Lisa" and "The Last Supper."

Few indeed see the towering figure of Renaissance art as a great pioneer in science and invention, many of whose discoveries heralded modern-day inventions.

The sketches of his inventions in such fields as mechanics, hydraulics, engineering and aerology have come alive in a New York exhibit of scale models of his work.

Wooden and metal models were painstakingly constructed from the sketches by a Da Vinci scholar, Italian-born Dr. Roberto Guatelli, who has devoted the greater part of 20 years to studying the scientific contributions of Da Vinci.

Exhibit To Tour Country

The exhibit, the property of the International Business Machines Corp., will soon start a nationwide tour of IBM establishments. It will go to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York next year for the observance of Da Vinci's 500th birthday anniversary.

Da Vinci's work in invention reveals this amazing man, born in 1452, to have been hundreds of years ahead of his time. His sketches include such items as a triple-tiered machine gun that looks like three rows of cannons, an air conditioner, a spring-driven self-propelled car and a tank that looked like a movable fort.

He also designed a bat-like flying machine, a cone-shaped parachute, a lens grinder, rotating bridge useful to prevent enemy crossings, a system of pulleys which were the forerunner of today's block and tackle, a printing press, a steam gun, a revolving stage, coin stamper and a self-propelled ship.

He Studied The Heart

Da Vinci also worked in mathematics and architecture, geology and geography, anatomy and botany. He made detailed studies of the work of the heart and left sketches showing the functions of muscles. A hundred years before Galileo's work Da Vinci noted that "the sun does not move."

Probably no man in history was gifted in the same degree in both art and science as Leonardo, born the illegitimate son of a wealthy lawyer in the town of Vinci, Italy.

It would almost seem that Da Vinci had the 20th Century in mind in some of his inventions. He designed a two-level bridge to accommodate heavy traffic — one level for pedestrians and the other for vehicles. He also invented a gadget for lifting weights that looks remarkably like today's automobile jack.

The dark-haired 41-year-old Dr. Guatelli, little more than five feet tall, was graduated from the University of Milan in 1929 and earned his doctorate in science two years later.

In constructing the models, Dr. Guatelli had his work cut out for him. Some of Da Vinci's manuscripts were practically undecipherable because he wrote lefthanded and backhanded. Only Dr. Guatelli's knowledge of his native tongue and great patience made the work possible.

Proportions Perfect

The sketches contained no dimensions and, in most cases, Dr. Guatelli was the first to build from them. The proportions of the sketches are so perfect that he could work from them alone.

Dr. Guatelli first built the models for a 1938 exhibit for the Italian government. The next year part of the exhibit was displayed at the former Museum of Science and Industry at Rockefeller Center, New York.

He took the exhibit to Japan where it was completely destroyed during the war in a heavy bombing attack. Guatelli spent almost two years in a Jap concentration camp.

Starting from scratch again, Dr. Guatelli and his attractive blonde wife, Florence, built this set of models by themselves in the cellar of their Brooklyn home. Many of the parts were made by Dr. Guatelli himself.

The first woman editor of a women's labor paper was Harriet Farley of the Lowell Offering in 1844.

Millions To Shift To Defense Jobs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Secretary of Labor Tobin predicted today that 4,500,000 more workers will be shifted to defense jobs in the next year.

In a new booklet outlining the results of a survey on manpower and partial mobilization, Tobin said 2,000,000 additional defense workers will be needed by the end of 1951. By the end of 1952 the nation will have 8,500,000 persons engaged in defense activity compared with 2,700,000 in 1950, the secretary estimated.

The report, prepared by the Bureau of Employment Security, emphasized that the full impact of the defense program is still ahead.

"Much of defense industry is still in the planning and tooling-up state," it said.

"On an over-all national basis, the manpower needs of the limited military production program, currently envisioned, can be met," Tobin said. "However, a multitude of spot problems involving individual areas, industries, and occupations are likely to arise before peak employment is achieved.

"Over the next year a growing number of cities and communities will experience labor shortages but no nationwide shortage of workers is anticipated under the partial defense mobilization program."

Spending And Taxing Congress Adjourns

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — A big spending, heavy taxing Congress adjourned its 1951 session last night. The lawmakers will reconvene Jan. 8.

Congress increased taxes by $5,691,000,000 annually. Among other things, it appropriated $56,900,000,000 for the military and an additional $7,329,000,000 for a program of military and economic aid for foreign nations not under Soviet domination.

All told, Congress appropriated more than $90,000,000,000 in the 10 months it was in session.

Davis Subpoenaed By Senate Group On Arrival In U. S.

BOSTON, Oct. 21 (AP) —A Senate subcommittee agent served a subpoena tonight on Charles E. Davis, 23, when he arrived here by plane from Switzerland where he was convicted of espionage.

The subpoena was served on the Pasadena, Calif., negro by James M. Fitzpatrick, assistant counsel for the Senate subcommittee on privileges and elections.

Davis was convicted by a Swiss federal court and ordered deported after he testified he had furnished information to an agent of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) in an attempt to discredit John Carter Vincent, former U. S. minister to Switzerland.

The Senate subcommittee is considering a resolution designed to remove McCarthy from the Senate.

Sleepwalker Forced To Drop Three Floors

BOSTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—A sleepwalker wakened today to find himself hanging by his fingers from his third floor room.

Francis Curran, 34, told police there was nothing else to do but drop 35-feet to the ground when no one answered his outcries. He suffered a fractured leg and multiple lacerations.

A patrolman found Curran unconscious and nude below the window.

Cates To Give Up Post As Marines' Leader

HONOLULU, Oct. 21 (AP) — Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps, said today he expected to give up his post as commandant when his term expires Jan. 1, but that he would not retire from the service.

The 58-year-old top leatherneck landed at Barbers Point Naval Air Station this morning en route to Korea on a battle front inspection tour.

Actress Ida Lupino Wed To Howard Duff

GLENBROOK, Nev., Oct. 21 (AP)—Film Star Ida Lupino and Actor Howard Duff were married here late today and started a one-day honeymoon before returning to work in Hollywood.

The ceremony was performed by District Judge Clark J. Guild, who only yesterday granted the British-born actress a divorce from Movie Producer Collier H. Young.

Royal Couple To Rest At Exclusive Lodge

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 21 (AP)—When Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip go to the exclusive Eagle's Crest lodge on Vancouver Island this Tuesday. Wednesday and Thursday they'll be virtually alone.

At least, as alone as royalty ever can get.

News association men and newspapermen hereabouts have agreed to cooperate on those three days and not pop out of the woodwork—or the scenic woods—while Elizabeth and Philip gain a rest at the mid way point of their round-trip cross-Canada tour.

They've agreed to rely on official handouts only on the idyll of the prince and princess.

Spending And Taxing Congress Adjourns

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — A big spending, heavy taxing Congress adjourned its 1951 session last night. The lawmakers will reconvene Jan. 8.

Congress increased taxes by $5,691,000,000 annually. Among other things, it appropriated $56,900,000,000 for the military and an additional $7,329,000,000 for a program of military and economic aid for foreign nations not under Soviet domination.

All told, Congress appropriated more than $90,000,000,000 in the 10 months it was in session.

Davis Subpoenaed By Senate Group On Arrival In U. S.

BOSTON, Oct. 21 (AP) —A Senate subcommittee agent served a subpoena tonight on Charles E. Davis, 23, when he arrived here by plane from Switzerland where he was convicted of espionage.

The subpoena was served on the Pasadena, Calif., negro by James M. Fitzpatrick, assistant counsel for the Senate subcommittee on privileges and elections.

Davis was convicted by a Swiss federal court and ordered deported after he testified he had furnished information to an agent of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) in an attempt to discredit John Carter Vincent, former U. S. minister to Switzerland.

The Senate subcommittee is considering a resolution designed to remove McCarthy from the Senate.

Sleepwalker Forced To Drop Three Floors

BOSTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—A sleepwalker wakened today to find himself hanging by his fingers from his third floor room.

Francis Curran, 34, told police there was nothing else to do but drop 35-feet to the ground when no one answered his outcries. He suffered a fractured leg and multiple lacerations.

A patrolman found Curran unconscious and nude below the window.

Cates To Give Up Post As Marines' Leader

HONOLULU, Oct. 21 (AP) — Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps, said today he expected to give up his post as commandant when his term expires Jan. 1, but that he would not retire from the service.

The 58-year-old top leatherneck landed at Barbers Point Naval Air Station this morning en route to Korea on a battle front inspection tour.

Actress Ida Lupino Wed To Howard Duff

GLENBROOK, Nev., Oct. 21 (AP)—Film Star Ida Lupino and Actor Howard Duff were married here late today and started a one-day honeymoon before returning to work in Hollywood.

The ceremony was performed by District Judge Clark J. Guild, who only yesterday granted the British-born actress a divorce from Movie Producer Collier H. Young.

Royal Couple To Rest At Exclusive Lodge

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 21 (AP)—When Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip go to the exclusive Eagle's Crest lodge on Vancouver Island this Tuesday. Wednesday and Thursday they'll be virtually alone.

At least, as alone as royalty ever can get.

News association men and newspapermen hereabouts have agreed to cooperate on those three days and not pop out of the woodwork—or the scenic woods—while Elizabeth and Philip gain a rest at the midway point of their round-trip cross-Canada tour.

They've agreed to rely on official handouts only on the idyll of the prince and princess.

Fort Hill-Hagerstown Game Heads District Grid Card

Schools Clash In 16th Annual Battle Friday

Game Set For Local Stadium; Allegany Visits Martinsburg

Fort Hill's 16th meeting with Hagerstown which brings together two of Western Maryland's outstanding football "master minds"—William P. Hahn and Mel Henry — will be staged Friday night at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

It's the No. 1 game of the week in the tri-state area and should attract one of the season's largest crowds.

Fort Hill has won five and lost one while the Hub City eleven boasts a 4-1-1 record, including a 19-0 decision over Allegany. The Sentinels whipped Martinsburg 28-7 while Hagerstown defeated the Bulldogs 26-6. Hagerstown's loss was at the hands of Gettysburg 6-0. Fort Hill bowed to Linsly of Wheeling, 14-13.

Coach Hahn's aggregation has won 12 of the 15 games in the series with the Washington Countains. Hagerstown has scored two victories and one game ended in a tie.

Win Every Week

If Allegany High plays true to form the Campers should win on Friday as they have been winning every week since the 1951 season began.

In their last outing the Campers lost to Montgomery Blair of Silver Spring. On Firday they'll tackle the Bulldogs of Coach John Cobourne at Matinsburg, W. Va. It's the 26th game of their series and AHS leads in wins 15 to 9. One game ended in a tie.

Three PVC Tilts Listed

Other Friday games find Moorefield at Keyser and Ridgeley at Romney in a pair of P.V.C. tests. The third conference game between Berkeley Springs and Petersburg is set for Petersburg on Saturday.

Parsons High School, playing .500 ball in six starts, does battle with the West Virginia Industrial School of Pruntytown on Friday at Parsons.

Potomac State faces the Rams of Shepherd College at Shepherdstown, Beall is host to Charles Town and the West Virginia School for the Deaf opposes the New Jersey Silents at Trenton, N. J., on Saturday afternoon games.

Cleveland Rolls Over Pittsburgh For 3rd Victory

32,409 See Browns Register 17-0 Win

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21 (INS) — Cleveland's Browns rolled over the Pittsburgh Steelers, 17 to 0, today to their third straight National Football League victory before 32,409 fans in Cleveland.

The defending National League champs capitalized on a fluke punt and intercepted pass to score their two touchdowns. Lou Groza booted a 25-yard field goal to complete the scoring.

End Horace Gillom scored the Cleveland touchdown early in the second period.

Chuch Ortmann's attempted punt from the Pittsburgh 38-yard line bounced off the back of a Steeler lineman to the five-yard line. Gillom seized the ball and raced over. Groza added the point.

Late in the same period Groza kicked his field goal.

The final tally came in the third quarter when Warren Lahr intercepted Joe Geri's pass on the Pottsburgh 27-yard line and ran over behind good blocking. Groza again kicked the extra point.

Albany Releases May

By C. V. BURNS

"Basketball this year has taken a beating due to the scandal that has reared its ugly head."

These were the words of Adolph Rupp, University of Kentucky basketball coach, at the Cumberland K. of C. Sportsmanship Award Dinner April 2, 1951.

The scandal now involves two of Kentucky's greatest players —Alex Groza and Ralph Beard —who have admitted accepting bribes from gamblers during the 1949 season.

Rupp once was credited with the remark:

"Gamblers couldn't get at our boys with a 10-foot pole."

It now looks as though the pole was either lengthened or shortened because the gamblers did get at 'em.

Coach Mel Henry, whose Hagerstown High eleven meets Fort Hill here Friday night, was the grid mentor at Fort Hill in 1943, 1944 and 1945. His teams won 22, lost 3 and tied one.

And believe it or not, all of his losses came at the hands of Allegany in Turkey Day games. The scores were 14-7, 7-6 and 13-12.

Mel took over the grid reins at Hagerstown in 1949 and he has yet to score a win over Fort Hill's gridders. The Hilltoppers drubbed the Hubtown outfit 47-0 in 1949 and 20-7 at Hagerstown last year.

Henry's Hagerstown teams hold a 2-1 edge over AHS. Allegany won in 1949, 26-7, but lost in 1950, 12-6, and this year 19-0.

Benny Trotta, Baltimore promoter, who put on some bad shows here this year, was given a setback the other day when Lee Q. Murray, the heavyweight "has been" was found physically unfit for a bout with Young Harry Wills in the Mounmental City tonight.

Dr. Samuel Tumminello, former South Atlantic Association (AAU) prexy, turned down Murray.

Redskins Pull Upset, Defeat Cardinals, 7-3

Win First For Todd On Bill Dudley Day

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (INS)—Sammy Baugh's 46-yard pass to George Thomas and three successful goal line stands gave the Washington Redskins a 7 to 3 victory today over the Chicago Cardinals.

A crowd of 22,690 fans saw the Redskins hold a three-way celebration. It was their first triumph against three defeats, Dick Todd's debut as head coach and "Bill Dudley Day."

The rejuvenated Redskins stopped three Cardinal drives of 79, 63 and 64 yards, including one march in the last 45 seconds in which Chicago failed to score in four tries from the six yard line.

Deprived of a touchdown, the Cards had to settle for Ventan Yablonski's 31-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Baugh's aerial to Thomas came in the second period shortly after Washington drove 96 yards to the one where the Cards stopped Chuck Drazenovich on a fourth down plunge.

Louis Rated 7-5 Favorite

Joe Faces Marciano Friday In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Once-mighty Joe Louis, still striving to regain the heavyweight crown, risks his title chances on Friday night when he faces Young, hard-hitting and undefeated Rocky Marciano of Brockton, Mass., in a ten rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The 37-year old Brown Bomber, winner of eight straight fights since his decisive loss to Ezzard Charles, is rated a mere 7 to 5 favorite to defeat the 27-year old ex-GI. If the odds hold, it will be the shortest price ever for a Louis fight. The Bomber has never been worse than a 9 to 5 choice before.

But time is catching up on the ex-champion. Many experienced observers believe the swarthy, crouching Brockton Belter has the necessary hitting power to halt Louis' victory streak.

Marciano has a 37-0 record, winning 32 by knockouts. In his last start on July 12, he knocked out Rex Layne in six rounds.

Louis, however, is confident he still has enough left to take care of the strong but crude newcomer. The Bomber still has the best left jab in the business, a ramrod punch that can jar the best. The old zing has gone out of his once powerful right but Joe claims he can do plenty of damage with it.

The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC. It is believed that the promoting international boxing club will receive $225,000 for the T. V. and radio rights. A razor company (Gillette) and a number of T. V. set manufacturers are footing a reported $2,000,000 bill for the video rights alone.

The Wednesday night radio-TV show will come from New York's St. Nicholas Arena where lightweights Arthur King of Toronto and Teddy (Red Top) Davis of Hartford, Conn., will clash in the top ten rounder. The bout starts at 10 p. m. (EST).

Unbeaten Alco, Fort Hill JV's Collide Today

Game To Start At 4 P. M. In Stadium

A 15-game winning streak and two unbeaten records will be on the line this afternoon when the jayvees football teams of Fort Hill and Allegany clash at 4 p. m. at Fort Hill stadium.

Both elevens are undefeated this season, Fort Hill having captured five in a row and the Little Campers four straight. However, Coach Ray Hull's Little Sentinels have a holdover streak of 10 straight last year and thus will be looking for their 16th consecutive win against Allegany over a two year period.

Each team has had three common opponents, Fort Hill defeating Keyser 20-0, Ridgeley 28-0, and Beall 31-6. The Alco eleven downed Keyser 20-0, Ridgeley 25-0, and Beall 12-0.

Fort Hill's other victories are over West Virginia School for Deaf, 26-20, when the Little Sentinels were strengthened by reserve material from the varsity, and Romney 12-6. Allegany defeated the LaSalle Jayvees 12-7, surrendering the only touchdown scored on the Campers this fall.

Hull and Coach James Hosack of Allegany have indicated both squads are in good physical shape for the impending battle. Probable lineups for today's game:

Thomas Wins 13-0, Ten Seniors Play In Final Contest

THOMAS, W. Va., Oct. 21 — Thomas High School concluded its first football season under Coach Ed Supak on Friday by defeating the West Virginia Industrial School of Pruntytown 13 to 0.

"Buzz" Yeager scored the first touchdown in the opening quarter on a 20-yard run around right end. Pete Natale passed to Yeager for the point.

Natale went over from the 10-yard line for the final td in the fourth quarter.

Thomas' record for the season was two wins and five losses.

Ten seniors who played their final game were Alvin Rumer, Pete Natale, "Buzz" Yeager, Joe Grecco, Ed Quattro, Leonard Terranto, Big Bill Snyder, Don Hoffman, Little Bill Snyder and Tom Carr. Glen Shepard, also a senior, failed to get into the final game because he suffered a cracked rib.

Quattro and Yeager were co-captains of the team during the 1951 campaign.

New Scandals May Soon Jar Cage World

Groza, Beard Are Released On Bond

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (INS) —Vincent A. G. O'Connor, assistant district attorney of New York, said today in Chicago that big time collegiate basketball may be rocked again by new "fix" scandals.

His statement followed the arrest in Chicago of All-American players Alex Groza and Ralph Beard, formerly of the University of Kentucky team, for accepting $500 each in "shaving" points.

O'Connor said a game with Tennessee also was involved and "practically every other game of the 1949 season."

34 Players Involved

Already 34 players and seven schools have been named in a series of "fix" scandals that has hit the sport across the country.

The third player involved in the newest case is Dale Barnstable, now a Louisville, Ky., high school coach. He and Groza and Beard have admitted to police they received $500 each in fixing points in the Kentuck-Loyola game in Madison Square Garden March 14, 1949. Kentucky lost, 67-56, although the team was a 10-point favorite.

Barnstable, seized in Louisville, arrived in New York for further interrogation.

Groza and Beard, freed over the weekend on $1,000 bail each, are slated to appear in Chicago's Felony Court at 11 a. m. CST tomorrow. They are expected to waive extradition to New York where they will

Yanks Tie Lions

DETROIT, Oct. 21 (INS) — The New York Yanks football team used a short punt formation passing attack today to tie the Detroit Lions, 24 to 24, in a National Football League viewed by 24,002 spectators.

The inspired Yanks retired to their quarters at halftime with the score deadlocked at 10-all. They had scored on a 35-yard pass from Bob Celeri to speedy Buddy Young and a 37-yard field goal in the closing seconds of the half by Harvey Johnson.

Detroit scored its 10 points on a field goal by Doak Walker and a pass, Bob Hoernschmeyer to Leon Hart, who was the Lions' offensive standouts today.

Pat Harder put the Lions ahead in the third period when he drove over from the 10-yard line.

The Yanks passing formation pulled them even again, with a touchdown by Zollie Toth.

An interference penalty put the Detroiters within scoring distance again, and Bobby Layne passed to Hart for the td.

The final score was set up by a long pass, Celeri to Sherman Howard, from the formation popularized by Southern Methodist U. Toth carried the ball over.

Interstate Loop Presents Awards To Six Players

Clites, Davis, Umpires Are Praised By Long

The Interstate Baseball League finished "in the black" for the sixth consecutive year, President John J. Long told team representatives at the league's shrimp and oyster feed held yesterday at the Loyal Order of Moose Home.

Long praised Roy Clites, secretary-treasurer, for his efficient handling of the league business, lauded Frank J. Davis, vice president, as an "active worker" and thanked the newspapers and radio stations for the manner in which they publicized the league.

Cecil Warnick, umpire - in - chief was commended by Long for the good job he and his staff did throughout the 1951 season.

Umpiring Staff Praised

"We feel that the Interstate League has the best umpiring staff in this area and we hope the same group will be back next season," Long concluded.

Davis presented the league's playoff series trophy to the Moorefield (W. Va.) American Legion team which was managed by Don Smith. The vice president remarked that it was the sixth season that Moorefield had been in the playoffs. The Moorefield players were chaperoned here by the sheriff of Hardy county.

"This feed is the result of the all-star game which cleared $180," Davis said. "We should be able to start the season in 1952 because we have six baseballs left over."

Seven Awards Presented

Secretary Clites announced the names of the players who earned

Bears Claw 49er's

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (INS) —The Chicago Bears clawed out a 13 to 7 victory today over the San Francisco 49er's in a National Football League game played before 43,437 fans at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

The Bears struck for touchdowns in the first and third periods with their star quarterback, Johnny Lujack, contributing to both.

Lujack passed to John Dottley for the first touchdown, the play covery of a 49er fumble gave the Bears their second touchdown. Lujack carried the ball over from the one-foot line on a quarterback sneak.

The 49er touchdown in the final period climaxed a San Francisco 60-yard drive after Rex. Berry intercepted a Lujack pass on the 49er's 40. Y. A. Tittle passed to Gordy Soltau for the six points from the Bears' 24. Soltau converted.

Lujack suffered a twisted ankle in the fourth quarter and was carried from the field. X-rays will be taken to determine the extent of his injury.

Favorites Topple As Upsets Scramble Gridiron Picture

California Defeated; Terps Win Squeaker

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The first big "upset Saturday" of the football season was in the record books today, and it was hard to tell which of the fallen favorites was the most surprised.

Favored Ohio State got its shock early as underdog Indiana smashed over three touchdowns in the first quarter and went on to win, 32-10. Texas, startled when fired-up Arkansas scored first, recovered its poise to gain a short-lived 7-6 lead but finally went down to defeat, 16-14.

California, top-ranking team in this week's Associated Press poll, blew a 14-0 halftime lead in bowing to Southern California, 21-14, but this shock was topped by Texas A & M, which had a 14-0 lead in the fourth quarter only to lose because of a Texas Christian rally, 20-14.

Buckeyes Do Fadeout

Kirby, Crissinger Hounds Are First In Beagle Trial

4-Day Licensed Trial Will Start Saturday

Hounds owned by George Kirby of Frostburg and H. J. Crissinger, Sand Patch, Pa., were the winners in the 13-inch and 15-inch Plan B sanctioned field trial held yesterday at Barton's Dairy, McMullen Highway, under the sponsorship of the Allegany Beagle Club.

Chippewa Joe, owned by George Kirby, finished first in the 13-inch trials run off yesterday morning. In the afternoon, the 15-inch trial winner was Fairview Lad, owned by H. J. Crissinger.

Harry Poling, Hooversville, Pa., was outside judge for the event, assisted by Melvin Wigfield in the 13-inch class and Robert Shockey in the 15-inch trials.

Beginning Saturday the Beagle Club will hold a four-day licensed

Fort Hill-Hagerstown Game Heads District Grid Card

Game Set For Local Stadium; Allegany Visits Martinsburg

Fort Hill's 16th meeting with Hagerstown which brings together two of Western Maryland's outstanding football "master minds"—William P. Hahn and Mel Henry — will be staged Friday night at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

It's the No. 1 game of the week in the tri-state area and should attract one of the season's largest crowds.

Fort Hill has won five and lost one while the Hub City eleven boasts a 4-1-1 record, including a 19-0 decision over Allegany. The Sentinels whipped Martinsburg 28-7 while Hagerstown defeated the Bulldogs 26-6. Hagerstown's loss was at the hands of Gettysburg 6-0. Fort Hill bowed to Linsly of Wheeling, 14-13.

Coach Hahn's aggregation has won 12 of the 15 games in the series with the Washington Countains. Hagerstown has scored two victories and one game ended in a tie.

Win Every Week

If Allegany High plays true to form the Campers should win on Friday as they have been winning every week since the 1951 season began.

In their last outing the Campers lost to Montgomery Blair of Silver Spring. On Firday they'll tackle the Bulldogs of Coach John Cobourne at Matinsburg, W. Va. It's the 26th game of their series and AHS leads in wins 15 to 9. One game ended in a tie.

Three PVC Tilts Listed

Other Friday games find Moorefield at Keyser and Ridgeley at Romney in a pair of P.V.C. tests. The third conference game between Berkeley Springs and Petersburg is set for Petersburg on Saturday.

Parsons High School, playing .500 ball in six starts, does battle with the West Virginia Industrial School of Pruntytown on Friday at Parsons.

Potomac State faces the Rams of Shepherd College at Shepherdstown, Beall is host to Charles Town and the West Virginia School for the Deaf opposes the New Jersey Silents at Trenton, N. J., on Saturday afternoon games.

Cleveland Rolls Over Pittsburgh For 3rd Victory

32,409 See Browns Register 17-0 Win

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21 (INS) — Cleveland's Browns rolled over the Pittsburgh Steelers, 17 to 0, today to their third straight National Football League victory before 32,409 fans in Cleveland.

The defending National League champs capitalized on a fluke punt and intercepted pass to score their two touchdowns. Lou Groza booted a 25-yard field goal to complete the scoring.

End Horace Gillom scored the Cleveland touchdown early in the second period.

Chuch Ortmann's attempted punt from the Pittsburgh 38-yard line bounced off the back of a Steeler lineman to the five-yard line. Gillom seized the ball and raced over. Groza added the point.

Late in the same period Groza kicked his field goal.

The final tally came in the third quarter when Warren Lahr intercepted Joe Geri's pass on the Pottsburgh 27-yard line and ran over behind good blocking. Groza again kicked the extra point.

Albany Releases May

"Basketball this year has taken a beating due to the scandal that has reared its ugly head."

These were the words of Adolph Rupp, University of Kentucky basketball coach, at the Cumberland K. of C. Sportsmanship Award Dinner April 2, 1951.

The scandal now involves two of Kentucky's greatest players —Alex Groza and Ralph Beard —who have admitted accepting bribes from gamblers during the 1949 season.

Rupp once was credited with the remark:

"Gamblers couldn't get at our boys with a 10-foot pole."

It now looks as though the pole was either lengthened or shortened because the gamblers did get at 'em.

Coach Mel Henry, whose Hagerstown High eleven meets Fort Hill here Friday night, was the grid mentor at Fort Hill in 1943, 1944 and 1945. His teams won 22, lost 3 and tied one.

And believe it or not, all of his losses came at the hands of Allegany in Turkey Day games. The scores were 14-7, 7-6 and 13-12.

Mel took over the grid reins at Hagerstown in 1949 and he has yet to score a win over Fort Hill's gridders. The Hilltoppers drubbed the Hubtown outfit 47-0 in 1949 and 20-7 at Hagerstown last year.

Henry's Hagerstown teams hold a 2-1 edge over AHS. Allegany won in 1949, 26-7, but lost in 1950, 12-6, and this year 19-0.

Benny Trotta, Baltimore promoter, who put on some bad shows here this year, was given a setback the other day when Lee Q. Murray, the heavyweight "has been" was found physically unfit for a bout with Young Harry Wills in the Mounmental City tonight.

Redskins Pull Upset, Defeat Cardinals, 7-3

Win First For Todd On Bill Dudley Day

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (INS)—Sammy Baugh's 46-yard pass to George Thomas and three successful goal line stands gave the Washington Redskins a 7 to 3 victory today over the Chicago Cardinals.

A crowd of 22,690 fans saw the Redskins hold a three-way celebration. It was their first triumph against three defeats, Dick Todd's debut as head coach and "Bill Dudley Day."

The rejuvenated Redskins stopped three Cardinal drives of 79, 63 and 64 yards, including one march in the last 45 seconds in which Chicago failed to score in four tries from the six yard line.

Deprived of a touchdown, the Cards had to settle for Ventan Yablonski's 31-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Baugh's aerial to Thomas came in the second period shortly after Washington drove 96 yards to the one where the Cards stopped Chuck Drazenovich on a fourth down plunge.

A delegation of Virginians, headed by Gov. John S. Battle, gave Dudley, Redskin halfback and former University of Virginia star, a station wagon and a silver service during a pre-game ceremony.

Louis Rated 7-5 Favorite

Joe Faces Marciano Friday In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Oncemighty Joe Louis, still striving to regain the heavyweight crown, risks his title chances on Friday night when he faces Young, hard-hitting and undefeated Rocky Marciano of Brockton, Mass., in a ten rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The 37-year old Brown Bomber, winner of eight straight fights since his decisive loss to Ezzard Charles, is rated a mere 7 to 5 favorite to defeat the 27-year old ex-GI. If the odds hold, it will be the shortest price ever for a Louis fight. The Bomber has never been worse than a 9 to 5 choice before.

But time is catching up on the ex-champion. Many experienced observers believe the swarthy, crouching Brockton Belter has the necessary hitting power to halt Louis' victory streak.

Marciano has a 37-0 record, winning 32 by knockouts. In his last start on July 12, he knocked out Rex Layne in six rounds.

Louis, however, is confident he still has enough left to take care of the strong but crude newcomer. The Bomber still has the best left jab in the business, a ramrod punch that can jar the best. The old zing has gone out of his once powerful right but Joe claims he can do plenty of damage with it.

The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC. It is believed that the promoting international boxing club will receive $225,000 for the T. V. and radio rights. A razor company (Gillette) and a number of T. V. set manufacturers are footing a reported $2,000,000 bill for the video rights alone.

The Wednesday night radio-TV show will come from New York's St. Nicholas Arena where lightweights Arthur King of Toronto and Teddy (Red Top) Davis of Hartford, Conn., will clash in the top ten rounder. The bout starts at 10 p. m. (EST).

Unbeaten Alco, Fort Hill JV's Collide Today

Game To Start At 4 P. M. In Stadium

A 15-game winning streak and two unbeaten records will be on the line this afternoon when the jayvees football teams of Fort Hill and Allegany clash at 4 p. m. at Fort Hill stadium.

Both elevens are undefeated this season, Fort Hill having captured five in a row and the Little Campers four straight. However, Coach Ray Hull's Little Sentinels have a holdover streak of 10 straight last year and thus will be looking for their 16th consecutive win against Allegany over a two year period.

Each team has had three common opponents, Fort Hill defeating Keyser 20-0, Ridgeley 28-0, and Beall 31-6. The Alco eleven downed Keyser 20-0, Ridgeley 25-0, and Beall 12-0.

Fort Hill's other victories are over West Virginia School for Deaf, 26-20, when the Little Sentinels were strengthened by reserve material from the varsity, and Romney 12-6. Allegany defeated the LaSalle Jayvees 12-7, surrendering the only touchdown scored on the Campers this fall.

Hull and Coach James Hosack of Allegany have indicated both squads are in good physical shape for the impending battle. Probable lineups for today's game:

Thomas Wins 13-0, Ten Seniors Play In Final Contest

THOMAS, W. Va., Oct. 21 — Thomas High School concluded its first football season under Coach Ed Supak on Friday by defeating the West Virginia Industrial School of Pruntytown 13 to 0.

"Buzz" Yeager scored the first touchdown in the opening quarter on a 20-yard run around right end. Pete Natale passed to Yeager for the point.

Natale went over from the 10-yard line for the final td in the fourth quarter.

Thomas' record for the season was two wins and five losses.

Ten seniors who played their final game were Alvin Rumer, Pete Natale, "Buzz" Yeager, Joe Grecco, Ed Quattro, Leonard Terranto, Big Bill Snyder, Don Hoffman, Little Bill Snyder and Tom Carr. Glen Shepard, also a senior, failed to get into the final game because he suffered a cracked rib.

Quattro and Yeager were co-captains of the team during the 1951 campaign.

New Scandals May Soon Jar Cage World

Groza, Beard Are Released On Bond

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (INS) —Vincent A. G. O'Connor, assistant district attorney of New York, said today in Chicago that big time collegiate basketball may be rocked again by new "fix" scandals.

His statement followed the arrest in Chicago of All-American players Alex Groza and Ralph Beard, formerly of the University of Kentucky team, for accepting $500 each in "shaving" points.

O'Connor said a game with Tennessee also was involved and "practically every other game of the 1949 season."

34 Players Involved

Already 34 players and seven schools have been named in a series of "fix" scandals that has hit the sport across the country.

The third player involved in the newest case is Dale Barnstable, now a Louisville, Ky., high school coach. He and Groza and Beard have admitted to police they received $500 each in fixing points in the Kentuck-Loyola game in Madison Square Garden March 14, 1949. Kentucky lost, 67-56, although the team was a 10-point favorite.

Barnstable, seized in Louisville, arrived in New York for further interrogation.

Groza and Beard, freed over the weekend on $1,000 bail each, are slated to appear in Chicago's Felony Court at 11 a. m. CST tomorrow. They are expected to waive extradition to New York where they will

Yanks Tie Lions

DETROIT, Oct. 21 (INS) — The New York Yanks football team used a short punt formation passing attack today to tie the Detroit Lions, 24 to 24, in a National Football League viewed by 24,002 spectators.

The inspired Yanks retired to their quarters at halftime with the score deadlocked at 10-all. They had scored on a 35-yard pass from Bob Celeri to speedy Buddy Young and a 37-yard field goal in the closing seconds of the half by Harvey Johnson.

Detroit scored its 10 points on a field goal by Doak Walker and a pass, Bob Hoernschmeyer to Leon Hart, who was the Lions' offensive standouts today.

Pat Harder put the Lions ahead in the third period when he drove over from the 10-yard line.

The Yanks passing formation pulled them even again, with a touchdown by Zollie Toth.

An interference penalty put the Detroiters within scoring distance again, and Bobby Layne passed to Hart for the td.

The final score was set up by a long pass, Celeri to Sherman Howard, from the formation popularized by Southern Methodist U. Toth carried the ball over.

Interstate Loop Presents Awards To Six Players

Clites, Davis, Umpires Are Praised By Long

The Interstate Baseball League finished "in the black" for the sixth consecutive year, President John J. Long told team representatives at the league's shrimp and oyster feed held yesterday at the Loyal Order of Moose Home.

Long praised Roy Clites, secretary-treasurer, for his efficient handling of the league business, lauded Frank J. Davis, vice president, as an "active worker" and thanked the newspapers and radio stations for the manner in which they publicized the league.

Cecil Warnick, umpire - in - chief was commended by Long for the good job he and his staff did throughout the 1951 season.

Umpiring Staff Praised

"We feel that the Interstate League has the best umpiring staff in this area and we hope the same group will be back next season," Long concluded.

Davis presented the league's playoff series trophy to the Moorefield (W. Va.) American Legion team which was managed by Don Smith. The vice president remarked that it was the sixth season that Moorefield had been in the playoffs. The Moorefield players were chaperoned here by the sheriff of Hardy county.

"This feed is the result of the all-star game which cleared $180," Davis said. "We should be able to start the season in 1952 because we have six baseballs left over."

Seven Awards Presented

Bears Claw 49er's

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (INS) —The Chicago Bears clawed out a 13 to 7 victory today over the San Francisco 49er's in a National Football League game played before 43,437 fans at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

The Bears struck for touchdowns in the first and third periods with their star quarterback, Johnny Lujack, contributing to both.

Lujack passed to John Dottley for the first touchdown, the play covery of a 49er fumble gave the Bears their second touchdown. Lujack carried the ball over from the one-foot line on a quarterback sneak.

The 49er touchdown in the final period climaxed a San Francisco 60-yard drive after Rex. Berry intercepted a Lujack pass on the 49er's 40. Y. A. Tittle passed to Gordy Soltau for the six points from the Bears' 24. Soltau converted.

Lujack suffered a twisted ankle in the fourth quarter and was carried from the field. X-rays will be taken to determine the extent of his injury.

Favorites Topple As Upsets Scramble Gridiron Picture

California Defeated; Terps Win Squeaker

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The first big "upset Saturday" of the football season was in the record books today, and it was hard to tell which of the fallen favorites was the most surprised.

Favored Ohio State got its shock early as underdog Indiana smashed over three touchdowns in the first quarter and went on to win, 32-10. Texas, startled when fired-up Arkansas scored first, recovered its poise to gain a short-lived 7-6 lead but finally went down to defeat, 16-14.

California, top-ranking team in this week's Associated Press poll, blew a 14-0 halftime lead in bowing to Southern California, 21-14, but this shock was topped by Texas A & M, which had a 14-0 lead in the fourth quarter only to lose because of a Texas Christian rally, 20-14.

Buckeyes Do Fadeout

New York Giants Stay Undefeated

Safety Nets 26-24 Win Over Eagles

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (INS)—The New York Giants maintained their undefeated status in the National Football League by the margin of a safety today when they squeezed by the stubborn Philadelphia Eagles, 26 to 24.

A Polo Grounds crowd of 28,656 fans saw the Giants stay atop the American Conference by winning their third straight game after tying in their season debut with the Steelers.

The margin of victory was provided in the third period when Harmon Rowe tackled Bosh Pritchard behind his goal line for two points. Otherwise the Eagles, playing their first game under Coach Wayne Millner, surprised by matching the Giants' three touchdowns, conversions and a field goal. In fact, the Eagles actually got off to a 17-0 halftime lead.

But the Giants stormed back with 23 points in the third quarter and Jim Poole's 12-yard field goal at the opening of the fourth gave New York a 26-17 margin which was enough to withstand Philly's last td.

Rookie end Bob Walston tallied two touchdowns, kicked three extra points and a 27-yard field goal to lead the Eagle scoring with 18 points.

The Eagles, held to 49 yards on the ground, gained 206 yards through the air with Adrian Burk and Bill Mackrides doing the pitching.

Chuck Conerly of the Giants completed 20 aerials for 128 yards gained and Em Tunnell continued his sensational punt-returning for the Maramen, racing 71 yards for one score.

Score by periods:

New York	0	0	23	3—26
Philadelphia	7	10	0	7—24

Merrill "Pinky" May has been released by Albany (N. Y.) of the Eastern League where he was at the helm for five years.

A native of Laconia, Ind., May now 40, got his start in organized baseball with the Cumberland Colts in 1932—this city's last year in the Middle Atlantic League.

"Pinky" was an outfielder here but after he left Cumberland he was converted into a third sacker. He played at Durham, Binghamton, Newark and Oakland, Calif., and finally the Phillies. He was in the National League from 1939 to 1943. In fact, he was the best third sacker in the senior circuit in 1939 and 1941. He was the No. 1 hot corner guardian in the Pacific Coast League in 1937.

Sal Somma, native of Ridgeley, W. Va., and former New York University grid star, has another good team at New Drop High School (N. Y.), according to a lengthy article by Hal J. Squier in the Staten Island Advance.

New Drop knocked off Brooklyn Prep and blanked John Adams High (24-0) in its first two starts and is reported to have a team of championship calibre.

Several years ago, Somma won the "Coach of the Year" Award in New York's metropolitan area.

face charges of violating the state bribery law.

They were arrested late Friday in Chicago on fugitive warrants.

Groza, of Martin's Ferry, Ohio., and Beard, of Louisville, returned to their homes late yesterday to "tell our parents how it happened."

Suspended By Pro Loops

The All-Americans are owner-players of the professional Indianapolis Olympians, and were suspended by the National Basketball Association, to which the team belongs, following the "fix" revelations.

Groza and Beard were on the Olympic team in 1948 which won international championships.

Adolph Rupp, the Kentucky basketball coach, recently asserted that collegiate players who took bribes to shave points should not be classified with athletes who threw games.

He also said:

"Gamblers couldn't get at our boys with a 10-foot pole."

Rupp had no comment following the arrest of the three former Kentucky stars.

Hughes Captures Stock Car Race

Meyersdale Season Closes Next Sunday

Sessell Hughes, Dubar, Pa., won $50 first prize in the 20-lap feature stock car race on the Meyersdale, Pa., half-mile dirt track yesterday. The time trials and feature event marked the third successive week for the stock car program at the Meyersdale plant.

Next Sunday the final race of the season will be a 30-lap feature with time trials getting underway at 1:30 p. m. and the main event scheduled to start at 2:30.

Fourteen entries participated in yesterday's event with Leon Mulhollen, Somerset, Pa., finishing in second place and John Ford, Altoona, Pa., collecting third money.

Four preliminary heats were held prior to the feature race. Bill Kuhn, Stoystown, Pa., Don Replogle, Altoona, Bill Bell, Vanderbilt, Pa., and Mulhollen were the victors in these trials.

Rams Blank Packers

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 21 (INS) — The Los Angeles Rams scored four touchdowns in the second half today to beat the Green Bay Packers 28 to 8 in a National League football game before a crowd of 21,363 at Milwaukee.

The victory enabled the Rams to remain in a first place tie with the Chicago Bears in the National Conference.

The teams battled on even terms throughout the first half and most of the third quarter. The Rams came to life in the final minute of the third period when Dan Towler broke loose on a 79-yard touchdown gallop. Bob Waterfield kicked the first of four conversions.

Los Angeles continued its scoring parade, crossing the Packer goal three times in the opening five minutes of the final period.

Waterfield threw a 37-yard touchdown pass to Tommy Kalmanir for the second score. Seconds later substitute Quarterback Norm Van Brocklin connected on an 81-yard payoff pitch to Elroy Hirsch.

The Rams scored their final marker when Jerry Williams ripped through the Packer middle for five yards.

Score by periods:

Los Angeles	0	0	7	21	—28

The house is not elaborate — just a nice comfortable and convenient home for year-round use, with three bedrooms, bath, kitchen, living room, oil fired furnace, hot water heat.
But the grounds are beautiful — beyond description — planned and landscaped for a super-salesman for entertaining. They will delight the young and old. 250 spruce pines planted to give best effect, 1200 ft. water piping for lawn sprinklers, 1000 ft. underground lead cable for outdoor lighting, 5 car garage, 400 ft. frontage. Plenty of space to commercialize if so desired.
Price $20,000.

Safety Nets 26-24 Win Over Eagles

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (INS)—The New York Giants maintained their undefeated status in the National Football League by the margin of a safety today when they squeezed by the stubborn Philadelphia Eagles, 26 to 24.

A Polo Grounds crowd of 28,656 fans saw the Giants stay atop the American Conference by winning their third straight game after tying in their season debut with the Steelers.

The margin of victory was provided in the third period when Harmon Rowe tackled Bosh Pritchard behind his goal line for two points. Otherwise the Eagles, playing their first game under Coach Wayne Millner, surprised by matching the Giants' three touchdowns, conversions and a field goal. In fact, the Eagles actually got off to a 17-0 halftime lead.

But the Giants stormed back with 23 points in the third quarter and Jim Poole's 12-yard field goal at the opening of the fourth gave New York a 26-17 margin which was enough to withstand Philly's last td.

Rookie end Bob Walston tallied two touchdowns, kicked three extra points and a 27-yard field goal to lead the Eagle scoring with 18 points.

The Eagles, held to 49 yards on the ground, gained 206 yards through the air with Adrian Burk and Bill Mackrides doing the pitching.

Chuck Conerly of the Giants completed 20 aerials for 128 yards gained and Em Tunnell continued his sensational punt-returning for the Maramen, racing 71 yards for one score.

Score by periods:

New York	0	0	23	3—26
Philadelphia	7	10	0	7—24

Merrill "Pinky" May has been released by Albany (N. Y.) of the Eastern League where he was at the helm for five years.

A native of Laconia, Ind., May now 40, got his start in organized baseball with the Cumberland Colts in 1932—this city's last year in the Middle Atlantic League.

"Pinky" was an outfielder here but after he left Cumberland he was converted into a third sacker. He played at Durham, Binghamton, Newark and Oakland, Calif., and finally the Phillies. He was in the National League from 1939 to 1943. In fact, he was the best third sacker in the senior circuit in 1939 and 1941. He was the No. 1 hot corner guardian in the Pacific Coast League in 1937.

Sal Somma, native of Ridgeley, W. Va., and former New York University grid star, has another good team at New Drop High School (N. Y.), according to a lengthy article by Hal J. Squier in the Staten Island Advance.

New Drop knocked off Brooklyn Prep and blanked John Adams High (24-0) in its first two starts and is reported to have a team of championship calibre.

Several years ago, Somma won the "Coach of the Year" Award in New York's metropolitan area.

face charges of violating the state bribery law.

They were arrested late Friday in Chicago on fugitive warrants.

Groza, of Martin's Ferry, Ohio., and Beard, of Louisville, returned to their homes late yesterday to "tell our parents how it happened."

Suspended By Pro Loops

The All-Americans are owner-players of the professional Indianapolis Olympians, and were suspended by the National Basketball Association, to which the team belongs, following the "fix" revelations.

Groza and Beard were on the Olympic team in 1948 which won international championships.

Adolph Rupp, the Kentucky basketball coach, recently asserted that collegiate players who took bribes to shave points should not be classified with athletes who threw games.

He also said:

"Gamblers couldn't get at our boys with a 10-foot pole."

Rupp had no comment following the arrest of the three former Kentucky stars.

Hughes Captures Stock Car Race

Meyersdale Season Closes Next Sunday

Sessell Hughes, Dubar, Pa., won $50 first prize in the 20-lap feature stock car race on the Meyersdale, Pa., half-mile dirt track yesterday. The time trials and feature event marked the third successive week for the stock car program at the Meyersdale plant.

Next Sunday the final race of the season will be a 30-lap feature with time trials getting underway at 1:30 p. m. and the main event scheduled to start at 2:30.

Fourteen entries participated in yesterday's event with Leon Mulhollen, Somerset, Pa., finishing in second place and John Ford, Altoona, Pa., collecting third money.

Four preliminary heats were held prior to the feature race. Bill Kuhn, Stoystown, Pa., Don Replogle, Altoona, Bill Bell, Vanderbilt, Pa., and Mulhollen were the victors in these trials.

Rams Blank Packers

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 21 (INS) — The Los Angeles Rams scored four touchdowns in the second half today to beat the Green Bay Packers 28 to 8 in a National League football game before a crowd of 21,363 at Milwaukee.

The victory enabled the Rams to remain in a first place tie with the Chicago Bears in the National Conference.

The teams battled on even terms throughout the first half and most of the third quarter. The Rams came to life in the final minute of the third period when Dan Towler broke loose on a 79-yard touchdown gallop. Bob Waterfield kicked the first of four conversions.

Los Angeles continued its scoring parade, crossing the Packer goal three times in the opening five minutes of the final period.

Waterfield threw a 37-yard touchdown pass to Tommy Kalmanir for the second score. Seconds later substitute Quarterback Norm Van Brocklin connected on an 81-yard payoff pitch to Elroy Hirsch.

The Rams scored their final marker when Jerry Williams ripped through the Packer middle for five yards.

Score by periods:

Los Angeles	0	0	7	21	—28

Mercy Errand Ends With Four In Hospital

Driver Hurt As Ambulance Upsets

A Moorefield, W. Va., ambulance driver on an errand of mercy Saturday night was admitted to Memorial Hospital along with three other accident victims from that area.

Brown M. Kessel, 32, employe of the Thrush Funeral Home, was bringing another accident victim to Memorial Hospital when the ambulance turned over near Old Fields, W. Va., about four miles from Moorefield on Route 220.

West Virginia State Police said last night Kessel's vehicle failed to round a curve when the accident occurred. The ambulance left the highway and rolled over into a field. He suffered injuries of the back and x-rays were taken yesterday. His condition was reported last night as "good" by attaches.

Was On Way To Cumberland

According to police, Kessel was bringing Mrs. Lola Myers, Moorefield, to Memorial Hospital following an accident involving two cars at 10:50 p. m. at Fort Run, one mile east of Moorefield on Route 55.

An automobile driven by Foster Schell, according to police, was traveling west toward Moorefield. Mrs. Myers was also in the vehicle which collided head-on with an automobile operated by Weldon J. Fitzwater, Fort Run. Considerable damage was caused, State Police noted last night.

Woman Seriously Hurt

Mrs. Myers was taken to the hospital in extreme shock according to attaches, and suffered a possible fractured skull, lacerations and abrasions. Her condition is reported as "fair" and x-rays will be taken today.

The condition of Fitzwater is "fair." He sustained a fractured nose and jaw with lacerations about the face. Schell is reported in "good" condition and x-rays will be taken today. He suffered lacerations and abrasions.

Assisting State Police at Moorefield in the investigation is C. G. Robinette, police chief of that community.

George Greise Hurt In Crash

A Bedford Road youth was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday suffering injuries from a highway accident which occurred about 3:50 p. m. near the Pennsylvania State Line.

State Police identified the youth as George F. Greise, 18, son of George F. Greise, Bedford Road. He was reported as "resting comfortably" last night by hospital attaches, and will be X-rayed today.

About $50 damages resulted in the afternoon mishap, according to police. Greise, operating a pickup truck, was reported to be driving west on Bedford Road when he saw a parked truck headed in the same direction.

In an effort to avoid hitting the other vehicle, Greise swerved off the highway and turned over, police added. Trooper Robert Wolford investigated but no charges were preferred.

Organ Recital Will Be Given Tuesday

An organ recital will be presented tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at First Church of Christ Scientist, Washington Street, by five students of Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt, Avirett Avenue.

The pupils include the Misses Deirdre Wilson, Shirley Brinkman, Mary Linne Stitley, and Dorthalee Raines and Robert Mann.

Arthur Clarence Warnick, 29 High Street, Oakland, and Myrtle Icie Thomas, Second Street, Oakland.

Edgar Leroy Alderton, 1003 Harding Avenue, and Inez Mary Jean Beck, 812 Shades Lane.

Flue Fire Checked

A flue fire in the Thomas Street area was checked by South End firemen yesterday at 11:06 a. m. No damage was reported.

The Weather

The warm, clear atmosphere yesterday resulted in crowded area highways as residents enjoyed another Sunday drive. Temperatures, reaching into the 70s, were comfortable in spite of the high humidity percentage. A slight wind was reported coming from the East early yesterday evening indicating possible rain. The Weather Bureau predicts likely drizzle or light rain for the west portion of the state today with some cloudiness and warmer temperatures. The high temperature as reported by Constitution Park weather station was 73 degrees, the low was 35, and at 8 p. m., the mercury leveled at 58 degrees. Humidity was marked at a wet 68 per cent.

Lutherans To Confer Here Tomorrow

Presbyterians To Gather Wednesday

Beginning today with a conference at St. Luke's involving 12 Lutheran churches of the Tri-State area, at which the Rev. Dr. Paul C. Empie, of New York City, will preach, there will be three notable church gatherings in Cumberland within the week.

Following the conference this afternoon and this evening at St. Luke's, there will be a fellowship gathering Wednesday evening of Presbyterians of Western Maryland and West Virginia at Centre Street Methodist Church hall at which the Rev. Dr. Allan MacLachan Frew, of Ardmore, Pa., will be the speaker. Next Sunday at First Christian Church, Bedford street, union services to mark Reformation Day will be held with the Rev. Dr. Dwight F. Putman, president of the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the United Lutheran Church, as speaker.

Purpose Shown

Purpose of the two meetings at St. Luke's is to plan methods of completing local church 1951 goals in the $3,300,000 Lutheran World Action Appeal for relief and reconstruction abroad and for ministry to Lutherans in the U. S. armed forces. Rev. Dr. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's and conference chairman, said Saturday that the first meeting tomorrow will be at 3:30 p. m. for LWA directors, church auxiliary officials and pastors. A supper meeting at 6:30 will be for the same persons plus at least six or more laymen from each congregation. The Lutheran churches cooperating are St. Paul's, St. Luke's and St. John's, this city; St. Paul's, Frostburg; St. Mark's, Oakland; Trinity, Keyser, W. Va.; Trinity, Bedford, Pa.; and the five churches of the Friends' Cove charge in Bedford County, Pa., Bald Hill, Bortz, St. James, St. Mark's and Yeager Memorial.

Dr. Empire To Talk

The Lutheran World Action representative in charge of the conference will be the Rev. Dr. Empie, executive director of the National Lutheran Council, the agency which supervises the gathering and distribution of LWA funds from more than 10,000 local churches which are affiliated with eight general Lutheran bodies participating in the Council.

As executive director of the Council, Dr. Empie also heads the U. S. A. Committee for the Lutheran World Federation and is responsible for the whole program of relief and reconstruction abroad. During the summer of 1950, he spent two months in Europe, conferring with church leaders in England, France, Germany and Yugoslavia.

With Dr. Empie's first hand knowledge and the reports he receives from Lutheran representatives in most European countries, in Asia, Africa and South America, he has become one of the best informed men in America today on the post-war chaos which exists abroad and the challenge presented to the churches of America.

Badminton Club To Open Season

The Cumberland Badminton Club will start its winter playing schedule tonight at the Fort Hill School gymnasium.

Players in this section wishing to join the club this year should attend the meeting tonight. The club will meet Monday and Thursday evenings this winter at the Fort Hill School. As only three courts are available the membership will be limited to fifty.

THOROUGHBREDS—Lassie and Laddie, shown here by Mrs. Joseph Ansel, Jr., along with five Collie puppies, are listed among the better registered Collies in the area. The pair, almost identical to their motion picture counterparts produced their first litter of puppies, all identical, about eight weeks ago. Mrs. Ansel, the former Miss Catherine Bopp, along with her husband, makes a hobby of raising thoroughbred Collies at their home, Hazen Road. They started their hobby about two years ago.

2 Murder Cases Scheduled This Week At Court

Margaret E. Gray Trial Set Today

Two murder cases will take up most of the second week of criminal trials at the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Today Margaret E. Gray, 39, of North Branch, will undergo trial for the fatal shooting of Niles J. Michael August 2 at their home in a C. and O. Canal lock house.

She is represented by two court-appointed attorneys, Noel Speir Cook and Estel Kelley. Most of today's session will be devoted to selecting a jury.

The Gray case, the state's attorney's office said, will probably go over into tomorrow and the case against Shirley Meek Schurg, of Hoffman, will likely get underway Wednesday.

Mrs. Schurg is charged with shooting her husband as he returned home early in the morning of August 6. He died five days later in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Beeman, 25-year-old Midland man convicted by a jury of first degree murder of his wife, Donna (Airhart) Beeman, will be sentenced either to death or life imprisonment tomorrow.

A motion for a new trial was filed by his attorneys, Earl E. Manges and Thomas N. Berry, Saturday in Circuit Court. However, court attaches said the sentencing will take place as scheduled, with action on the new trial to come later.

Eleven sentences were handed down Saturday in Circuit Court by Judges Morgan C. Harris and George Henderson.

Included in the number were three prison terms.

Dr. Bonner Attending Hercules Conference

Dr. Lyman G. Bonner, LaVale, of the Allegany Ballistics Plant, is one of the research supervisors from 13 Hercules Powder Company plants attending the eighth annual company-wide research conferences at Wilmington, Del.

On the agenda are discussions on process savings as well as research plans for the coming year. In charge of Dr. John C. Robinson, Jr., the meetings will take place at the Hercules Country Club.

Heart Group To Meet

Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association board of directors will meet today at 8 p. m. in the Post Office building, Thomas F. Conlon, president, announces.

A report on the current membership drive of the group will be given at the meeting.

Today's Sermonette

What think ye of Christ? St. Matthew 22:42.

By REV. RAYMOND A. FAULDS, Jr.

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church by the pastor, Rev. Raymond A. Faulds, Jr. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

An Effective Religion

An atheist once wrote, "Every man lives by believing something." If that means anything, surely, it means that every man has a religion. If the statement of the atheist is true, then we must all examine our beliefs. If we are religious people, then — with our eyes upon the conditions prevailing in the world — we must admit there is something radically wrong with the religion of the masses. We must ask ourselves: "Are we fulfilling the requirement of an effective religion?" What is an effective religion?

Rev. Faulds

First, an effective religion must be a personal religion. It is good to hear a neighbor say, "Whereas I was blind, now I see," but it is of no benefit to us unless it drives us to the same Illuminator to have our own sight restored. It is encouraging to hear the witness of the aged that God has never forsaken them. But another man's testimony cannot be our religion. We must go beyond that and say, "Now I believe, not because of what thou sayest but I have seen Him for myself." "What think ye of Christ?" Only a personal religion can be an effective religion.

Second, an effective religion must bring succor to a weary and sinful world. We do not need denunciation; we have a conscience that plays that part well. We need kindness — someone to believe in us, someone to trust us, someone to love us. That is also what others—the cynical, the hard, the bitter—need. We cannot argue them into a belief in an all-ruling love, yet we may melt them into such a faith. An effective religion must bring succor to the weary and sinful world.

Third, an effective religion will constrain its adherents to form a community, a church. Paul said: "We are his body." But what is a body? It is that through which alone the heart, the mind, the will within expresses itself outwardly If the body of Christ fails in its work how shall the world know the thoughts of God toward it and the love of Christ for it? We are his feet to run for him, his hands to bring and carry for him. If the body fails, the world in its need will know nothing of it all.

Further, an effective religion must contain a gospel, must have some "good news." The greatest miracle which Christ wrought—our salvation — does provide a gospel. Salvation is good news. Salvation through faith is a theory, but it is a theory that works. No one can say: "I have a salvation I can explain." But millions can say: "I know whom I have believed and am persuaded he is able to keep that which I have committed to him." An effective religion must contain a gospel that sin is pardoned, that there is cleansing for every stain.

This is not a cheap gospel. It is not a light optimism encouraging the careless. It is a gospel only procured through Calvary and the Cross. An effective religion must contain a gospel which is "good news" to the worst, the lowest, the most despairing. The religion of Christ meets all the qualifications for an effective religion. "What think ye of Christ?"

15-Mile Jaunt Of Young Explorers Causes Alarm

Five Hyndman, Pa., "explorers," wondering what was on the other side of the mountain, ended up in Cumberland last night. Leaving their homes at 10 a. m. yesterday on a hike through the woods, the group probed the area causing a community-wide search.

A Bedford Road resident, who lives about five miles from Cumberland, notified city police the travelers had inquired at her home of their whereabouts and how to get back home.

The five hikers were told how to get to this city and proceeded down Bedford Road ending their 15 mile jaunt at 9:25 p. m. After notification from here, parents of one of the explorers called at police headquarters for the party.

Police identified the strollers as Vern Mowery, 9, Freeman Miller, 12, Very Miller, 13, Gloria Miller, 10 and Charles Thompson, 11. The group found out, police said, that Centerville was located "over the mountain."

Flintstone Firemen Quench Woods Blaze

Flintstone volunteer firemen extinguished a woods fire yesterday afternoon on the west side of Polish Mountain about one mile from Flintstone.

Chief Palmer Howsare said firemen arrived at the scene at 2 p. m. and had the blaze under control by 4:30 p. m.

Three Draw Prison Terms In Court Here

Nine Others Given Suspended Sentences

A number of sentences were handed down Saturday by Judges Morgan C. Harris and George Henderson in Circuit Court, here.

Harry Clinton Jackson, found guilty by a jury of statutory burglary of the G. and W. Lunchroom, was sent to the House of Correction for three years.

Another man, William Ellsworth Simpson, larceny and theft on two counts, sentenced to the House of Correction for two years on each charge, with the terms to run concurrently.

Mrs. Nettie R. Green, 22-year-old mother of a six-year-old child, was sent to the Maryland Reformatory for Women for a period not to exceed one year on one count of forgery.

Four other charges of forgery aganst the Westernport woman were ordered marked as stet processus, or held on the books.

Suspended Sentences

Arlie Lease, who pleaded guilty to assault with intent to kill, was given a three-year sentence in the House of Correction that was suspended on condition that he refrain from the use of alcohol.

Seven men involved in the theft of and receiving stolen copper wire from the dump at the Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation were sentenced by Judge Harris.

Joseph Welsh, three wire theft counts, three terms of three years in the House of Correction to run concurrently, all suspended.

Leo F. Welsh, two wire theft counts, two terms of three years in the House of Correction to run concurrently, all suspended.

Russell J. Collins, one count of receiving stolen goods, one year in the House of Correction, suspended.

Marvin Collins, one count of receiving stolen goods, term not to exceed three years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males, suspended.

George Leydig, one count of receiving stolen goods, three years in the House of Correction, suspended.

Faced Two Counts

Robert Weaver, two counts of receiving stolen goods, two five-year terms in the House of Correction, suspended.

Raymond Eugene Duckworth, one count of wire theft, sentenced to the Maryland Reformatory for Males for a period of not exceeding one year, suspended.

Two youths from National, Glenn Morgan and William T. Leatherman, who pleaded guilty to two charges of theft of mine supplies, were each given two suspended terms, each not exceeding three years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

Reon Glessner, Wright's Crossing junk dealer, Saturday had a one-year term in the House of Correction imposed Friday for accepting stolen goods changed to a suspended five-year sentence. The parole provision is that he must leave the state within ten days.

While the docket for this term is large, in one week 25 criminal trials have been disposed of already out of a total 55, according to Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden.

Rosary Workers Meet Tonight

Workers in the Family Rosary Crusade of St. Patrick's Catholic Church will meet at 8 p. m. today in the library of St. Patrick's School. Members of the parish are urged to attend.

Wolford Dies From Wounds While Hunting

Services Set Today At Slanesville, W. Va.

A short service for Irvin Glenn Wolford, Williams Road, hunting accident victim, will be held today at 1 p. m. at Kight's Funeral Home by Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of the Cumberland Methodist Circuit.

The funeral cortege will go to Mount Union Church at Slanesville, W. Va. where last rites will be conducted by Rev. Hartman. Burial will be in Mount Union Cemetery.

The father of five small children, Wolford died Saturday morning at 10:10 a. m. in Allegany Hospital and became the second hunting season victim in Allegany County within seven days.

Accidentally Shot

Wolford, according to Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator at the LaVale Barracks, was accidentally shot Friday at 5:15 p. m. by a fellow hunter and close friend, Herbert Herman Gross, 34, of Route 5, Braddock Road, also a furloughed Celanese worker.

Wolford, Gross and four others were in a party hunting in the section of Green Ridge Mountain, four miles south of the old CCC camp and just off the George Road when the accident occurred.

Investigator Baker said the party separated Friday morning and convened at noon for lunch. Again they separated and at the time of the shooting, Gross told Baker that he shot at what he thought was a squirrel.

The blast from the .12 gauge shotgun was followed by Wolford's scream," I've been shot," Baker said.

Gross yelled for help and another member of the party, James B. Smith, 33, of Cash Valley Road, helped him carry the wounded man to the Gross auto.

Gets Full Charge

Baker said the section where the shot was fired had very thick underbrush and overgrowth.

The full charge hit Wolford in the upper left arm, left side and back. Death was caused by a hemmorrhage of the lung, according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner.

The three others in the hunting party were Lloyd Gross, brother of Herbert Gross, who was a next door neighbor of the victim; Lloyd's son, Leroy, 13, and James W. Norris, 36, of LaVale.

The state's attorney's office is conducting the investigation and no charges have been placed.

Wolford was employed in the Service Department at Amcelle. He was born at Slanesville, W. Va., and had been a resident of this city for 30 years.

He was the son of Mrs. Leona (Kidwell) Wolford Deahl, of this city, and the late John Wolford.

Besides his mother, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Walker) Wolford; five children, Donald I. Wolford, Donald G. Wolford, Carolyn A. Wolford, Sonia K. Wolford and Sandra F. Wolford, all at home.

He also leaves two brothers, Jesse E. Wolford and Ernest Wolford this city and four sisters, Mrs. Gladys Nelson, Chaneysville, Pa.; Mrs. Edith Day, Paw Paw, W. Va.; Mrs. Pauline Symons, Potomac Park, and Mrs. Irene Martin, LaVale.

Bond Drive Report Given

Allegany County has attained a goal of $324,098 or 85 per cent of a quota of $378,400 in the current defense Bond Drive which ends Saturday.

A report of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury Department says that 9 per cent of the state quota of $8,700,000 has been reached.

County Bond Chairman Lynn C. Lashley urges all residents of Cumberland and Allegany County to purchase their share of bonds during this final week.

Nationally the Secretary of the Treasury reminds the people of America to become a partner in the drive. Principal purposes of the campaign are to maintain and increase the wide distribution of the public debt among as many of the American people as possible.

The discouragement of inflationary spending at a time when inflationary pressures arising out of the defense program are strong, and to encourage the continued practice of thrift and savings among the residents of the United States are also urged.

Repairs On Old Water Line Will Be Resumed This Fall

Water Department crews will resume work this fall on major repairs to the old water line to Lake Gordon in an effort to cut water losses, Water Commissioner George H. Tederick announced yesterday.

He said repairs on the old line last year resulted in elimination of all known major breaks in the line.

About half of the 36 inch concrete pipe line has been reconditioned since the auxiliary line was completed in 1949.

The work will include covering the pipe in areas where it is exposed and plugging of leaks by the application of special metal bands which can be drawn around the concrete pipe.

Only emergency repairs were possible before the auxiliary line was built.

Commissioner Tederick said the plugging of the major leaks in the line has been a factor in cutting water losses and repairs planned on existing filters at Lake Gordon will cut the losses still further.

Repairs on the old filters will be undertaken when six new filters now being planned are completed.

Plans for the filter work at Lake Gordon are expected to be presented to the Mayor and Council next week.

Sportsmen Ask US To Give Catoctin Rec Area Back To Maryland

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 21 (AP)—The League of Maryland Sportsmen today adopted a resolution calling on the federal government to turn over the Catoctin Recreational Area in Northern Frederick County to the State of Maryland.

The National Park Service presently controls the 5,000-acre area. The resolution asked that the land "and improvements thereon" be placed under state control.

The League asked its president, Glenn L. Martin, Baltimore plane manufacturer, to appoint a committee to deal with government officials to bring about the transfer.

The resolution asserted "there is a disposition of the part of the National Park Service to turn back to Maryland" the Frederick County land

The resolution pointed out that the transfer would mean no expense to Maryland except the cost of future maintenance.

As the fall session of the League closed today, members discussed the possibilities of opening parts of the area for hunting. At present no sport is allowed except some regulated fishing.

The league would maintain a part of the 5,000 acres as a game propagation haven, open a part for hunting and leave undisturbed camp sites used by Girl Scouts, the League for Crippled Children and other groups.

The league also recognized that the federal government may wish to keep "Shangri La," the summer home of the late President Roosevelt.

The group voted to have its annual meeting at Ocean City June 6-8, 1952.

Yesterday the Maryland sportsmen were given a picture of work being done to clean up the state's streams. An outline was presented by Secretary Paul V. McKee of the State Water Pollution Control Commission.

McKee said some Garrett County streams are devoid of life because of pollution and said action will be taken as soon as a solution is found.

He said two Western Maryland firms have been ordered to make studies leading to construction of sewage and waste treatment plants and that one has spent several million dollars in that connection.

Another, he said has been ordered to put in waste treatment equipment to cut the amount of sand going into the Potomac.

Six additional firms have been ordered to stop practices which pollute the river.

Most of the companies are in Cumberland and Hagerstown, according to McKee's listing.

Concerning another phase of sportsmens' activities, L. H. Crickenberger of Frederick, representing the Maryland State Grange, told league members that sportsmen must take the initiative if there are to be good relations between hunters and farmers.

He offered these suggestions:

Always ask a farmer if you may go on his property. Leave your car where he can see it. Always thank him before leaving.

The League meeting continued today with a dinner and further business sessions.

Police Warn Motorists Of High Accident Rate

Allegany County residents are reminded of the highway accidents predominant at this time of year.

Colonel Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, yesterday cautioned the people of Maryland that this is the time of year when days are shorter —when dusk with its deceptive shadows, closes in before most of us are home at night—rush hour traffic clutters the roads—accidents are at their peak.

"Always reduce your speed at night" Colonel Munshower said "because the speed a driver can safely travel at night depends not only on his physical condition, the condition of his car, the road surface, and the weather, but largely on the effective range of his head lights. At high speeds he may be traveling too fast to stop by the time the danger becomes apparent to him via his headlights.

"Posted speed limits must not be regarded, necessarily, as the recommended speed at night. Posted speeds are based on the speed considered safe in good weather, in normal traffic and during the day.

"Stop on the highway at night only when absolutely necessary. When this is the case, pull over off the road as far as possible and leave parking and dome lights on. More and more automobile travelers have discovered the advantage of carrying emergency flares with them for such occasions.

"Watch out for pedestrians."

Mercy Errand Ends With Four In Hospital

Driver Hurt As Ambulance Upsets

A Moorefield, W. Va., ambulance driver on an errand of mercy Saturday night was admitted to Memorial Hospital along with three other accident victims from that area.

Brown M. Kessel, 32, employe of the Thrush Funeral Home, was bringing another accident victim to Memorial Hospital when the embulance turned over near Old Fields, W. Va., about four miles from Moorefield on Route 220.

West Virginia State Police said last night Kessel's vehicle failed to round a curve when the accident occurred. The ambulance left the highway and rolled over into a field. He suffered injuries of the back and x-rays were taken yesterday. His condition was reported last night as "good" by attaches.

Was On Way To Cumberland

According to police, Kessel was bringing Mrs. Lola Myers, Moorefield, to Memorial Hospital following an accident involving two cars at 10:50 p. m. at Fort Run, one mile east of Moorefield on Route 55.

An automobile driven by Foster Schell, according to police, was traveling west toward Moorefield. Mrs. Myers was also in the vehicle which collided head-on with an automobile operated by Weldon J. Fitzwater, Fort Run. Considerable damage was caused, State Police noted last night.

Woman Seriously Hurt

Mrs. Myers was taken to the hospital in extreme shock according to attaches, and suffered a possible fractured skull, lacerations and abrasions. Her condition is reported as "fair" and x-rays will be taken today.

The condition of Fitzwater is "fair." He sustained a fractured nose and jaw with lacerations about the face. Schell is reported in "good" condition and x-rays will be taken today. He suffered lacerations and abrasions.

Assisting State Police at Moorefield in the investigation is C. G. Robinette, police chief of that community.

George Greise Hurt In Crash

A Bedford Road youth was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday suffering injuries from a highway accident which occurred about 3:50 p. m. near the Pennsylvania State Line.

State Police identified the youth as George F. Greise, 18, son of George F. Greise, Bedford Road. He was reported as "resting comfortably" last night by hospital attaches, and will be X-rayed today.

About $50 damages resulted in the afternoon mishap, according to police. Greise, operating a pickup truck, was reported to be driving west on Bedford Road when he saw a parked truck headed in the same direction.

In an effort to avoid hitting the other vehicle, Greise swerved off the highway and turned over, police added. Trooper Robert Wolford investigated but no charges were preferred.

Organ Recital Will Be Given Tuesday

An organ recital will be presented tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at First Church of Christ Scientist, Washington Street, by five students of Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt, Avirett Avenue.

The pupils include the Misses Deirdre Wilson, Shirley Brinkman, Mary Linne Stitley, and Dorthalee Raines and Robert Mann.

Marriage Licenses

Randall Leo Miller, LaVale, and Monica Marie Browning, 427 Greene Street.

William Vincent Partlow, 430 North Mechanic Street, and Wanda Lee Parsons, 326 Reservoir Avenue.

John Homer Shaffer, Hyndman, Pa., and Ida Jeneen See, Ellerslie.

Robert Archie Burdock and Mary Jane Drees, both of RFD 2, Frostburg.

George Barnett, 339 Frederick Street, and Margaret Colwell, Washington, D. C.

Arthur Clarence Warnick, 29 High Street, Oakland, and Myrtle Icie Thomas, Second Street, Oakland.

Edgar Leroy Alderton, 1003 Harding Avenue, and Inez Mary Jean Beck, 812 Shades Lane.

Flue Fire Checked

A flue fire in the Thomas Street area was checked by South End firemen yesterday at 11:06 a. m. No damage was reported.

The Weather

The warm, clear atmosphere yesterday resulted in crowded area highways as residents enjoyed another Sunday drive. Temperatures, reaching into the 70s, were comfortable in spite of the high humidity percentage. A slight wind was reported coming from the East early yesterday evening indicating possible rain. The Weather Bureau predicts likely drizzle or light rain for the west portion of the state today with some cloudiness and warmer temperatures. The high temperature as reported by Constitution Park weather station was 73 degrees, the low was 35, and at 8 p. m., the mercury leveled at 58 degrees. Humidity was marked at a wet 68 per cent.

Lutherans To Confer Here Tomorrow

Presbyterians To Gather Wednesday

Beginning today with a conference at St. Luke's involving 12 Lutheran churches of the Tri-State area, at which the Rev. Dr. Paul C. Empie, of New York City, will preach, there will be three notable church gatherings in Cumberland within the week.

Following the conference this afternoon and this evening at St. Luke's, there will be a fellowship gathering Wednesday evening of Presbyterians of Western Maryland and West Virginia at Centre Street Methodist Church hall at which the Rev. Dr. Allan MacLachan Frew, of Ardmore, Pa., will be the speaker. Next Sunday at First Christian Church, Bedford street, union services to mark Reformation Day will be held with the Rev. Dr. Dwight F. Putman, president of the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the United Lutheran Church, as speaker.

Purpose Shown

Purpose of the two meetings at St. Luke's is to plan methods of completing local church 1951 goals in the $3,300,000 Lutheran World Action Appeal for relief and reconstruction abroad and for ministry to Lutherans in the U. S. armed forces. Rev. Dr. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's and conference chairman, said Saturday that the first meeting tomorrow will be at 3:30 p. m. for LWA directors, church auxiliary officials and pastors. A supper meeting at 6:30 will be for the same persons plus at least six or more laymen from each congregation. The Lutheran churches cooperating are St. Paul's, St. Luke's and St. John's, this city; St. Paul's, Frostburg; St. Mark's, Oakland; Trinity, Keyser, W. Va.; Trinity, Bedford, Pa.; and the five churches of the Friends' Cove charge in Bedford County, Pa., Bald Hill, Bortz, St. James, St. Mark's and Yeager Memorial.

Dr. Empire To Talk

The Lutheran World Action representative in charge of the conference will be the Rev. Dr. Empie, executive director of the National Lutheran Council, the agency which supervises the gathering and distribution of LWA funds from more than 10,000 local churches which are affiliated with eight general Lutheran bodies participating in the Council.

As executive director of the Council, Dr. Empie also heads the U. S. A. Committee for the Lutheran World Federation and is responsible for the whole program of relief and reconstruction abroad. During the summer of 1950, he spent two months in Europe, conferring with church leaders in England, France, Germany and Yugoslavia.

With Dr. Empie's first hand knowledge and the reports he receives from Lutheran representatives in most European countries, in Asia, Africa and South America, he has become one of the best informed men in America today on the post-war chaos which exists abroad and the challenge presented to the churches of America.

Badminton Club To Open Season

The Cumberland Badminton Club will start its winter playing schedule tonight at the Fort Hill School gymnasium.

Players in this section wishing to join the club this year should attend the meeting tonight. The club will meet Monday and Thursday evenings this winter at the Fort Hill School. As only three courts are available the membership will be limited to fifty.

THOROUGHBREDS—Lassie and Laddie, shown here by Mrs. Joseph Ansel, Jr., along with five Collie puppies, are listed among the better registered Collies in the area. The pair, almost identical to their motion picture counterparts produced their first litter of puppies, all identical, about eight weeks ago. Mrs. Ansel, the former Miss Catherine Bopp, along with her husband, makes a hobby of raising thoroughbred Collies at their home, Hazen Road. They started their hobby about two years ago.

2 Murder Cases Scheduled This Week At Court

Margaret E. Gray Trial Set Today

Two murder cases will take up most of the second week of criminal trials at the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Today Margaret E. Gray, 39, of North Branch, will undergo trial for the fatal shooting of Niles J. Michael August 2 at their home in a C. and O. Canal lock house.

She is represented by two court-appointed attorneys, Noel Speir Cook and Estel Kelley. Most of today's session will be devoted to selecting a jury.

The Gray case, the state's attorney's office said, will probably go over into tomorrow and the case against Shirley Meek Schurg, of Hoffman, will likely get underway Wednesday.

Mrs. Schurg is charged with shooting her husband as he returned home early in the morning of August 6. He died five days later in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Beeman, 25-year-old Midland man convicted by a jury of first degree murder of his wife, Donna (Airhart) Beeman, will be sentenced either to death or life imprisonment tomorrow.

A motion for a new trial was filed by his attorneys, Earl E. Manges and Thomas N. Berry, Saturday in Circuit Court. However, court attaches said the sentencing will take place as scheduled, with action on the new trial to come later.

Eleven sentences were handed down Saturday in Circuit Court by Judges Morgan C. Harris and George Henderson.

Included in the number were three prison terms.

Dr. Bonner Attending Hercules Conference

Dr. Lyman G. Bonner, LaVale, of the Allegany Ballistics Plant, is one of the research supervisors from 13 Hercules Powder Company plants attending the eighth annual company-wide research conferences at Wilmington, Del.

On the agenda are discussions on process savings as well as research plans for the coming year. In charge of Dr. John C. Robinson, Jr., the meetings will take place at the Hercules Country Club.

Heart Group To Meet

Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association board of directors will meet today at 8 p. m. in the Post Office building, Thomas F. Conlon, president, announces.

A report on the current membership drive of the group will be given at the meeting.

Today's Sermonette

What think ye of Christ? St. Matthew 22:42.

By REV. RAYMOND A. FAULDS, Jr.

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church by the pastor, Rev. Raymond A. Faulds, Jr. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

An Effective Religion

An atheist once wrote, "Every man lives by believing something." If that means anything, surely, it means that every man has a religion. If the statement of the atheist is true, then we must all examine our beliefs. If we are religious people, then — with our eyes upon the conditions prevailing in the world — we must admit there is something radically wrong with the religion of the masses. We must ask ourselves: "Are we fulfilling the requirement of an effective religion?" What is an effective religion?

Rev. Faulds

First, an effective religion must be a personal religion. It is good to hear a neighbor say, "Whereas I was blind, now I see," but it is of no benefit to us unless it drives us to the same Illuminator to have our own sight restored. It is encouraging to hear the witness of the aged that God has never forsaken them. But another man's testimony cannot be our religion. We must go beyond that and say, "Now I believe, not because of what thou sayest but I have seen Him for myself." "What think ye of Christ?" Only a personal religion can be an effective religion.

Second, an effective religion must bring succor to a weary and sinful world. We do not need denunciation; we have a conscience that plays that part well. We need kindness — someone to believe in us, someone to trust us, someone to love us. That is also what others—the cynical, the hard, the bitter—need. We cannot argue them into a belief in an all-ruling love, yet we may melt them into such a faith. An effective religion must bring succor to the weary and sinful world.

Third, an effective religion will constrain its adherents to form a community, a church. Paul said: "We are his body." But what is a body? It is that through which alone the heart, the mind, the will within expresses itself outwardly If the body of Christ fails in its work how shall the world know the thoughts of God toward it and the love of Christ for it? We are his feet to run for him, his hands to bring and carry for him. If the body fails, the world in its need will know nothing of it all.

Further, an effective religion must contain a gospel, must have some "good news." The greatest miracle which Christ wrought—our salvation — does provide a gospel. Salvation is good news. Salvation through faith is a theory, but it is a theory that works. No one can say: "I have a salvation I can explain." But millions can say: "I know whom I have believed and am persuaded he is able to keep that which I have committed to him." An effective religion must contain a gospel that sin is pardoned, that there is cleansing for every stain.

This is not a cheap gospel. It is not a light optimism encouraging the careless. It is a gospel only procured through Calvary and the Cross. An effective religion must contain a gospel which is "good news" to the worst, the lowest, the most despairing. The religion of Christ meets all the qualifications for an effective religion. "What think ye of Christ?"

15-Mile Jaunt Of Young Explorers Causes Alarm

Five Hyndman, Pa., "explorers," wondering what was on the other side of the mountain, ended up in Cumberland last night. Leaving their homes at 10 a. m. yesterday on a hike through the woods, the group probed the area causing a community-wide search.

A Bedford Road resident, who lives about five miles from Cumberland, notified city police the travelers had inquired at her home of their whereabouts and how to get back home.

The five hikers were told how to get to this city and proceeded down Bedford Road ending their 15 mile jaunt at 9:25 p. m. After notification from here, parents of one of the explorers called at police headquarters for the party.

Police identified the strollers as Vern Mowery, 9, Freeman Miller, 12, Very Miller, 13, Gloria Miller, 10 and Charles Thompson, 11. The group found out, police said, that Centerville was located "over the mountain."

Flintstone Firemen Quench Woods Blaze

Flintstone volunteer firemen extinguished a woods fire yesterday afternoon on the west side of Polish Mountain about one mile from Flintstone.

Chief Palmer Howsare said firemen arrived at the scene at 2 p. m. and had the blaze under control by 4:30 p. m.

Three Draw Prison Terms In Court Here

Nine Others Given Suspended Sentences

A number of sentences were handed down Saturday by Judges Morgan C. Harris and George Henderson in Circuit Court, here.

Harry Clinton Jackson, found guilty by a jury of statutory burglary of the G. and W. Lunchroom, was sent to the House of Correction for three years.

Another man, William Ellsworth Simpson, larceny and theft on two counts, sentenced to the House of Correction for two years on each charge, with the terms to run concurrently.

Mrs. Nettie R. Green, 22-year-old mother of a six-year-old child, was sent to the Maryland Reformatory for Women for a period not to exceed one year on one count of forgery.

Four other charges of forgery aganst the Westernport woman were ordered marked as stet processus, or held on the books.

Suspended Sentences

Arlie Lease, who pleaded guilty to assault with intent to kill, was given a three-year sentence in the House of Correction that was suspended on condition that he refrain from the use of alcohol.

Seven men involved in the theft of and receiving stolen copper wire from the dump at the Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation were sentenced by Judge Harris.

Joseph Welsh, three wire theft counts, three terms of three years in the House of Correction to run concurrently, all suspended.

Leo F. Welsh, two wire theft counts, two terms of three years in the House of Correction to run concurrently, all suspended.

Russell J. Collins, one count of receiving stolen goods, one year in the House of Correction, suspended.

Marvin Collins, one count of receiving stolen goods, term not to exceed three years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males, suspended.

George Leydig, one count of receiving stolen goods, three years in the House of Correction, suspended.

Faced Two Counts

Robert Weaver, two counts of receiving stolen goods, two five-year terms in the House of Correction, suspended.

Raymond Eugene Duckworth, one count of wire theft, sentenced to the Maryland Reformatory for Males for a period of not exceeding one year, suspended.

Two youths from National, Glenn Morgan and William T. Leatherman, who pleaded guilty to two charges of theft of mine supplies, were each given two suspended terms, each not exceeding three years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

Reon Glessner, Wright's Crossing junk dealer, Saturday had a one-year term in the House of Correction imposed Friday for accepting stolen goods changed to a suspended five-year sentence. The parole provision is that he must leave the state within ten days.

While the docket for this term is large, in one week 25 criminal trials have been disposed of already out of a total 55, according to Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden.

Rosary Workers Meet Tonight

Workers in the Family Rosary Crusade of St. Patrick's Catholic Church will meet at 8 p. m. today in the library of St. Patrick's School. Members of the parish are urged to attend.

Wolford Dies From Wounds While Hunting

Services Set Today At Slanesville, W. Va.

A short service for Irvin Glenn Wolford, Williams Road, hunting accident victim, will be held today at 1 p. m. at Kight's Funeral Home by Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of the Cumberland Methodist Circuit.

The funeral cortege will go to Mount Union Church at Slanesville, W. Va. where last rites will be conducted by Rev. Hartman. Burial will be in Mount Union Cemetery.

The father of five small children, Wolford died Saturday morning at 10:10 a. m. in Allegany Hospital and became the second hunting season victim in Allegany County within seven days.

Accidentally Shot

Wolford, according to Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator at the LaVale Barracks, was accidentally shot Friday at 5:15 p. m. by a fellow hunter and close friend, Herbert Herman Gross, 34, of Route 5, Braddock Road, also a furloughed Celanese worker.

Wolford, Gross and four others were in a party hunting in the section of Green Ridge Mountain, four miles south of the old CCC camp and just off the George Road when the accident occurred.

Investigator Baker said the party separated Friday morning and convened at noon for lunch. Again they separated and at the time of the shooting, Gross told Baker that he shot at what he thought was a squirrel.

The blast from the .12 gauge shotgun was followed by Wolford's scream," I've been shot," Baker said.

Gross yelled for help and another member of the party, James B. Smith, 33, of Cash Valley Road, helped him carry the wounded man to the Gross auto.

Gets Full Charge

Baker said the section where the shot was fired had very thick underbrush and overgrowth.

The full charge hit Wolford in the upper left arm, left side and back. Death was caused by a hemmorrhage of the lung, according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner.

The three others in the hunting party were Lloyd Gross, brother of Herbert Gross, who was a next door neighbor of the victim; Lloyd's son, Leroy, 13, and James W. Norris, 36, of LaVale.

The state's attorney's office is conducting the investigation and no charges have been placed.

Wolford was employed in the Service Department at Amcelle. He was born at Slanesville, W. Va., and had been a resident of this city for 30 years.

He was the son of Mrs. Leona (Kidwell) Wolford Deahl, of this city, and the late John Wolford.

Besides his mother, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Walker) Wolford; five children, Donald I. Wolford, Donald G. Wolford, Carolyn A. Wolford, Sonia K. Wolford and Sandra F. Wolford, all at home.

He also leaves two brothers, Jesse E. Wolford and Ernest Wolford this city and four sisters, Mrs Gladys Nelson, Chaneysville, Pa.; Mrs. Edith Day, Paw Paw, W. Va.; Mrs. Pauline Symons, Potomac Park, and Mrs. Irene Martin, LaVale.

Bond Drive Report Given

Allegany County has attained a goal of $324,098 or 85 per cent of a quota of $378,400 in the current defense Bond Drive which ends Saturday.

A report of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury Department says that 9 per cent of the state quota of $8,700,000 has been reached.

County Bond Chairman Lynn C. Lashley urges all residents of Cumberland and Allegany County to purchase their share of bonds during this final week.

Nationally the Secretary of the Treasury reminds the people of America to become a partner in the drive. Principal purposes of the campaign are to maintain and increase the wide distribution of the public debt among as many of the American people as possible.

The discouragement of inflationary spending at a time when inflationary pressures arising out of the defense program are strong, and to encourage the continued practice of thrift and savings among the residents of the United States are also urged.

Repairs On Old Water Line Will Be Resumed This Fall

Water Department crews will resume work this fall on major repairs to the old water line to Lake Gordon in an effort to cut water losses, Water Commissioner George H. Tederick announced yesterday.

He said repairs on the old line last year resulted in elimination of all known major breaks in the line.

About half of the 36 inch concrete pipe line has been reconditioned since the auxiliary line was completed in 1949.

The work will include covering the pipe in areas where it is exposed and plugging of leaks by the application of special metal bands which can be drawn around the concrete pipe.

Only emergency repairs were possible before the auxiliary line was built.

Commissioner Tederick said the plugging of the major leaks in the line has been a factor in cutting water losses and repairs planned on existing filters at Lake Gordon will cut the losses still further.

Repairs on the old filters will be undertaken when six new filters now being planned are completed.

Plans for the filter work at Lake Gordon are expected to be presented to the Mayor and Council next week.

Sportsmen Ask US To Give Catoctin Rec Area Back To Maryland

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 21 (AP)—The League of Maryland Sportsmen today adopted a resolution calling on the federal government to turn over the Catoctin Recreational Area in Northern Frederick County to the State of Maryland.

The National Park Service presently controls the 5,000-acre area. The resolution asked that the land "and improvements thereon" be placed under state control.

The League asked its president, Glenn L. Martin, Baltimore plane manufacturer, to appoint a committee to deal with government officials to bring about the transfer.

The resolution asserted "there is a disposition of the part of the National Park Service to turn back to Maryland" the Frederick County land

The resolution pointed out that the transfer would mean no expense to Maryland except the cost of future maintenance.

As the fall session of the League closed today, members discussed the possibilities of opening parts of the area for hunting. At present no sport is allowed except some regulated fishing.

The league would maintain a part of the 5,000 acres as a game propagation haven, open a part for hunting and leave undisturbed camp sites used by Girl Scouts, the League for Crippled Children and other groups.

The league also recognized that the federal government may wish to keep "Shangri La," the summer home of the late President Roosevelt.

The group voted to have its annual meeting at Ocean City June 6-8, 1952.

Yesterday the Maryland sportsmen were given a picture of work being done to clean up the state's streams. An outline was presented by Secretary Paul V. McKee of the State Water Pollution Control Commission.

McKee said some Garrett County streams are devoid of life because of pollution and said action will be taken as soon as a solution is found.

He said two Western Maryland firms have been ordered to make studies leading to construction of sewage and waste treatment plants and that one has spent several million dollars in that connection.

Another, he said has been ordered to put in waste treatment equipment to cut the amount of sand going into the Potomac.

Six additional firms have been ordered to stop practices which pollute the river.

Most of the companies are in Cumberland and Hagerstown, according to McKee's listing.

Concerning another phase of sportsmens' activities, L. H. Crickenberger of Frederick, representing the Maryland State Grange, told league members that sportsmen must take the initiative if there are to be good relations between hunters and farmers.

He offered these suggestions:

Always ask a farmer if you may go on his property. Leave your car where he can see it. Always thank him before leaving.

The League meeting continued today with a dinner and further business sessions.

Police Warn Motorists Of High Accident Rate

Allegany County residents are reminded of the highway accidents predominant at this time of year.

Colonel Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, yesterday cautioned the people of Maryland that this is the time of year when days are shorter —when dusk with its deceptive shadows, closes in before most of us are home at night—rush hour traffic clutters the roads—accidents are at their peak.

"Always reduce your speed at night" Colonel Munshower said "because the speed a driver can safely travel at night depends not only on his physical condition, the condition of his car, the road surface, and the weather, but largely on the effective range of his head lights. At high speeds he may be traveling too fast to stop by the time the danger becomes apparent to him via his headlights.

"Posted speed limits must not be regarded, necessarily, as the recommended speed at night. Posted speeds are based on the speed considered safe in good weather, in normal traffic and during the day.

"Stop on the highway at night only when absolutely necessary. When this is the case, pull over off the road as far as possible and leave parking and dome lights on. More and more automobile travelers have discovered the advantage of carrying emergency flares with them for such occasions.

"Watch out for pedestrians."

Weather Forecast
Cloudy and warm today with light rain likely.

STAGE SET FOR NEW TRUCE TALKS

Allied Troops Drive Closer To Kumsong

Resistance Fades Southeast Of Hub

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Monday, Oct. 22(AP)—Chinese Red resistance faded suddenly today on the fog-shrouded hills southeast of Kumsong. Allied forces to the northwest were only a mile from the key road hub.

United Nations infantry pushed unopposed through a mass of rolling hills five miles southeast of Kumsong. There were indications the Chinese had abruptly withdrawn from those central front positions.

No contact with the Communists was reported during the night south of Kumsong itself. Allied forces seized a commanding hillcrest a mile from the former Red stronghold and took most of another Sunday.

Elsewhere along the front, action was limited to patrol clashes.

Six brief skirmishes were reported 15 miles north of Munsan and not far from the security area around Panmunjom, where liaison officers from both sides were arranging for resumption of the Korean truce talks.

Reds Throw Tanks Into Battle

AP Correspondent Sam Summerlin said ground forces reported fighting with three Communist tanks northeast of Kumsong — indicating an Allied encircling movement—but this was not officially verified.

The U. S. Eighth Army communique Sunday night reported the battle for Kumsong, 30 miles north of parallel 38, was the only major action along the entire Korean front. Elsewhere fighting dropped off to minor patrol clashes.

In the air war nine B-29 Superforts assigned a "very special" target in North Korea had to turn back when fighter cover failed to arrive. Instead, the bombers dropped their 65-tons of 100-pound bombs on rail facilities at the frequently raided east coast port of Hamhung.

AP Correspondent O. H. P. King, who accompanied the bomber flight, said briefing officers emphasized that "despite unfavorable weather the target is of such importance that we must have a go at it."

Target Not Identified

The target was not identified and there was no indication as to its location.

Thirty-four U. S. F-86 Sabres tangled with more than 50 Russian-built MIGs elsewhere Sunday.

The Fifth Air Force, after studying gun-camera films of the fight, announced that two MIGs were definitely damaged. Earlier it had reported six MIGs damaged. All Allied planes returned safely, headquarters said.

The air battle raged from four to six miles high between the Communist capital at Pyongyang and Sinanju in extreme Northwest Korea.

Since the battle for Kumsong began Oct. 13, American and South Korean troops have inflicted an estimated 11,900 casualties on Chinese Reds.

No 1952 Trends Expected Nov. 6

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Unless there are some unexpected upsets, major party leaders see little chance of picking up any 1952 election trends from the widespread voting Nov. 6.

Local issues predominate in the scattered state and municipal elections this year. But off-shoots of the Senate crime inquiry may provide some interest in races for the New York City Council and for the New Jersey Legislature.

Philadelphia also has a hot mayoralty contest.

Only two states elect governors—Kentucky and Mississippi. Voting in the latter state, however, will be only a formality as Hugh White, a former governor, won a Democratic primary equivalent to election in that state.

The above two states also elect other state officers and members of the legislature. Virginia and New Jersey also elect state legislators.

Four U. S. House members will be chosen in special elections to fill vacancies. Two seats in Pennsylvania and one in New Jersey were vacated by Republicans and one in Ohio by a Democrat. No change in their political complexion is expected, although Democrats concede they are a little afraid about the Ohio seat.

There are two other House vacancies. One will be filled in a special election tomorrow in Maine and the other in Nebraska Dec. 4.

PRAYS FOR SON—Elmer Zimmerman, Goodville, Pa., farmer, quotes from the Bible to explain why he would not permit his six-year-old son, Elmer, Jr., to be taken to a hospital after the boy was struck by an auto, suffering a skull fracture. Zimmerman believes in "faith healing" but police obtained a court order and took the child to a hospital.

DiSalle Directs His Aides To Aim For Price Cuts

Outlines Objective Of New Regulations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle directed his aides tonight to aim at price cuts wherever possible in a general revision of ceilings now being worked out.

In any event, he said, the price line must be held and increases must be an exception rather than a rule.

DiSalle made that pledge in giving his Office of Price Stabilization experts a full-speed-ahead order on setting dollars and cents ceilings. OPS set a target of next March at the latest for writing up to 500 regulations that will cover almost all of the nation's industry.

As Assistant OPS Director Edward F. Phelps issued a set of standards to guide price experts in writing the new orders, DiSalle gave them this goal:

"Our objective must be to keep from increasing prices and to reduce them wherever possible. Any increase should be the exception rather than the rule, and I will not sign any regulations increasing prices past general freeze levels unless accompanied by the fullest kind of economic justification."

Phelps added at a news conference that:

"If inflationary pressures rebuild as indicated during the winter and spring, it is incumbent upon OPS to cut across the delays and confusion which have arisen recently and to erect the kind of price structure which will withstand those pressures.

"Stabilization policy henceforth will have this goal in mind as a matter of priority importance."

Phelps said he hopes OPS is done with "rolling forward" prices.

He explained that he did not mean there will not be any adjustments upward; that some will be inevitable to allow fair and equitable prices as required by the law.

He pointed out that in many cases ceilings are higher than actual prices and may be lowered.

"Ike" Discovers Flag Flying Upside Down

PRESTWICK, Scotland, Oct. 21 (AP)—"By golly, they've got it upside down," Gen. Dwight Eisenhower exclaimed today when he saw ancient Culzean Castle, Ayrshire, where he's to spend a five-day holiday.

It wasn't the 14th century castle, but the American flag he was talking about. He was right, too.

The flag was hastily lowered and run up correctly.

Protestants Protest Clark's Appointment

Senators Annoyed; Capital Row Seen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Protestant outcries, some of them from the pulpit, added up today to notice that there will be a tremendous row at the Capitol over President Truman's move to enter regular diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

Most Congress members, with a wary eye on re-election campaigns coming up next year, were carefully silent even in off-the-record talk as to either (A) their own views on the surprise nomination of Gen. Mark W. Clark to be ambassador to the Catholic church state or (b) their estimates of the outcome.

But Senate Foreign Relations Committee sources told reporters that various Protestant groups already had filed notices they wanted to be heard in opposition. The lawmakers' attitude suggested that most of them would prefer to leave the fighting to such groups.

Some Senators Annoyed

A number of senators, while emphasizing that they were not stating a position on the main issue, privately expressed sharp annoyance over the President's timing. He sent the nomination up yesterday only a few hours before the time scheduled for adjournment of Congress.

That left the lawmakers the choice of passing up any action until January — which is what they did—or delaying their vacation perhaps for days or weeks.

Dr. Edward H. Pruden, Mr. Truman's own pastor here at Washington's First Baptist Church, led off in the pulpit protests.

He read into his sermon a 500-word statement which said he had done "all that it was possible for anyone to do" to head off such a move as the assignment of an ambassador.

Messages Deluge White House

The White House said it was unable to furnish even a count, much less a pro and con tally, today on messages to Mr. Truman on his move, but the mail and telegraph file was expected to run heavy.

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, state clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the USA which numbers 2,500,000 members, wired the President from Philadelphia protesting "most vigorously." He said he acted both personally and on behalf of his church.

On the other side of the argument Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., (D-Lib-NY), said upon his return to New York from a trip to Europe and Africa that the appointment would be of "tremendous value in our fight against communistic Russia."

Italian Reaction

ROME, Oct. 21 (AP) — Most non-Communist Italian newspapers today interpreted President Truman's decision to appoint an ambassador to the Vatican as bid to win the U. S. friends in Catholic countries.

The majority interpreted the move as political and without religious significance.

The Communist and pro-Communist press violently attacked Mr. Truman's action. L'Unita, the Communist organ, said the nomination of Gen. Mark W. Clark "will turn into an even tighter alliance the fight of American imperialism and the Vatican against millions of people, a great part of whom are Catholic. In a lesser way the new ambassador will be the center of a spy ring linked with (Catholic) church organizations in the People's Democracies."

Church Roof Falls; 9 Die

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 21 (AP)—The heavy arched roof of San Juan Evangelista Church gave way suddenly today and collapsed on a class of children taking instruction for communion. At least nine children and adults were killed and more than 25 seriously injured.

Blind Girl's Piano-Playing Gives Her Chance For Sight

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The piano-playing talent of a 21-year-old Texas girl, blind since birth, is providing the means that may give her sight.

The girl, Nanette Tyson, won a television talent program in her home state last Wednesday through her ability at the keyboard.

The prize originally was a week's visit to Hollywood. But it was changed to a trip to New York and examination tomorrow by Dr. Ramon Castroviejo, a corneal transplant specialist at St. Clare's Extension Hospital.

As she stepped off a plane today at La Guardia Airport with her seeing-eye dog, "Hope," Miss Tyson said:

"Of course I am very excited. Everything seems to be happening all at once. I am very hopeful and I think I have a good chance."

The young woman was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. R. J. Tyson, Mobeetie, Tex., where her father is a postmaster.

The sightless girl, who said she learned to type while in the eighth grade, currently is a typist for the Texas State Welfare Department in Dallas.

She said she had been treated by Dr. Castroviejo two years ago and had been saving up ever since for corneal transplant operations. Winning the TV program prize, she said, gave her the chance she has been waiting for.

High Winds Force AEC To Postpone Atomic Explosion

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 21 (AP) — Sudden high winds forced postponement of the Atomic Energy Commission's scheduled nuclear explosion today and assured Southern Nevada of a quiet Sabbath.

Strong gusts aloft, with variable cross currents, were the culprits blamed for the latest delay in the AEC's planned series. The atomic test directors didn't want to run the risk of scattering radio-active dust on Las Vegas and other smaller communities near the Yucca Flat test site.

Surface winds in Las Vegas rose to nearly 25 miles an hour early today, but by noon had almost completely subsided. With the weather outlook favorable, Test Chiefs Carroll L. Tyler and Dr. Alvin C. Graves stayed close to the AEC proving grounds.

Bulldozer Blade Protruding From Trailer Kills Nine

Rips Into Truck Carrying Indians

CASA GRANDE, Ariz., Oct. 21 (AP) —A huge bulldozer blade being hauled on the back of a flatbed trailer ripped through a truckload of fiesta-bound Indians last night, killing nine and injuring your.

The projecting knife-like edge of the 3,600-pound blade slashed into the bed of the Papago Indians' truck on a narrow 18-foot bridge. Screaming men, women and children were spilled onto the road and down into a dry wash.

A 16-year-old girl—one of the eight women and one man who died—was cut in two at the waist.

Scene Of Great Confusion

The scene was one of great confusion. Lawrence H. Ruff, 25, Eloy, driver of the bulldozer truck and trailer, his assistant, Arthur M. Sheets, 25, Eloy, and the Indian truck driver, David Henderson, 32, Casa Grande, tried to help the injured and dying.

Ruff went for help and returned within an hour with medical aid and ambulances.

Leon W. Joquin, 20, one of the 19 Indians in the back of the truck, described the scene.

"There was a big crash," he said, "a lot of scraping, and then a lot of screams. I looked up just in time to see the blade sweep all the women (who were riding on the left side) off our truck.

"Our truck didn't turn over but it rocked against the bridge and that is when I cut my face.

"It was real bad afterward. The bodies of the women were scattered all over the bridge and the little kids were crying.

Investigation Launched

"I think I got sick then," he said.

The dead died almost instantly. The injured were removed to Casa Grande Hospital. They are not critically hurt.

The Indians had been working in cotton fields near Coolidge, Ariz., and boarded the truck to attend a village fiesta at Pisinimo on the Papago reservation.

The two vehicles were still on the reservation when they met on an unpaved section of the Casa Grande-Sells road.

Henderson said he saw the approaching truck and trailer but did not see the bulldozer blade.

Federal, state and county authorities began an investigation early today.

Caravan Of Strikers Spreads Dock Tieup

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—A motor caravan of 150 striking longshoremen roved the waterfront today, appealing to non-strikers to join a seven-day-old wildcat walkout.

They spread the work stoppage to the New Jersey shore and interfered with unloading of the Cunard liner, Queen Mary.

Police officials met to prepare for possible violence on the docks tomorrow.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association, said the motor caravan tactics might seriously cripple the port of New York.

Mossadegh To Speak

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21 (AP) — Premier Mohamed Mossadegh of Iran will visit Independence Hall, the birthplace of American liberty, tomorrow and will speak on an as yet undisclosed subject.

British Naval Vessels Guard Ends Of Canal

Egypt To Speed Up Mobilization Plans

CAIRO, Oct. 21 (AP)—British warships were reported holding both ends of the Suez Canal today against threats posed by a speedup of Egyptian plans to put the country on a war footing.

Thousands of British troops were on the alert all along the 104-mile canal between the navy-guarded terminals of Port Said on the Mediterranean and Port Suez on the Red Sea.

Among the reinforcements still pouring in were two British Royal Air Force antiaircraft squadrons, trained as riflemen as well, to join ground forces as needed. They were due by air from London tonight.

The independent Cairo newspaper Al Mokattam reported the British, with military control of the canal in their hands, were letting oil tankers bound from the east to Israel through the canal without being searched by Egyptian authorities.

Egypt, Israel Still At War

Egypt still is technically at war with Israel and has maintained her right to seize ships going to Israel despite a United Nations condemnation of such seizures. An armistice has prevailed since the 1948 Arab-Israeli fighting but peace efforts are still dragging on.

British military control of the canal apparently supersedes Egypt's right to make customs inspections at Port Said, the main control point. The British themselves shied away from talk about warship movements. A military spokesman said they were regarded as operational and will be kept secret.

The British said the canal continues under control of the French-operated, privately-owned Suez Canal Company. They have reported there has been no disruption in normal transit at the rate of 1,100 ships a month. Company officials in Suez said Saturday there had been no interference with shipping up to then.

British Hold Up Gas Trucks

A report from Suez said the British held up 100 large gasoline trucks which usually carry gasoline from the Shell refinery at Port Tewfik to Cairo. This is the chief supply for automotive fuel in Cairo.

Egypt meanwhile carried on her plans for general mobilization of manpower in wartime fashion.

The general mobilization order was reported in Cairo newspapers to have Egyptian Supreme Court approval. The next step will be parliamentary approval providing also for establishment of a high council of war.

Three Wives Held In Mates' Deaths

BECKLEY, W. Va., Oct. 21 (AP)—Three Raleigh County women faced murder charges today in unrelated slayings of their husbands within a five-minute period, and in widely separated communities.

State police said one man was beaten fatally about the head with a claw hammer and the other two were stabbed to death between 11:45 and 11:50 p. m. (EST) last night.

Trooper C. C. McGraw identified the victims as William Woodrow Lilly, white, 37-year-old father of five children and a resident of Sullivan Hill; Frank Williams, 27, Lillybrook, and Walter Clark, 25, Lester.

McGraw said Williams and Clark were negroes. Already in jail here today were Mrs. Treva Williams, 25, and Mrs. Nellie Clark, also 25.

McGraw said Mrs. Lilly had admitted verbally that she struck her husband between 10 and 12 times in the head, but that she was not taken into custody immediately because of her children.

The officer related that Lilly died about 5 a. m. today in a Beckley hospital.

West Opposes German Reds' Seizure Of Town

BERLIN, Oct. 21 (AP) — The Western Allies reached a united decision today to oppose the East German seizure of the village of Steinstueckeen on the American sector border of Berlin.

Maj. Gen. Lemuel Mathewson, American commandant, said the British and French in a three-power parley had supported his protest to the Russians.

The Americans have demanded that the Soviet control commission nullify the action of their East German police and restore Steinstueckeen to its original status. The village, in somewhat of a no-man's land directly on the Soviet-American frontier, has been functioning as part of West Berlin since 1945.

Charge Boys Burned

Two women, one the wife of the head of an orphanage and school at Anaheim, Calif., are under arrest on charges of unjustifiable punishment after the hands of three boys in the institution allegedly were burned. Revenue Bureau Employes Face Financial Quiz

Questionnaire Will Be Sent Out To 40,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The scandal-shaken Internal Revenue Bureau is setting out this week on the biggest job of inquiry into employes' financial affairs ever attempted by any government agency.

Officials said today they have decided — with sharp misgivings — to require about 40,000 of the bureau's 57,000 employes to submit to a painfully detailed questionnaire.

Full Answers To Be Urged

Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap is preparing a careful message to his staff, urging full answers to all questions as the best way "to prove the integrity of the revenue service to the public."

The bureau is sending out the questionnaire at the prodding of a House investigating subcommittee, which wants to know how many bureau employes may be picking up questionable dollars on the side.

Already the subcommittee, headed by Rep. King (D-Calif), has put the spotlight on bizarre tales of gambling, bribery and high living involving several tax employes.

Many Employes May Balk

Officials and lesser workers who have seen the questions say they are amazed at the mass of detailed information sought, not only about themselves but about all members of their immediate families.

They raise the question that perhaps many employes will consider the questionnaire improper invasion of privacy, a stigma upon them, and just too much trouble.

Officials said Dunlap's message to his staff, expected to go out with the questionnaire in a few days, is designed to ease resentment and try to prevent any disruption of morale or wave of resignations.

Girl Killed When Piano Tips Over In Sunday School

LEVITTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—A five-year-old girl was crushed to death today when a piano tipped over in her Sunday school class.

The child, Jennifer Ann Hume, was the daughter of Nathan E. Hume, a staff sergeant attached to the Continental Air Command at Mitchell Air Force Base.

Another girl, Nancy Algyer, 5, also was caught under the piano but escaped with only bruises.

It fell when several children climbed on it, while their teacher was helping others into their coats to go home.

British Papers See Tory Victory

LONDON, Oct. 21 (AP) — The electoral gap between the Conservatives and Socialists has narrowed, British newspapers of all political faiths reported today — but most forecast a Tory victory in the general election Thursday.

The independent Sunday Observer reported Prime Minister Clement Attle's Laborites made considerable headway during the last seven days of intensive campaigning. That newspaper, though, predicted Winston Churchill's Conservatives will have a majority of 57 in the new House of Commons.

The Conservative Sunday Times said the Conservative majority in the Commons would be at least 100.

In a three-column front page box, the pro-Labor "The People" said its own surveys showed the Conservatives would have a majority of 43 in the new Commons "if the present trend of public opinion continues."

In an apparent attempt to spur Labor supporters, the newspaper added:

"If there is an upward swing of only one per cent in the popularity of Labor, this could swing the election to give Attlee a small majority."

Boy, 3, Kills Brother, Wounds Mother At Drive-In Theater

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21 (AP)—A policeman's three-year-old son shot and killed his baby brother, officers reported, and wounded his mother early today while the family was watching a movie in a drive-in theater.

The distraught father, Los Angeles Policeman Andrew J. Baquet, 32, told other officers the tragedy occurred this way:

The family went to the drive-in theater in suburban Inglewood last night. Baquet was in the front seat of their car with his son, Ronald, three, beside him. Mrs. Emily Baquet, 28, was in the back seat holding the baby, Mark, four months.

Baquet had placed his .38 caliber pistol in its holster on the floor in the back of the car, directly behind him.

There was a gun-fire scene near the end of the movie about 1 a. m. and the parents were watching the picture so intently that they didn't notice that Ronald had crawled from the front to the back of the car.

Baquet said the first he knew of the actual shooting was when his wife stumbled out of the car, moaning: "The baby's dead—I'm hurt."

The baby was dead on arrival at a hospital, shot in the neck. Mrs. Baquet was critically wounded with a bullet in the abdomen.

Investigators believe little Ronald, upon finding his father's gun, held it in both hands and pulled the trigger, much as he had done with a toy pistol at home. Only one bullet was fired.

Allied And Red Officers Sign Security Pact

Delegations Meet Within 48 Hours

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Oct. 22 (AP)—Allied and Communist liaison officers today signed an agreement setting the stage for resumption of the long-suspended Korean armistice talks.

The agreement, providing security arrangements for resumption of the talks at Panmunjon, was signed during an hour and eight-minute session at that small village.

Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior Allied liaison officer, announced afterwards that the full five-member truce delegations would meet within 48 hours.

The agreement provides for three-mile security zones around Red-held Kaesong and this advance U. N. peace camp; a 1,000-yard security zone around Panmunjon; and a quarter-mile corridor on the road to Panmunjon from Kaesong and Munsan.

Subject To Ratification

These "ground rules" are to be ratified by the full truce delegations at their first meeting. There were three copies of the agreement — in Chinese, Korean and English.

The new setting for the talks will be a sandy-floored tent, 36 feet in length and 21 feet wide, supported by four posts. Its only furnishings are a long conference table, four small tables and cloth-covered metal camp chairs. The Reds supplied the tent.

The truce talks had been held at Kaesong until the Reds broke them off Aug. 23.

The liaison officers had gone into Sunday's meeting—their 11th since Oct. 10—stymied on only one issue. That was: Whether Allied planes should have the right to fly over designated attack-free areas, especially over Kaesong, headquarters of the Red truce delegation.

Friendly Spirit Prevails

The Reds wanted mere overflight to be considered a hostile act.

They finally accepted a U. N. promise to limit flights over the security areas "insofar as practicable."

The Allies pointed out they could not guarantee that planes damaged or off course for any reason would not fly over the zone.

"Since they agreed on that point," Kinney said, "we had nothing further to argue about."

It was settled in the same friendly spirit of give and take that has characterized the liaison meetings in the past week.

Both sides will be able to keep troops in the security area but agreed not to commit hostile acts in the zone.

'Lethargia' Ends 1,800-Mile Trip

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21 (AP) — A bronzed, disheveled pair of unmarried couples landed their raft "Lethargia" at the foot of New Orleans' famed Canal Street today ending an 1,800-mile odyssey down three rivers.

The odd-looking bundle of warped boards and oil drums drifted into the Mississippi River bank landing at 3:30 p. m. (CST) 99 days after leaving New Kensington, Pa., to float down the Allegheny, Ohio and Mississippi.

The climax of the highly-publicized trip fell a little flat. Only the press, the mothers of the two girls and a couple of hundred curiousity seekers met the conquering rafters.

Skipper Mary Ellin McCrady, Ann Arbor, Mich., 24-year-old sociology graduate who organized the trip, was the first ashore.

With the onlookers crowded around, Mary Ellin and Geraldine Garcia, Boston, 24, the other girl crew member, introduced their mothers to Don Brown, Detroit, 24, and Milton Borden, New Bedford, Mass., 30, the two men on the trip.

Jessup Indicates He'd Accept Appointment

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Ambassador-at-Large Philip Jessup indicated today he would accept a presidential appointment as interim delegate to the United Nations.

His nomination has been rejected, 3-2, by a Senate subcommittee. Since it wasn't voted on by the Senate, the President has authority to appoint him for service until the next session of Congress Jan. 8.

Jessup, whose record in Far Eastern affairs has been criticized by some Congress members, said on a television program that President Truman has not offered him an interim appointment.

Pressed on whether he would accept it if offered, he replied that he is ambassador-at-large and as such is under orders of the President.

Pallbearers were Talmadge Luttrell, Russell H. King, James L. Lewis, William A. Bowman, Emory J. Bowman, Emory J. Robertson and Robert L. Carter.

If you like matchmates, you can run up a colorful apron to match your kitchen towels in practically no time at all. It requires one kitchen towel, some cotton skirt facing and bias binding. Turn up 10 inches at the lower edge of the towel and stitch through lengthwise center of deep fold to make two pockets. Bind outside edges with bias tape. Pleat top edge of towel for fullness at waistline. Use skirt facing folded through lengthwise center for belt and tie strings, allowing about 27 inches for each string. Stitch from end to end of facing, sewing in apron at belt section.

Women who use razor blades in slitting seams and for other sewing tasks may find this a helpful hint: rescue an old, used match folder from the wastebasket, tear off the cardboard flap, and use the thick stub ends and abrasive strip to slip over one edge of the razor blade. Simply insert one edge of the blade between the stubs to make this handy holder for protecting fingertips.

The Old Second Guesser

Did You Ever Chase A Fox?

We were invited to hunt breakfast the other day which is an excuse for all hands to lie about their prowess and get tight around half-past eleven in the morning at the expense of the M. F. H.—Master of Fox Hounds to you. They admit pedestrians to these affairs, so we showed up. There was a bar with two gents behind it in white coats and a lot in front and no tabs. You only had to mention your poison — whisky, cocktails, champagne. In fact, everybody was there but the fox, and maybe he was smart to stay away, and that's how he got his reputation.

John Wheeler

There was an old friend of mine named George Buckley, who was an accomplished character and full of quaint sayings, stories, and frequently chewed up pieces of glass. When feeling fit, he would take a bite out of a highball tumbler and crunch it between his teeth, like a cow chewing her cud, a trick that was very entertaining to the bystanders and less harmful. One kibitzer, after witnessing a performance, made the cynical crack which I may have mentioned before.

"What?" he asked. "You're not going to eat the stems? Why they are the best part."

As an example of his quaint sayings, I once heard him turn to a friend and remark,

"May the skin of a gooseberry cover your enemies."

He was born and grew up in the Middle West on the wrong side of the tracks, the same side as the local livery stable. Some of his richer neighbors decided to organize a fox hunt, so they sent to England to get a few books to read the rules. George goes on with the tale.

"Some bought horses and the rest rented them from the livery stable. They collected red coats and hounds and had photographs made for the local paper. The first meeting was scheduled for Thanksgiving morning, and the bunch gathered on the outskirts of town. Soon the dogs gave tongue and were off hell bent with the riders straggling behind and no fences higher to jump than the railroad tracks for they headed that way. Finally the whole gang wound up in a blind alley alongside the public barn and cornered was not a fox, but a female dog which had strayed across their path, and ran home to try to escape the turmoil. Some of the more timid members resigned after this initial experience."

When I first moved to Ridgefield, Conn., I had a horse which would jump, and I bought a hard hat and black coat, as I was only a private in the rear rank and did not rate a pink one. Strange as it may seem, the M.F.H. was a lady and for my money it was hard to tell her from one of the dogs of the same sex. On a bright morning, I started out full of enthusiasm and chased the hunt for about 10 miles before I caught up when I reported for duty. Instead of being welcomed, I got bawled out for breaking some rule I had never heard of, so I made a couple of suggestions as to what she could do with her outfit, and maybe she tried them, for she has never been very well since. One was to stuff the hounds down her gullet one by one.

The local hunt had a little deer trouble a few years ago, because the dogs got to running these animals instead of foxes, and some of the members found they made better eating. Anyway, there must have been a spy or a game warden in the crowd, for the next thing there was hell to pay, and it looked as if some of the boys and girls might go to the sneezer for a while. The matter was settled for a fine that amounted to something like $16,000 as I recall it which made the venison more expensive than if they had ordered it in the Restaurant 21.

There are a lot of gadgets in connection with this sport. In the first place, you must have money and then dress a certain way. If they want the hounds to chase the fox, they don't holler — "Go on Fido," but "Yoicks." When you see the quarry, shout "View halloo." If you yell, "There goes the so-and-so now," you will be stripped of your uniform, thrown out and become a retired fox hunter.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

LAS VEGAS, Nev., (INS)—Somehow it was oddly comforting—when that bomb fizzled the other morning in the desert—to note that human frailty is still the true master of the world. Master even of as ferocious an example of the industrial age as a nuclear explosion.

Some Joe from the electrical union failed to tighten the widget that connects with the gadget that aggitates the dingbat that applies the punk to the fuse of the plutonium (first semi-stable element created by other than God).

So the thingamagig foofed off like a penny firecracker submerged in a rainy 4th of July. The whole involved and costly program fell down around the ankles of the earnest young atomic wizards and distinguished military people conducting history's first atomic war games.

They recalled later—when they appeared dog tired at a news conference, like the good sports they are—that when nothing happened atop the bomb tower their eyes sought one another's questioningly, and they said "but all the green lights changed to red and the thingmajig did the right nip-ups, and energy equals m. c. square."

But the Joe from the electrical union had got in his incompetent licks and there wasn't anything to do. Joe was somewhere back in Las Vegas looking for a dice table with good odds on a nine the hard way—three threes.

As one correspondent who "felt" for the frustrated atomic wizards said later, Joe had rigged up a Christmas tree's lights with one bad bulb, so none of them lighted up. That wasn't any rap against the three.

The men of science were so flabbergasted, or are so intrinsically honest, that they did not even try to alibi away their befuddlement, although they knew they'd soon have half a hundred querulous red-eyed and unshaven correspondents breathing heavily upon them. They just said they muffed it. They might have said "boys, we called it off at the last minute because the transmutation of cirrus layers of aboreal framskans might well have fricaseed the North Star." For one, I would gladly have accepted that explanation with a knowing leer of a half-mast eyelid.

But getting back to human frailties' retention of the championship, the more aggressive conductors of these atomic tests announced shortly after the fizzle that Joe's bad wire would be spliced in a jiffy, that the reprieved test animals would be given a double tot of "Red Heart" and the test would go ahead on schedule the next day—same time, same atomic battlefield, same sponsor.

But the jaws of the 2,000 experts needed to conduct the test were drooping. They were sleepy after 30 hours in the field, just plain sleepy. Even the Nobel prize winning timber among the experts yawned just like other people. Can't very well split an atom—a rather small object—when you're pooped out, can you? So let's hit the sack, like we were tired plumbers.

Then there was the case of Charlie Clark. Ever hear of Charlie Clark? Neither did I until about 5 a. m. Friday morning at Cactus Springs, Nevada. Cactus Springs consists of a fine little filling station, a really good restaurant and curio shop, a few cabins, a horse that barrels through his wire coral every time an a-bomb goes off, a Dalmatian, a gentle little mama dog who is three-quarters coyote, and a wonderful couple named Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wilkinson. That's all, except that Jim used to be a big man with the United States Rubber Company, got fed up with strikes after he came out of the Navy, and came out this way to found not only the smallest town in America but the one closest to the biggest news on earth, our a-bomb tests.

Anyway, a car screeched into Cactus Springs, Nevada, at the aforesaid 5 a. m. Friday morning and scraped to a stop near the town's tallest structure—gas pump No. 2. Out jumped a man who saluted Jim respectfully and asked him if he had Charlie Clark staying with him in one of the cabins. Jim shook his head and the man wheezed unhappily.

"Charlie hasn't checked out of the bomb area," the man said. (It was expected to go off any moment.) Then he jumped back into his car and sped off into the night, searching for the needle that was Charlie Clark in the haystack of the gnarled mountains. Human beings still matter. So do their frailties. For example, the proprietor of a local gambling house nailed a big sign to his wall that night. It read:

"Forget the atom bomb — just shoot craps."

Girl Scouts To Open Course

The Girl Scout Organization is offering a course in Group Leadership to young women beginning tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the Girl Scout House, Greene Street.

Mrs. Roberta McFarland, local Girl Scout executive director, will give the course which is designed primarily for Girl Scout leaders and troop committee members, but which will include material for playground leaders, Sunday School teachers or club leaders of any group. There will be five sessions, as follows: Oct. 23, 1 to 3 p.m.; Oct. 30, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. (lunch); Nov. 13, trip to camp, and Nov. 20, 1 to 3 p.m.

The course will include discussions on what girls want and need; service to others; role of the volunteer leader; and program planning.

Members of the course will have a chance to participate in folk dancing, simple crafts, nature lore and group singing. A trip to the Girl Scout camp at Green Ridge has been planned where the group will learn the art of out-door cookery.

Anyone may enroll by calling the Girl Scout office, 4633.

Motion To Dismiss Estes Suit Filed

A motion to dismiss the suit filed by John L. Estes, this city, member of the Employment Security Board, against J. Millard Tawes, state comptroller, for a salary increase was docketed in Circuit Court here.

The motion was filed by William G. Walsh, who is acting as attorney for the comptroller.

The petition contends that the Allegany County court lacks the jurisdiction in this case and declares that the state comptroller cannot be sued in any other county other than Ann Arundel, in which the state capital is located.

Two weeks ago an answer to the suit, docketed by Paul M. Fletcher and W. Earle Cobey for Estes, was received here from the office of the Attorney General Hall Hammond.

Estes' suit declares that he was appointed to the state position in May and assumed office June 1.

However, the suit states, the General Assembly last spring ordered the State Salary Board to re-set the wage scale of the Employment Security Board members.

This the salary group did on July 3, raising the salary from $5,000 annually to $6,500. Estes declares that he was paid on the $5,000 basis during June, and during the first half of July received the $6,500 scale.

The second half wage was held up by Tawes, the suit contends, because the attorney general's office had ruled the $5,000 schedule still applied to the job held by Estes.

Estes contends he had no salary technically when he assumed office because of the action of the General Assembly ordering an increase.

A state law says the salary of a state employe cannot be increased or decreased during his term of office.

Two Area Soldiers Wounded In Korea

Two more area soldiers have been wounded in action in Korea, according to the Department of Defense. They are:

Pvt. Albert A. Pilo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Pilo, 28 East Savory Street, Palo Alto, Bedford County, Pa., and Pfc. Fred H. Knisely, son of Mrs. Bertha Knisely, Meyersdale, Somerset County, Pa.

Wounds suffered in action by Cpl. John T. Rankin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rankin, Washington Street, Lonaconing, have been reported "serious" in a second notice from military authorities.

B&O President To Speak At CC Dinner Here Nov. 1

Col. Roy B. White, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, and chairman of the boards of directors of the Reading Co. and the Central Railroad of New Jersey, will be the guest of honor and only speaker at a Chamber of Commerce sponsored dinner November 1 at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club honoring the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad as one of Cumberland's leading industries.

Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Second National Bank and of the C. of C., will preside and introduce Col. White.

A similar public dinner sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce last May honored the Celanese Corporation and had Harold Blancke, Celanese president, as the only speaker.

These public dinner-meetings are a project of the C. of C. under Mr. Naughton's leadership to bring the heads of Cumberland industries into closer contact with representative groups of citizens, and to talk straight from the shoulder about mutual problems.

William H. Buchholtz, City Commissioner of Finance, is chairman of the membership activities committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner meeting. Others on the committee are Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., Tom. V. Litzenburg, Malcolm Campbell, James Orr, Thomas L. Keech, James B. Reinhart, Ward N. Hauger, Simon Rosenbaum, Ray F. Hammer and H. Clifford Spiker.

The dinner will get under way at 6:30 p.m. and reservations may be made starting today.

Col. White began his railroad career as an operator at Indianapolis in 1900 before he was 17 years old. He was a train dispatcher less than three years later and was promoted to chief train dispatcher at Indianapolis in 1908. At the age of 26 he was a division superintendent. On May 1, 1917 White had his first eastern assignment, becoming superintendent of the Philadelphia division. Then followed transfer to Baltimore as division superintendent, and promotion to be general superintendent of the Maryland District in 1921. He was serving as general manager of B & O New York properties and as senior vice president and then president of the Central of N. J. when he resigned to take the presidency of Western Union Telegraph Co. in 1933.

Col. White was elected president of the Baltimore and Ohio June 1, 1941. He continues as a member of the Western Union board of directors and is on the board of trustees for Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

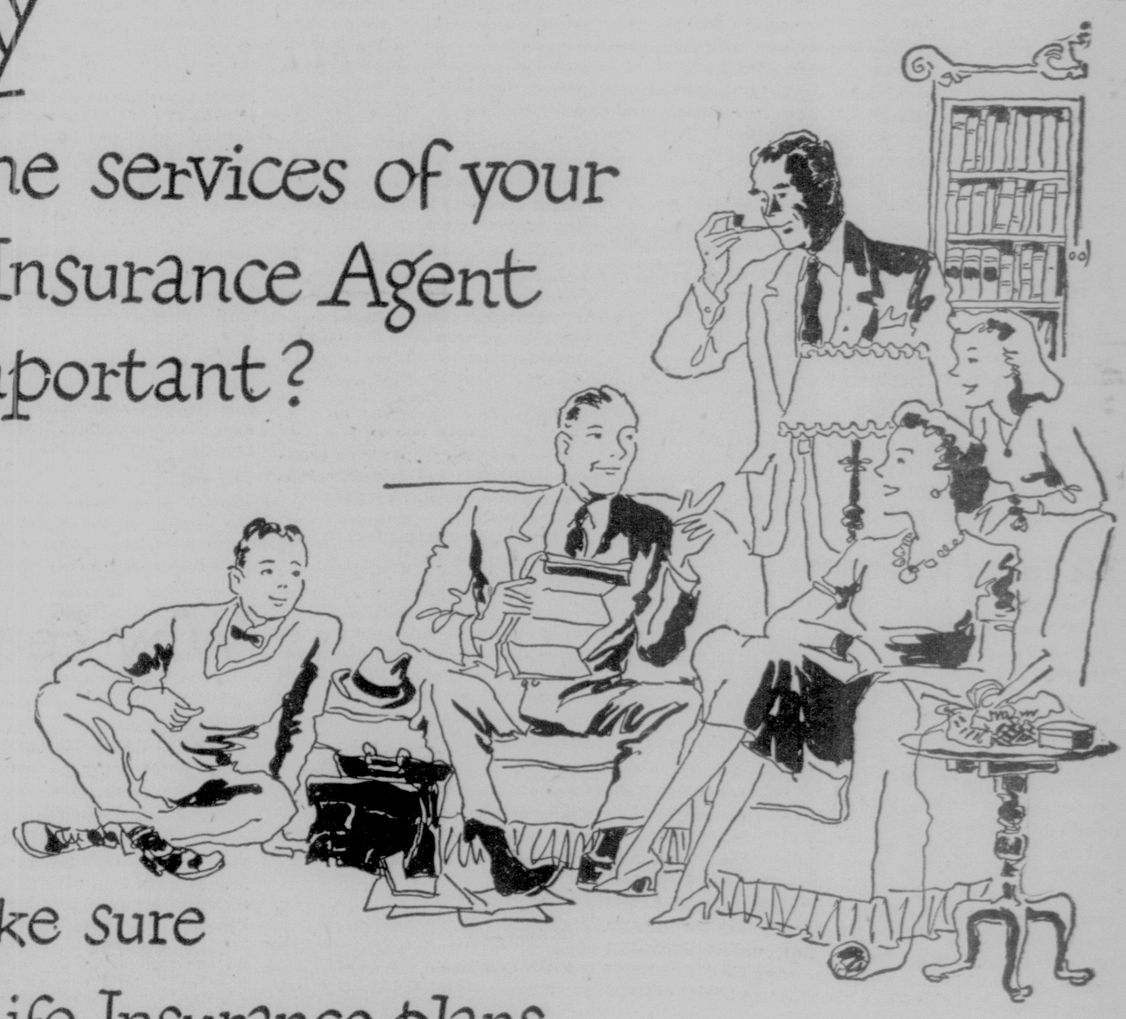
Why are the services of your Life Insurance Agent so important?



To make sure your Life Insurance plans continue to fit your needs and desires

Families have different incomes and varying needs for life insurance. Some have to support children. Others have the responsibility for aging parents. Some want to assure maximum protection for the family now, or plan for college for the youngsters. Still others want to provide for their own retirement years

These situations change throughout a person's lifetime.

At any time, you are entitled to call upon your life insurance agent and your company for the service you need to meet these changes.

Today more than 150,000 life insurance agents are qualified by training and experience to help you select and use life insurance effectively.

Your policies should be checked over at least every second year. This service is without extra charge. And both your life insurance company and your agent want you to make use of it. It is every policyholder's privilege.

America's 83 million policyholders, through life insurance, are making America a better place to work in and to live in. They are providing for the future of their families and themselves. Their life insurance dollars are invested all over the country. And their healthy habit of thrift is one of the nation's strongest bulwarks against inflation.

Jihad–The Holy War

The rising Moslem nationalism throughout the Middle East is being described as a kind of Jihad, or Holy War. Early reports from Pakistan indicated that the assassin of Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan was a religious fanatic urging holy war by Pakistan's Moslems against India's Hindus.

Ali Razmara, Irania npremier, was assassinated by extremists for going too slow on nationalizing the British oil concession, and King Abdullah of Jordan was killed by firebrands angered by his negotiations with Britain and his alleged cordiality to Israel. Other Western-oriented leaders have been the victims of mobs in Syria, Lebanon, Egypt, and anti-foreign sentiment seems to be on the rise in Iraq.

Aroused nationalists in Egypt would throw the British infidels out of their country, the Suez Canal Zone, the Sudan. Egypt is expected to bring before the UN General Assembly meeting at Paris in November charges that the new regime in Libya is little more than a British puppet state, also demands for the independence of French-governed Morocco. From his asylum in Egypt, the exiled Riff leader, Abd-el-Krim warns, "I am working for the independence of all North Africa, not just Morocco."

But except in Pakistan, the Moslem nationalistic pressures appear political rather than religious. Although Mohammedanism is no longer the state religion of Turkey, the majority of Turks are Moslems. Yet Turkey has eagerly cooperated with the West, and in the United Nations has maintained a course independent of Arab League policy. Saudi Arabia, another Moslem state, is friendly to the West.

Moreover, for centuries nationalistic feeling has split Islam. Mohammedans in Morocco, for example, recognize as caliph (religious leader) their sultan, "only living descendant of the prophet." Some Mohammedans recognize seven caliphs; others, 12.

The concept of the Jihad, or Holy War, emerged early in the development of Mohammedanism. Based on the religious obligation to disseminate the faith—either by persuasion or by the sword—it became almost a sixth commandment for the faithful.

The Persian and Byzantine empires were first to come under the control of Islam. In their second stage of expansion the Moslems controlled the Middle East and captured North Africa and Spain. Then the Abbaside empire stretched from the Atlantic Ocean to China.

For the true Moslem, resistance to the great Crusades of the 11th, 12th, and 13th Centuries was participation in holy war. The conquering Mongols of Genghis Khan became Moslemized and took the Moslem religion back to Mongolia with them.

The last of the great Islam empires was the Ottoman, which reached its peak in the 16th Century and survives today in the republic of Turkey. "The collapse of the jihad as a significant force," according to Babinger, "was made clear in 1914 when the Ottoman sultan in his capacity of caliph summoned the whole world to a holy war against the entente." The summons went unheeded. The Turks fought their holy war, but on the other side were Moslems enlisted as allies.

Rather than presaging a true holy war, the rising Moslem nationalism would appear part of a vast inter-continental revolt that emerged after World War I and gained impetus with World War II. Only thus can the nationalism of the Moslem states be related with that of India, Indo-China, China itself—as an anti-colonial rising of the have-nots against the haves. Viewed thus, a historical analogy would be the stries of revolutions by which the nations of Latin America threw off the Spanish yoke.

He Found No Friends

Ambassador Alan G. Kirk, who has just returned from Moscow, seems disappointed that the Russians did not embrace him as a kindred spirit. He went to Moscow in July, 1949, determined, he says, "to work unremittingly to better relations existing between our two nations" and to interpret the way Americans feel to the Russian people. Now he confesses failure.

Why he thought he could make a big hit with the Russians by "interpreting" the way Americans feel about them is something of a mystery. Or doesn't Kirk know how Americans feel about the Russians?

Kirk says he was permitted to take trips in the Soviet Union totaling 10,000 miles, more than any other American ambassador since the day Roosevelt started sending ambassadors to the Reds in 1933. His personal relations with Soviet officials have been superficially correct and cordial. But, unlike American ambassadors in non-bolshevik countries, he never found it possible to meet representative Soviet citizens on friendly or unofficial terms.

All that, of course, is an old story by now. Some time in the thirties, newspapermen and other souls who went to Moscow, in many instances, because they were sympathetic to communism, found their Russian friends dropping away. Former intimates would get in touch with them secretly and tearfully, to say: "Please don't try to communicate with me any more. It might be dangerous for both of us."

In the twenties and thirties, contacts between Russians and Americans were encouraged by Moscow. Russia even had an organization called Intourist to promote visits to Russia by non-Communists. Today only foreign Communists and persons approved by them enjoy such limited privileges in Russia. Ambassador Kirk seems to belong to the circle that longs for the good old days, and to be mystified by the change that has come over Russia.

But to persons who were never impressed by Russia or its government, there is no mystery. In the twenties and thirties Russian espionage was forced to adopt a friendly pose to obtain information and to bore from within. There was no Russian embassy in Washington, infested with Russian spies. There was no United Nations in New York, similarly infested.

When the portals to this country were opened to the Reds in 1933, this pose of friendship was no longer necessary. It would have been dropped completely sooner except for the war nterlude, when a form of pretense had to be carried on by the Moscow Communists while this country saved Russia from Hitler.

But in those days the Red spies in the U. S. were busy as ever. There is no longer any doubt they were quite successful in ferreting out atomic secrets.

Editorialaraphs

In a short time this country will have a stockpile of 1,000 atomic bombs, it is alleged. This will be reassuring if they are not divided with Russia as were American ships and planes during the last war.

Removing Skin Bacteria

Antiseptics have undergone revolutionary changes in the last half century. Most of the old timers such as witch hazel and Pond's extract have been discarded because they failed to kill bacteria. More potent preparations, such as carbolic acid and strong iodine, met the same fate because they burned the tissues.

An amusing sidelight on the efficacy of an antiseptic agent centers about the criteria used in pronouncing the germ dead. After all, most micro-organisms never move even when alive and they have no heart to stop beating when the end finally comes. As a result it is not easy to determine whether a solution kills bacteria (bactericide) or stops growth and reproduction (bacteriostatic). Most laboratories rely upon culture media to make these tests.

It has been said that the perfect antiseptic never has been devised. The goal is the irrevocable destruction of 100 per cent of the bacteria on and in the human skin, without damaging the tissues. The effect should be quick and lasting Many come close to these standards and, for practical purposes, are so superior to the older products that comparison is impossible.

The latest type of antiseptic is a mixture of soap and the chemicals AT-7 or G-11. Numerous such preparations are on the market; they combine the mechanical action of soap in the removal or organisms with the antibacterial effect of chemical antiseptics. These compounds have the additional advantage of remaining on the skin for a longer time, resulting in a more prolonged action. Sodium, potassium, and ammonium soaps are good cleansing agents and have a certain amount of antibacterial action against various germs. The streptococcus, the staphylococcus, and the typhoid bacillus are exceptions. The newer cationic detergents also are superior antiseptics; the most useful of this group are the quarternary ammonium salts. The antibiotics such as penicillin, aureomycin, and terramycin are recent enough to be included among the modern products.

Ethyl alcohol, still popular as an antiseptic, is one of the most widely used for this purpose. It must be of the proper concentration, however, to be effective. The optimal concentration is 70 per cent by volume, which so often is sold in drug stores. Isopropyl alcohol is slightly more potent but twice as toxic as ethyl alcohol (if it should be taken by mouth). It is an excellent antiseptic and is used chiefly to disinfect needles, syringes, and instruments.

The oxidizing agents take us back many more years to the period when iodine, chlorine, and nascent oxygen were at the height of their popularity. These chemicals owed their success to their ability to liberate the above mentioned elements when applied locally. Tincture of iodine, chloramine, hydrogen peroxide, potassium permanganate, and sodium perborate belong in this general category. Many metals are capable of killing a variety of germs. They were of limited use and owed most of their popularity to the fact that the majority were nontoxic and nonirritating. Mercury and silver preparations held the center of the stage for a time.

TOMORROW: Scurvy; a vitamin C deficiency.

SWOLLEN LEG

Mrs. L. writes: Could the effects of a milk leg recur 22 years later? I had this trouble when my daughter was born and I recovered but now I notice that whenever I stand for any length of time, as in ironing, the involved leg becomes swollen and red spots appear on the skin.

REPLY

This is possible but there is a better chance that a new condition has developed. Examination is in order, as there are several causes of swelling of the legs.

BEDWETTING

Mrs. T. writes: At what age should bedwetting be considered abnormal?

REPLY

Many youngsters have dry nights beginning at the end of the first year but if bedwetting continues until the age of 4, it calls for investigation. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on enuresis.

GANGRENE ON BEDSORE

Mrs. A. writes: If a spot on a bedsore turns black, does this indicate gangrene?

REPLY

Yes, but gangrene in this type of lesion is only skin deep and healing is possible.

MORTALITY

F. T. writes: How many deaths occurred in the United States last year?

REPLY

One million 456 thousand. This means a rate of 9.6 per 1,000, the lowest ever recorded.

OTOSCLEROSIS

F. C. writes: Does otosclerosis cause head noises and dizziness?

REPLY

Yes. These symptoms often coexist with deafness and occasionally are so pronounced they overshadow the loss of hearing.

Jessup Debate Highlights Legislation By Fear; Newspaper Criticized For Way It Handled Story; Austin And Eisenhower Backed Up Jessup

WASHINGTON — Historians who evaluate the closing days of the 82nd Congress will probably make special note of the confirmation debate over Ambassador Philip Jessup because of two things:

1. It marked the high-water mark in this country of legislation through fear. Such senators as Gillette of Iowa and Smith of New Jersey were fully aware of the unfairness of the charges against Jessup but bowed to their fear of a small, intolerant, vociferous segment of the American public sometimes called McCarthyites.

2. It also marked a period when newspaper editors were criticizing the White House on freedom of the press, while one wing of the press seriously confused the public by distorting or suppressing important facts so necessary to a free press.

Unquestionably the timidity of certain senators was due in part to this confused and poorly informed state of public opinion. Unquestionably also the great majority of newsmen in this country are anxious to protect the truth of the press as well as its freedom; for without the first the second cannot survive.

Therefore, let's look at some of the facts in the Jessup hearing and see how brazenly some of them were twisted by certain publishers with political axes to grind. Take, as an example, the two biggest cities in the United States—New York and Chicago — and two newspaper groups that control a big slice of their circulation.

"World's Greatest Newspaper"

One is the "world's greatest newspaper," the Chicago Tribune, with a million circulation in the heart of the Midwest, which also controls the heaviest circulating newspaper in the U. S. A., the New York News (Sunday circulation 4,123,276), together with the Washington Times-Herald.

The other is the New York World-Telegram, published by Roy Howard, high-ranking Republican and bitter critic of the State Department, who also publishes 18 other papers from Pittsburgh to San Francisco and who is one of the largest stockholders in the United Press.

In, contrast to the New York Times and the Herald Tribune, which were objective, here is how the World-Telegram lived up to its obligation of a free and truthful press in reporting the debate over Ambassador Jessup.

ON OCTOBER 7—Harold Stassen accused Ambassador Jessup of lying. Jessup had sworn under oath that he did not attend a White House conference at which cutting off aid to Chiang Kai-shek was discussed.

"This matter goes to the heart of the veracity of Jessup," Stassen insisted with great vigor. He stated that his memory of a conversation with the late Senator Vandenberg was "crystal clear;" that Vandenberg reported Jessup was present. Stassen demanded that Vandenberg's diary be produced.

The World-Telegram played up this story, critical of Jessup, on Page 1.

Jessup Wasn't the Liar

ON OCT. 9 — The State Department showed senators confidential documents regarding conversations with other governments on the recognition of China. Even GOP Sen. Alexander Smith admitted that they showed Stassen to be wrong. Jessup had not favored recognition of Communist China.

This story, favorable to Jessup, the World-Telegram buried inside on Page 19—though failing to report that Republican Senator Smith supported Jessup on this point.

ON OCT. 10 — Warren Austin, a rock-ribbed ex-senator from Vermont, now ambassador to the United Nations, stated that U.N. records showed Jessup to have been in New York on the date Stassen claimed he was at the White House conference on Chinua. This completely refuted Stassen's charge that Jessup was a liar.

However, the World-Telegram, after playing up the Stassen charge on Page 1, buried Austin's refutation deep inside the paper, way back on Page 28.

ON OCT. 15—General Eisenhower confirmed Jessup's statement that on Feb. 5, 1949 the date of the White House conference on China, Jessup was in New York conferring with Eisenhower on extending his leave of absence from Columbia University. This again made Stassen the liar, not Jessup. The World-Telegram carried this on Page 5.

Vandenberg's Diary

Meanwhile, Senator Vandenberg's diary had been made public, showing that Jessup was not at the White House conference — despite Stassen's statement that his memory was "crystal clear." Stassen had also claimed: "This goes to the heart of the veracity of Jessup." But despite this, Stassen kept bringing new charges, while his friends on the World-Telegram kept on featuring them.

ON OCT. 11 — Stassen charged that Ambassador Jessup had urged recognition of Communist China at a State Deportment round-table discussion. He demanded that the record of the meeting be published. "Every factor in my recollection of the round-table meeting can be substantiated by the transcript," said the ex-governor of Minnesota.

NEXT DAY, OCT. 12 —The State Department promptly published the transcript. It showed Jessup had taken no part in the discussion, that the State Department actually had opposed recognition of Communist China, and that those favoring recognition were private citizens, led by business executives William Herod, president of the Export Branch of General Electric, and William A. Robertson of American and Foreign Power, one of the biggest utilities on Wall Street.

Despite this, the World-Telegram next day featured an editorial blasting the State Department. The same issue also carried United Press report that "Stassen offers new evidence against Jessup," together with a glowing feature story on Stassen's career from poor farm boy to governor of Minnesota under the headline: "Harold Stassen's career is a real-life Horatio Alger story."

The same issue also featured a glowing eulogy of Stassen's book, though it turned out to be a mere collection of Stassen quotations.

This is how one powerful publisher stacked the news for the American public, thus contributing to the confusion of the reader, the intimidation of the Senate, and the difficulty of the great majority of fair-minded publishers to champion the freedom of the press. The story of another powerful publisher will follow shortly.

Why Fear Inflation?

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 21—Most people worry at the wrong time; and worry about the wrong thing. A few years ago when no one was fearful of inflation, readers know I was continually warning against it. In fact, the Frederick A. Stokes Company of New York published in 1937 a book by me entitled "If Inflation Comes." At that time no one paid any attention to the book or to inflation; but recently the book has gone through 10 editions. People are now frightened about inflation.

People Usually Wrong

In 1937 the cost-of-living index was 10.3. Since then it has risen 80 per cent and average weekly earnings have risen 160 per cent. Now all the columnists are warning of inflation! It is just like the stock market. When stocks are cheap, as they were in 1932 and 1933, no one was interested in buying them; but in 1951 when they have risen 175 per cent and the Dow-Jones Average is up from 100 in 1933 to 275 today, people want to buy stocks.

I am not condoning inflation. It is bad. But there is no legitimate excuse for the increase in prices and the cost-of-living. If people had been worried about inflation in the thirties, as they are today, inflation would not have happened. It is just as bad now to fear inflation will "bust the country" as it was then to ignore it.

Look At The Record

After every great war, until now, there has been a decline in the cost-of-living. After the Civil War, 1861-1865, the cost-of-living gradually declined until 1896. After World War I, the cost-of-living, beginning in 1920, declined until it reached a low point in 1933. The cost-of-living then fluctuated for a few years and again increased during World War II. The natural thing would have been for it to be on the decline again today. If it followed the course of all previous wars, including the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and World War I, we would now have deflation instead of inflation.

The truth is that the present trend is contrary to previous economic history. Inflationary prices are due to organized labor, aided by the politicians reducing working hours. Labor leaders yell about the high cost-of-living and blame it on "inflation;" but they will not tell you the real cause for inflation. This is not necessarily a criticism of labor unions. I have always defended collective bargaining. The fact, nevertheless, remains that if the labor leaders had been reasonable, the cost-of-living would have gone down following World War II.

No Reason To Fear

The talk now is that the armament program will "bust the country;" but I don't believe this. Bankers point to the fact that an expenditure of $50 billion a year on armaments will either result in taxes so high that the people cannot stand them, or else will cause our government to get into terrible debt. The facts do not uphold this nonsensical talk. Labor leaders can solve the problem whenever they wish and this will not require a reduction in "take home" wages. Fifty billion dollars a year can be spent on armaments, the cost-of-living can be reduced, federal employes can continue to hold their jobs, the government can operate with a surplus, instead of a deficit, and taxes can be reduced by extending the working day from eight hours to 10 hours without a pay increase.

The total income of the country for 1951 will be about $275 billion. Of this amount about $175 billion will go to wageworkers on the basis of an eight-hour day. If we all worked two hours more—which would be no longer than our fathers worked — this would be equivalent to increasing production 25 per cent. This could solve our inflation problem and pay for all our military preparations. To talk about Russia waiting until our country is busted is the "bunk." Of course, we will sometime have another business depression for trying to get something for nothing; but if such threatens our existence, it can quickly be cured by all of us working longer and harder. By doing this now we would have Russia licked once and for all. No wonder the Communists and fellow travelers are urging labor to resist a longer work day.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Now, And Then

WASHINGTON

Perhaps the strangest characterictic of our time is the distortion of the sense of history. Because they uttered sentiments in wartime that were widely shard by irreproachable, church-going, Republican-voting, tax-paying, payroll-meeting citizens, unfortunate people are now hauled before Senatorial bars to answer the charge of pro-communism.

By way of contrast, a man like Philip Jessup, who took a thoroughly pernicious part in the "America First" movement, proudly drapes the "America First" mantle around his shoulders to prove that he is not a Communist. And far from suggesting that an extreme America-Firster may not have the kind of judgment needed for a post of high responsibility, everybody wags his head and says, "Ah, that's a strong point in Jessup's favor." The whole business has become nonsensical.

These reflections are inspired by this reporter's curious experience of sitting for long, weary hours, waiting to take his turn on the stand, while Robert Morris, counsel of Sen. McCarran's Subcommittee on Internal Security, grilled Henry A. Wallace on selected tiny morsels from the distant past. One of the main subjects of inquiry was a rather silly pamphlet Wallace wrote for the Institute of Pacific Relations in 1944, called "Our Job in the Pacific." Morris treated this unrepaying 10 cents worth as though it was a red-hot bomb, confected in the secret cellars of the Kremlin.

Implication Remained

The pamphlet did not mention American arms for the Chinese Communists. It did not mention coalition in China. Indeed, it did not even touch upon the Chinese Communists at all, while it included a glowingly laudatory reference to Chiang Kai-shek. These points were not remarked upon. The pamphlet was also anti-colonial in general tone. An American who sympathizes with colonies struggling to be free is not by definition pro-communist. Yet as far as this implication could be left upon the record, Morris left it.

The great point that Morris made, however, was that poor Wallace was pro-Communist in a series of waffling expressions of hope that the Soviets would be nice after the war. In brief, Wallace had written that the Russians had shown good faith by not previously interfering in Chinese affairs (which was wrong, since Marshal Stalin was the first to give active aid to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in the war against Japan). He had written further that he believed the Russians had no imperialist aspirations, and that he hoped the Russians, Chinese and Americans would all be able to co-operate cosily in the post-war world.

As Morris droned on with his accusatory questions, this reporter automatically sought distraction in an article in the well-known fellow-travelling publication, "Amerasia." This article turned out to contain generous quotations from two other papers, by the Morris system also by inference fellow-travelling, "Life" and "The New York Times." In the spring of 1944, the "Life" editorial had commented on an unusually venomous attack on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government by the Time-Life correspondent in China, Theodore Write. Reproducing a few of the more choice White epithets, the "Life" editors remarked:

Editorials Cited

"The U. S. cannot ignore the fact that if China's government should become a fascistic, power-hungry, repressive, landlords'-and-usurers' government, it is all too likely to get into trouble with Russia; whereas a government which stands for freedom, reform and international cooperation is not. Under no circumstances would the American people ever wish to be embroiled with the Soviet Union in a struggle in which they would feel politically on the wrong side."

This "Life" editorial, so closely paralleling Wallace, except that he was genial towards the Generalissimo, closed with the prediction that if the Chinese would only be "freedom-loving, progressive," there would be no trouble with the Soviets. As for the "New York Times," in the fall of 1944 its editorial page ringingly called upon President Roosevelt to "make it clear to Chiang that his prestige will be enhanced, not diminished, if he takes certain steps." Among these steps were ceasing to "hold a great part of (his armies) on guard duty against his political opponents (the Chinese Communists);" making "a genuine truce with the Chinese Communists;" and consenting "to take into his government members of the representative groups and parties."

Here, in the "New York Times," was strong stuff indeed. Here was open advocacy of several points that the eminent professional ex-Communist, Louis Budenz, had testified on oath belonged to the Communist party line. Here was worse than Wallace, with a vengeance. But who was on the stand? Why, Wallace of course, under charges of pro-communism. The reader can find his own language to characterize this sort of thing.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Limited Wars

At the present moment, the United States and varied allies, Northern Korea and Soviet China are fighting in Korea; the French are fighting a Communist force in French Indo-China and live in expectation of a Soviet Chinese force attacking them; India and Pakistan are on the verge of war over Cashmir; the British are preparing to meet the Suez question by military force if they are pressed to the wall; yet the whole world is supposed to be at peace.

Such an event as the seizure of the property of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company would, in the past, have provoked military intervention which could have led to a general war. The assassination of the Austrian archduke at Sarajevo was not of greater importance. Nor was the sinking of the battleship "Maine" historically more serious than the seizure of the Suez Canal.

But, the sinking of the "Maine" led to a limited war between the United States and Spain which ended Spain's colonial empire in America and Asia, and the shooting of the archduke produced World War I.

The fact of the matter seems to be that the great powers are war-weary and are prepared to accept peace, at this moment, on almost any terms short of invasion of their own territory. Great Britain, since Mary lost Calais (1558), has not accepted the umbrage meted out to her by the Moslems, and the United States, since the days of the Barbary Coast pirates (1800-1830), has not accepted such offenses as North Korea and Soviet China offer.

Yet, there is no general war. And although Nato is war-preparation and General Eisenhower's activities are aimed at Soviet Russia as a direct target, the response of the objective enemy has not been what might have been expected. Either Stalin is as war-weary as the Western world is or his industries have not served him amply or he is bidding his time as we are. Whatever the reason, the general war which in other eras came so readily, almost at the droop of a king's eyebrow, is held off.

From that standpoint, the fact that Sir Gladwyn Jebb and Dr. Mossadegh did come to the United Nations is of historic importance. In the "War of Jenkins' Ear," an obscure affair in the years 1739-1741, the British fought for much less than Dr. Mossadegh has done.

It is not necessary to be as brilliant an historian as Arnold Toynbee nor as great a statesman as Benjamin Disraeli to realize that we are living through a period of vast reorganization of political power, the emergence of new peoples, the resurrection of ancient nations and the shifting of the balances of authority from Europe to Asia. The process may take a century, even in these swift times, before stability reappears.

Usually, such eras as the age of Pericles in Greece or Agustus in Rome or Charlemange in Europe are at the end rather than at the beginning of a great upsurge of peoples. Genghis Khan, whose movement of races from Asia to Europe was not unlike the effort of Stalin to build an overwhelming empire in the Eurasian heartland, ushered in the pressures which disturbed the then known world from the Pacific to the Mediterranean Sea and the Indian Ocean. Amazingly similar is the area currently affected, except that the United States, then unknown, is now included.

And that makes the difference: for while all the world may be warweary, the United States can produce in unlimited quantities and in novel forms munitions of war, food and clothing so that the human mass, so often the determining factor in war or peace, is less important.

The United States is only 150,000,000 persons and the so-called free world in Europe runs about 275,000,000, making an outside total, say, of 425,000,000. The Soviet world is roughly 800,000,000 and the Moslem world about 200,000,000. The remaining free peoples of Asia, apart from the Moslems, will run to perhaps 270,000,000.

In this unbalanced situation, the greatest factor is the production of weapons of death, their degree of effectiveness, and the capacity of industry to keep pace with death-dealing novelties. Equally important is the provisioning not only of armies but of civilian populations. Food takes on altogether a new aspect in total war because even if production were possible, distribution becomes very difficult.

The balance of power is obviously in Asia Minor among the Moslems. What they do with it will make the history of the next decades.

Potomac State Dedicates New Science Hall

Dr. J. M. Foggs Is Principal Speaker

KEYSER, W. Va.—Dr. John M. Foggs, Jr., Philadelphia, told Potomac State School students and faculty members Saturday that "this is an age of science, as well as a day of specialization."

Dr. Foggs, who is vice provost of University of Pennsylvania and head of university's science department, was speaker at the dedication of the new science hall at the local college.

William H. Ansel, Jr., state treasurer, Charleston, made the presentation address in formally turning the new building over to the school, and E. G. Otey, Bluefield, president of the Board of Governors, West Virginia University, accepted the building on behalf of Potomac State School and the university.

Ansel, a native of this section of the state, attended the local college.

The general program was presented by Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State, who introduced some of the visitors to the school for the dedication from other parts of the state. The invocation was given by Joseph C. Gluck, director of student affairs at West Virginia University.

A ceremony in which "The Lamp of Light" and Learning" was used, was impressively given under leadership of Dean Kirkland S. McKee, who opened the ceremony by lighting the lamp from a five tapered candelabra, denoting the five stages of the school's life to date.

After giving the 50th anniversary commemoration he called on Lester R. Reynolds, grandson of Judge Francis M. Reynolds, who framed the bill which provided for the establishment of the school.

He then called to the stage representatives of various graduating classes of the school.

Among the guests introduced by Dr. Church were C. T. Neff, Jr., vice president of the University Board of Governors; Dr. A. A. Reese, University Science department; Dr. Howard L. Briggs, representing Frostburg State Teachers College; L. D. Smith, architect for the new Science Hall; Edwin M. Steckel, director of the Oglebay Institute, Wheeling; John I. Rogers, Mineral County member of the House of Delegates; Dr. O. S. Ikenberry, president of Shepherd College, Shepherdstown; Dean John Pence. Fairmont State Teachers College; Prof. William Long of West Virginia State College, and W. A. Thornton, registrar at West Virginia University Technology College.

Music was furnished before and after the program by the Potomac State Orchestra under direction of Carl J. Peterson. Singing of the National Anthem and of the college Alma Mater was led by Miss Frances Sarullo of Potomac State music department.

Luncheon followed at 12:30 p. m. in the new Science Hall with 150 invited guests present.

Miss Joyce Nelson was elected Miss Catamount XIII between halves of the Potomac State-Concord College football game Saturday afternoon. She reigned at a Homecoming Ball in the evening.

Bruce High Plans Spotlight Dance

WESTERNPORT — The annual Spotlight Dance will be held in the auditorium of Bruce High School from 8 to 11 p. m. Friday.

Miss Spotlight V will be crowned by Principal John W. Fisher and a grand march and floor show will follow. Music for dancing will be by the Cornets.

The candidates for Miss Spotlight include Jeanne Nofsinger, Delores Barnard, Barbara Haywood, Gilda Cosner, Marlene Nichols, Lois Kesecker, Velma Wright and Geraldine Morehead.

The Queen's escort will be chosen from Erwin Berry, James Devine, Kenneth Smith, Robert McIntyre, Eugene Ferguson, Thomas Smith, Louis Complesi and James Wilkinson.

Bowen Promoted By School Patrol

BARTON—At a recent meeting of the Barton High School Patrol, James Bowen, 5th Grade student, was promoted to lieutenant because of added responsibilities in his duties. He will substitute for Captain Bobby Andrews when needed.

Kenneth Derham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Derham, was added as a patrolman on the Mill Run bus, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Norman Kyle.

Tri-Towns Briefs

Mt. Carmel Encampment No. 7, IOOF, will hold a public card party Thursday, November 1 at 8 p. m. in the social room of the Westernport Tea Room. Five hundred, setback, bridge and canasta will be played.

A public card party will be held by Victory Unit No. 155, American Legion Auxiliary, Friday, November 2 at 8 p. m. at the Legion Home, Westernport. Setback and 500 will be played.

Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 16, Westernport, will hold a Halloween party Thursday at 7:30 p. m. All members are asked to wear masks. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served.

The Young Ladies Bible Class of Trinity Methodist Church, Piedmont, will hold its annual Halloween masked party Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Hugh Wilson, 303 Fairview Street, Luke. Mrs. Avelino Diaz will be co-hostess.

College To Give 12-Week Courses; Meeting Tonight

KEYSER, W. Va. — An organizational meeting for all persons interested in Potomac State School's second Adult Education program will be held at 7 p. m. today in the auditorium of the Administration Building. Registration for classes will take place at this time.

The program will be for 12 weeks and will consist of Bible, (a study of the Old Testament), bird study, child development, conservation of renewable resources, practical and current economics, geography, human physiology, marriage and family relations, music appreciation, community orchestra, recreation, cultural heritage (humanities), welding, engineering drawing and white print reading, typing, shorthand, office machines, accounting, arithmetic, beginning chemistry, elementary and practical electricity, English grammar, first aid, home economics, modern languages, public speaking and trigonometry.

These courses, and any other suggested courses the college is able to offer, will be given, provided there is a sufficient number of persons enrolled in each course.

The enrollment fee is $15 a course, with an additional $3 laboratory fee for home economics. Classes will meet one night a week, for two or three hours.

Lonaconing GOP Club Celebrates

LONACONING—James Park, Republican State Central Committee member, was master of ceremonies at the Lonaconing Republican club's eighth anniversary celebration.

Guest speakers included Mayor Virgil Alexander, Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney, Walter Abbott, Judge of Orphans Court; Edgar M. Lewis, assistant chairman of Republican State Central Committee; Charles M. See, Estel C. Kelley, Fred B. Driscoll, members of the Maryland House of Delegates; J. Milton Dick, trial magistrate, and John B. Elliott, president of the local club.

Mrs. Nelson Humes was chairman of the refreshment committee, assisted by Mrs. Margaret McCormick, Mrs. Jean Thompson and Mrs. Bessie Beeman. A dance followed the turkey dinner. Over 350 persons attended.

Plans were made for a Halloween dance October 30.

Wheeling Shrine Women Honored

KEYSER, W. Va. — The Big Four Ladies Oriental Shrine Club entertained three visitors from Wheeling district of Isis Court of North America at a recent dinner at the Shrine clubrooms. The visitors were Lady Davis, Marion, Ohio, high priestess of Isis Court; Lady Worfuel, past grand high priestess, and Lady Schambra, a past high priestess who is treasurer of Isis Court.

Lady McDaniel, president of the Keyser club, opened the meeting, with Lady Grant leading group singing. Lady Derham, Westernport, gave the invocation.

Lady Davis presented a report based on the work being done by members of the shrine in the five crippled children's hospitals located at various points in the United States. She also demonstrated the sewing done by Isis Court for the crippled children. Lady Shear gave a humorous reading and this was followed by group singing, which closed the meeting.

Two members of the Keyser group, Lady Sligar and Lady McDaniels, entertained for the visitors at their respective homes.

Scouters Recommend Kooken For Post

WESTERNPORT — V. Browne Kooken was recommended for the position of district commissioner of the Boy Scouts at a recent meeting of the Tri-Towns District Scouters at the Odd Fellow's Hall. Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, district chairman, presided.

Two Criminal Cases Scheduled In Keyser Court

16-Year-Old Youth Faces Arson Charge

KEYSER, W. Va.—Two cases from the criminal calendar of Mineral County Circuit Court are set for hearing today before Judge Ernest A. See.

Lewis Bernard Baker 16-year-old boy charged with four counts of arson, will be tried on one indictment today. The bill charges him with attempt to destroy by fire the tower of the Upper Potomac Television Company on a hill at Piedmont.

The other case is that of the State vs. Francis M. Hamilton, Lonaconing, indicted on a charge of soliciting business for a legal firm in Philadelphia in violation of the laws of West Virginia.

The case involves an alleged attempt to have Mrs. Virginia Miller, this county, engage Nathanial B. Richter, an attorney of the Philadelphia firm, to file suit against the B&O Railroad Company on a negligence charge in the death of her husband, an employe of the company who was fatally injured in an accident.

There are three other cases pending against Baker, these indictments being postponed until after disposition of Indictment No. 1.

Judge See spent most of Thursday and Friday dealing with chancery and juvenile matters. He granted six divorce decrees to:

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21 (INS)—Just before James ("South Pacific") Michener took off for India and Singapore to finish his new novel, he sold the film rights to his current book, "Return To Paradise."

The purchasers are Mark Robson and Robert Wise, two of Hollywood's up and coming young directors. Robson just finished "I Want You," and Wise directed the much discussed "The Day The Earth Stood Still."

Michener, who will share in the profits, has agreed to do the adaptation of two stories from "Return To Paradise," "Mr. Morgan" and "Until They Sail." Robson will make the former in Canton Island in the Pacific, and Wise the latter in New Zealand.

The story Producer Mort Briskin tells about his film, "The Magic Face" is as baffling as any mystery ever written.

He says he made "The Magic Face," which is a satire on Hitler, in Austria, and after it was finished he sent it to American Ambassador Walter J. Donnelly, and the president of Austria for approval. Ten days ago it was air mailed back to Briskin, but in place of the film, old newspapers had been substituted in the package.

The U. S. Secret Service is interested enough to get to work on the mystery. One solution is that the stolen print may have been smuggled behind the iron curtain and the satire distorted to make America seem pro-Nazi in sympathy.

Briskin also says "No Time For Flowers" an anti-Communist comedy, which likewise had been shipped from Vienna, had 18 scenes dealing with Stalin cut out by some unknown person.

Errol Flynn has returned from his hurried trip to New York and Ruth Roman has him. I mean on the screen in "Mara Maru." That is, Ruth will have Errol after she finishes "Young Man In A Hurry" at MGM. Flynn, himself, reports for work at Warners today.

Jack Warner, who felt Ruth was right for the role, has to wait for Ruth, however, until she is finished later this week at MGM. Then she'll have to hot foot it to the Burbank studio. This is Ruth's twelfth picture in two years. She's a hard working gal.

Mario Lanza has dieted so strenuously to look romantic for his picture, "Because You're Mine," that he is run down. Furthermore, he has a thyroid condition. So his doctors say he cannot work for three or four weeks.

That means Lanza's picture is postponed. The sad part is that Mario still has to whittle off a few more pounds to be as attractive as he was in "The Great Caruso."

Meanwhile, Lanza's leading lady, Doretta Morrow, who was to be here next week, has been told to stay right with "The King And I" company in New York until she is further notified.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Betsy Von Furstenberg received a call from Nicky Hilton asking her to fly to Houston. MGM said no—she has an important test today. Your guess is as good as mine. I'd have sworn a few days ago that Nicky and Liz Taylor were reconciling.

Gene Tierney, who has been bedded the past week in the Argentine with virus and unable to work, is being taken care of by the personal physician to Dictator Juan Peron.

Mrs. Broderick Crawford, who joined Brod on his trip east, flies back to Hollywood to be with her two children. But the reconciliation did take place all right. Brod has to tour for a few weeks before he rejoins Mrs. Crawford.

Marlene Dietrich and Yul Brynner, who can't be considered romantically inclined, since he and his wife have reconciled, still enjoy dancing together. They were glimpsed the other night at the Stork Club.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

No space for exercising? Try this one-chair, all-figure exercise that's designed to answer your needs!

SECRETS OF CHARM

Not every women who says she can't exercise because of too little time or too little space is doing a bit of falsifying to ease her conscience. I suppose there are some woman who lead such busy lives that they can't even spare ten minutes each morning and night for the sake of their figure beauty. They couldn't all be goldbrickers!

And there's many a good, figure-contouring gymnastic that takes a deal more space than can be found in some of the modern apartments. But the "no-room-to-exercise" excuse will hold less water in the future for any of you who read this column today.

Waistline Threat

Here's a Powers Girl figure trimmer that can be performed with little more room than is required for you and just one chair. And it's a whole figure work-out at that! Want to try it?

Stand profile about two feet away from an armless chair. Place the heel of one foot on the chair so that the leg is completely straight. Raise both arms overhead and lock your thumbs. Now, twisting in the waist, bend and try to touch your hands to your raised foot. Never mind if you can't quite make it. Stretch, stretch and stretch toward your toe—that's what counts. Repeat five times, relax for a moment; then move to the other side of the chair and start over with the opposite leg. When you're through your waistline will know that you're watching it!

Hips Away!

Next, give your hips some attention. Stand to one side of the chair and hold on to the back with one hand. Bend the knee that is farthest from the chair sharply upward and swing it outward to the side as far as possible. Swing it back to forward position and then kick the leg out behind you to its full extension. Keep your chest up and your back straight. By maintaining good posture during any standing exercise you will hasten results. Perform this exercise ten times with each leg for one week and increase to twenty times on each side at your own speed.

Now, who says she hasn't room to exercise?

Tomorrow: Grace for legs and feet.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dr. Christian Celebrates His Fifteenth

Another anniversary, the 15th, has rolled around for the good gray country Doctor Christian, one of the perennial wonders of radio. Gee, how time flies. It seems like only yesterday that Dr. Christian, who as any fool knows, is just an alias for Jean Hersholt, performed an appendectomy with a kitchen knife on the son of a fisherman.

John Crosby

That was Mr. Hersholt's first radio operation; it was his first program, as a matter of fact, and it took place in November 1937. It was an afternoon soap opera in those days; today it still has a lot of soap in its ears but it has for for many years been an evening half-hour program (CBS 8:30 p. m. EST Wednesdays) which gives it the illustration of respectability. In 15 years, Dr. Hersholt — he's got so many honorary degrees that it's disrespectful to address him as mister —has carved up ailing citizens by the hundredweight, all within sound of a microphone.

• — • — •

The program claims an audience of 11,000,000 people which is a lot of people. It's a rather curious audience, composed in large part of the chronically sick or disabled whose interest in medical matters is probably a little deeper than that of the rest of us. As a rule, the medical profession is a tough thing to write about, the doctors scrutinizing every syllable with grave distrust. This doesn't apply to Hersholt. Doctors, especially country doctors which is what he plays in Dr. Christian, have taken him to their heart and even write him and ask for solutions to their problems, a new twist on an old relationship. Many of them have gone out to see him in Hollywood.

The reason for this acceptance is simply that medicine is pretty largely avoided except in the most general terms. Dr. Christian dispenses a lot of other things besides pills — psychiatry, marital advice, heart balm, philosophy — and in these fields the doctors allow free rein. The rainfall on Dr. Christian sometimes is pretty heavy.

The program bills itself as written by the audience which is slightly misleading. Anyone can take a crack at writing a Dr. Christian script and by now, most everyone has. The amateurs win more often than the professionals and frequently are so stimulated by their prizes — anywhere from $250 to $2,000 — that they enter what is sometimes erroneously referred to as the writing game in place of genuinely useful employment and are miserable for the rest of their lives.

• — • — •

First of the $2,000 prizes way back 15 years ago went to a man named John League Oberg who now writes for movies and television and probably has a full quota of ulcers. A girl named Eleanor Tarshis, now associate producer and director on "One Man's Family," used her $2,000 for an operation to restore her eyesight, a plot idea that could easily have been used on Dr. Christian, and for all I know, may have been.

Naturally, the out-pourings of these prize-hungry novitiates — they're not always youngsters—are not anything you could confuse with literature. On the fifteenth anniversary, the story, a fairly typical one, concerned a married couple whose young dreams had soured terribly. He had wanted to be a lawyer but the war had torn him from law school and deposited him, after a suitable interval of service, on a farm where his wife slaved from morning till night, growing no younger. They had wanted six children but an auto accident washed maternity out of her future forever. So, in their ninth anniversary, she decided to divorce him.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SELF-CONTROL MAY PAY

TAKING positive action at the first opportunity is a characteristic of most good players. But there is another type of competitor who favors keeping his batteries masked for a while to create an illusion of weakness, even when able to do something definite on his first turn. Following either extreme plan as a steady policy can be unwise. The very best players vary their tactics. Sometimes one of these divergent methods pays dividends, sometimes the other.

	♠ A J 9 7 3 2 ♥ J 7 6 3 ♦ Q J ♣ Q

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. Pass	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	2 ♣
2 ♠	Pass	Pass	3 ♣
3 ♠	Dbl
2. Pass	Pass	1 ♦	2 ♣
2 ♠	Dbl

Self-control paid dividends to East at Table 1 on this occasion in a duplicate tournament. It resulted in his side doubling spades at one level higher than where East got into the auction on his initial turn. At a majority of tables the final contract was some number of spades, doubled by West. Since eight tricks were taken in each case, the 2-Spades declarers made their doubled contracts, whereas the 3-Spades declarers were beaten a trick doubled.

The height of the final contract determined the difference between top score and bottom score at each of the tables where spade contracts were attempted. There was one case of a 3-Clubs contract by East, who was not doubled. He managed to get beaten a trick to give his pair a medium score, a goodly distance from either top or bottom.

Where spades were trumps, a club lead started the play and the defenders followed their trick in that suit with three more, one of them with the heart K, one with the ruff of a heart and two regular trump tricks. If there was some way for South to build an end-play to make a 3-Spades contract, none of the declarers found it.

Leonardo da Vinci, The Artist, Also Was Great Inventor; Foresaw Many Scientific Wonders Of This Modern Age

By CHARLES E. LYONS
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—Mention the name of Leonardo da Vinci and most people think of the "Mona Lisa" and "The Last Supper."

Few indeed see the towering figure of Renaissance art as a great pioneer in science and invention, many of whose discoveries heralded modern-day inventions.

The sketches of his inventions in such fields as mechanics, hydraulics, engineering and aerology have come alive in a New York exhibit of scale models of his work.

Wooden and metal models were painstakingly constructed from the sketches by a Da Vinci scholar, Italian-born Dr. Roberto Guatelli, who has devoted the greater part of 20 years to studying the scientific contributions of Da Vinci.

Exhibit To Tour Country

The exhibit, the property of the International Business Machines Corp., will soon start a nationwide tour of IBM establishments. It will go to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York next year for the observance of Da Vinci's 500th birthday anniversary.

Da Vinci's work in invention reveals this amazing man, born in 1452, to have been hundreds of years ahead of his time. His sketches include such items as a triple-tiered machine gun that looks like three rows of cannons, an air conditioner, a spring-driven self-propelled car and a tank that looked like a movable fort.

He also designed a bat-like flying machine, a cone-shaped parachute, a lens grinder, rotating bridge useful to prevent enemy crossings, a system of pulleys which were the forerunner of today's block and tackle, a printing press, a steam gun, a revolving stage, coin stamper and a self-propelled ship.

He Studied The Heart

Da Vinci also worked in mathematics and architecture, geology and geography, anatomy and botany. He made detailed studies of the work of the heart and left sketches showing the functions of muscles. A hundred years before Galileo's work Da Vinci noted that "the sun does not move."

Probably no man in history was gifted in the same degree in both art and science as Leonardo, born the illegitimate son of a wealthy lawyer in the town of Vinci, Italy.

It would almost seem that Da Vinci had the 20th Century in mind in some of his inventions. He designed a two-level bridge to accommodate heavy traffic — one level for pedestrians and the other for vehicles. He also invented a gadget for lifting weights that looks remarkably like today's automobile jack.

The dark-haired 41-year-old Dr. Guatelli, little more than five feet tall, was graduated from the University of Milan in 1929 and earned his doctorate in science two years later.

In constructing the models, Dr. Guatelli had his work cut out for him. Some of Da Vinci's manuscripts were practically undecipherable because he wrote lefthanded and backhanded. Only Dr. Guatelli's knowledge of his native tongue and great patience made the work possible.

Proportions Perfect

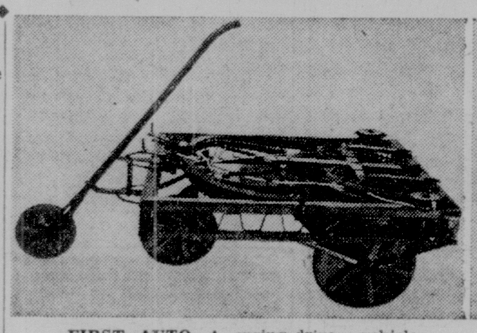
The sketches contained no dimensions and, in most cases, Dr. Guatelli was the first to build from them. The proportions of the sketches are so perfect that he could work from them alone.

Dr. Guatelli first built the models for a 1938 exhibit for the Italian government. The next year part of the exhibit was displayed at the former Museum of Science and Industry at Rockefeller Center, New York.

He took the exhibit to Japan where it was completely destroyed during the war in a heavy bombing attack. Guatelli spent almost two years in a Jap concentration camp.

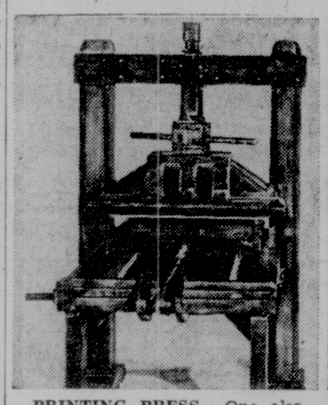
Starting from scratch again, Dr. Guatelli and his attractive blonde wife, Florence, built this set of models by themselves in the cellar of their Brooklyn home. Many of the parts were made by Dr. Guatelli himself.

The first woman editor of a women's labor paper was Harriet Farley of the Lowell Offering in 1844.



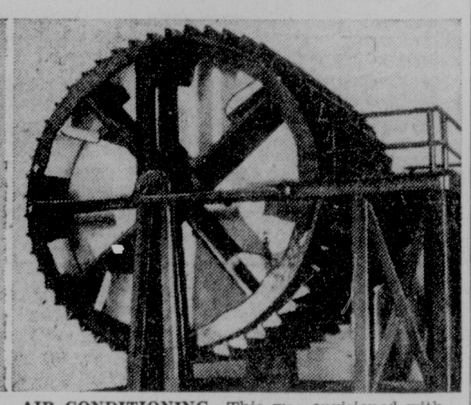
FIRST AUTO—A spring-driven vehicle.

FIRST PLANE—Wings for man.

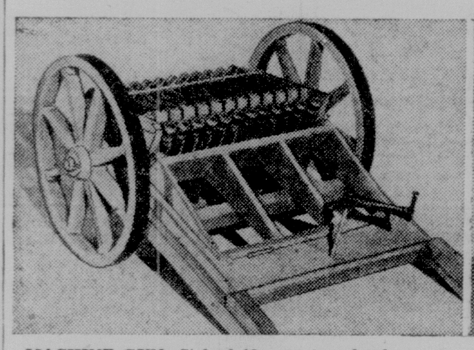


PRINTING PRESS—One also was invented by Da Vinci.

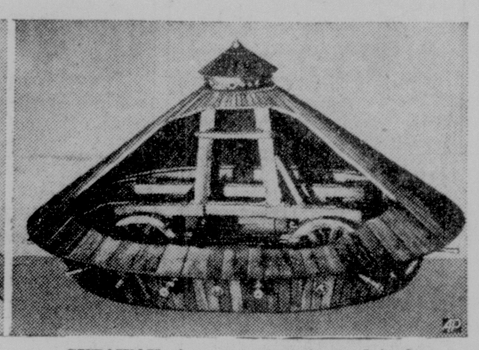
THE JACK was foreshadowed.



AIR CONDITIONING—This was envisioned with the ventilator for Signora Sforza's boudoir.



MACHINE GUN—It had 12 guns in a bank.



CUTAWAY view of a man-powered tank.

Millions To Shift To Defense Jobs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Secretary of Labor Tobin predicted today that 4,500,000 more workers will be shifted to defense jobs in the next year.

In a new booklet outlining the results of a survey on manpower and partial mobilization, Tobin said 2,000,000 additional defense workers will be needed by the end of 1951. By the end of 1952 the nation will have 8,500,000 persons engaged in defense activity compared with 2,700,000 in 1950, the secretary estimated.

The report, prepared by the Bureau of Employment Security, emphasized that the full impact of the defense program is still ahead.

"Much of defense industry is still in the planning and tooling-up state," it said.

"On an over-all national basis, the manpower needs of the limited military production program, currently envisioned, can be met," Tobin said. "However, a multitude of spot problems involving individual areas, industries, and occupations are likely to arise before peak employment is achieved.

"Over the next year a growing number of cities and communities will experience labor shortages but no nationwide shortage of workers is anticipated under the partial defense mobilization program."

Spending And Taxing Congress Adjourns

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — A big spending, heavy taxing Congress adjourned its 1951 session last night. The lawmakers will reconvene Jan. 8.

Congress increased taxes by $5,691,000,000 annually. Among other things, it appropriated $56,900,000,000 for the military and an additional $7,329,000,000 for a program of military and economic aid for foreign nations not under Soviet domination.

All told, Congress appropriated more than $90,000,000,000 in the 10 months it was in session.

Davis Subpoenaed By Senate Group On Arrival In U. S.

BOSTON, Oct. 21 (AP) —A Senate subcommittee agent served a subpoena tonight on Charles E. Davis, 23, when he arrived here by plane from Switzerland where he was convicted of espionage.

The subpoena was served on the Pasadena, Calif., negro by James M. Fitzpatrick, assistant counsel for the Senate subcommittee on privileges and elections.

Davis was convicted by a Swiss federal court and ordered deported after he testified he had furnished information to an agent of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) in an attempt to discredit John Carter Vincent, former U. S. minister to Switzerland.

The Senate subcommittee is considering a resolution designed to remove McCarthy from the Senate.

Sleepwalker Forced To Drop Three Floors

BOSTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—A sleepwalker wakened today to find himself hanging by his fingers from his third floor room.

Francis Curran, 34, told police there was nothing else to do but drop 35-feet to the ground when no one answered his outcries. He suffered a fractured leg and multiple lacerations.

A patrolman found Curran unconscious and nude below the window.

Cates To Give Up Post As Marines' Leader

HONOLULU, Oct. 21 (AP) — Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps, said today he expected to give up his post as commandant when his term expires Jan. 1, but that he would not retire from the service.

The 58-year-old top leatherneck landed at Barbers Point Naval Air Station this morning en route to Korea on a battle front inspection tour.

Actress Ida Lupino Wed To Howard Duff

GLENBROOK, Nev., Oct. 21 (AP)—Film Star Ida Lupino and Actor Howard Duff were married here late today and started a one-day honeymoon before returning to work in Hollywood.

The ceremony was performed by District Judge Clark J. Guild, who only yesterday granted the British-born actress a divorce from Movie Producer Collier H. Young.

Frostburg Meets WOW

The Woodmen of the World will play hosts to the undefeated Frostburg Knights of Columbus in a County Shuffleboard League match Wednesday night.

Royal Couple To Rest At Exclusive Lodge

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 21 (AP)—When Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip go to the exclusive Eagle's Crest lodge on Vancouver Island this Tuesday. Wednesday and Thursday they'll be virtually alone.

At least, as alone as royalty ever can get.

News association men and newspapermen hereabouts have agreed to cooperate on those three days and not pop out of the woodwork—or the scenic woods—while Elizabeth and Philip gain a rest at the midway point of their round-trip cross-Canada tour.

They've agreed to rely on official handouts only on the idyll of the prince and princess.

Game Set For Local Stadium; Allegany Visits Martinsburg

Fort Hill's 16th meeting with Hagerstown which brings together two of Western Maryland's outstanding football "master minds"—William P. Hahn and Mel Henry — will be staged Friday night at 8 o'clock at the local stadium.

It's the No. 1 game of the week in the tri-state area and should attract one of the season's largest crowds.

Fort Hill has won five and lost one while the Hub City eleven boasts a 4-1-1 record, including a 19-0 decision over Allegany. The Sentinels whipped Martinsburg 28-7 while Hagerstown defeated the Bulldogs 26-6. Hagerstown's loss was at the hands of Gettysburg 6-0. Fort Hill bowed to Linsly of Wheeling, 14-13.

Coach Hahn's aggregation has won 12 of the 15 games in the series with the Washington Countains. Hagerstown has scored two victories and one game ended in a tie.

Win Every Week

If Allegany High plays true to form the Campers should win on Friday as they have been winning every week since the 1951 season began.

In their last outing the Campers lost to Montgomery Blair of Silver Spring. On Firday they'll tackle the Bulldogs of Coach John Cobourne at Matinsburg, W. Va. It's the 26th game of their series and AHS leads in wins 15 to 9. One game ended in a tie.

Three PVC Tilts Listed

Other Friday games find Moorefield at Keyser and Ridgeley at Romney in a pair of P.V.C. tests. The third conference game between Berkeley Springs and Petersburg is set for Petersburg on Saturday.

Parsons High School, playing .500 ball in six starts, does battle with the West Virginia Industrial School of Pruntytown on Friday at Parsons.

Potomac State faces the Rams of Shepherd College at Shepherdstown, Beall is host to Charles Town and the West Virginia School for the Deaf opposes the New Jersey Silents at Trenton, N. J., on Saturday afternoon games.

Cleveland Rolls Over Pittsburgh For 3rd Victory

32,409 See Browns Register 17-0 Win

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21 (INS) — Cleveland's Browns rolled over the Pittsburgh Steelers, 17 to 0, today to their third straight National Football League victory before 32,409 fans in Cleveland.

The defending National League champs capitalized on a fluke punt and intercepted pass to score their two touchdowns. Lou Groza booted a 25-yard field goal to complete the scoring.

End Horace Gillom scored the Cleveland touchdown early in the second period.

Chuch Ortmann's attempted punt from the Pittsburgh 38-yard line bounced off the back of a Steeler lineman to the five-yard line. Gillom seized the ball and raced over. Groza added the point.

Late in the same period Groza kicked his field goal.

The final tally came in the third quarter when Warren Lahr intercepted Joe Geri's pass on the Pottsburgh 27-yard line and ran over behind good blocking. Groza again kicked the extra point.

Albany Releases May

By C. V. BURNS

"Basketball this year has taken a beating due to the scandal that has reared its ugly head."

These were the words of Adolph Rupp, University of Kentucky basketball coach, at the Cumberland K. of C. Sportsmanship Award Dinner April 2, 1951.

The scandal now involves two of Kentucky's greatest players —Alex Groza and Ralph Beard —who have admitted accepting bribes from gamblers during the 1949 season.

Rupp once was credited with the remark:

"Gamblers couldn't get at our boys with a 10-foot pole."

It now looks as though the pole was either lengthened or shortened because the gamblers did get at 'em.

Coach Mel Henry, whose Hagerstown High eleven meets Fort Hill here Friday night, was the grid mentor at Fort Hill in 1943, 1944 and 1945. His teams won 22, lost 3 and tied one.

And believe it or not, all of his losses came at the hands of Allegany in Turkey Day games. The scores were 14-7, 7-6 and 13-12.

Mel took over the grid reins at Hagerstown in 1949 and he has yet to score a win over Fort Hill's gridders. The Hilltoppers drubbed the Hubtown outfit 47-0 in 1949 and 20-7 at Hagerstown last year.

Henry's Hagerstown teams hold a 2-1 edge over AHS. Allegany won in 1949, 26-7, but lost in 1950, 12-6, and this year 19-0.

Benny Trotta, Baltimore promoter, who put on some bad shows here this year, was given a setback the other day when Lee Q. Murray, the heavyweight "has been" was found physically unfit for a bout with Young Harry Wills in the Mounmental City tonight.

Dr. Samuel Tumminello, former South Atlantic Association (AAU) prexy, turned down Murray.

Redskins Pull Upset, Defeat Cardinals, 7-3

Win First For Todd On Bill Dudley Day

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (INS)—Sammy Baugh's 46-yard pass to George Thomas and three successful goal line stands gave the Washington Redskins a 7 to 3 victory today over the Chicago Cardinals.

A crowd of 22,690 fans saw the Redskins hold a three-way celebration. It was their first triumph against three defeats, Dick Todd's debut as head coach and "Bill Dudley Day."

The rejuvenated Redskins stopped three Cardinal drives of 79, 63 and 64 yards, including one march in the last 45 seconds in which Chicago failed to score in four tries from the six yard line.

Deprived of a touchdown, the Cards had to settle for Ventan Yablonski's 31-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Baugh's aerial to Thomas came in the second period shortly after Washington drove 96 yards to the one where the Cards stopped Chuck Drazenovich on a fourth down plunge.

A delegation of Virginians, headed by Gov. John S. Battle, gave Dudley, Redskin halfback and former University of Virginia star, a station wagon and a silver service during a pre-game ceremony.

Louis Rated 7-5 Favorite

Joe Faces Marciano Friday In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Once-mighty Joe Louis, still striving to regain the heavyweight crown, risks his title chances on Friday night when he faces Young, hard-hitting and undefeated Rocky Marciano of Brockton, Mass., in a ten rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The 37-year old Brown Bomber, winner of eight straight fights since his decisive loss to Ezzard Charles, is rated a mere 7 to 5 favorite to defeat the 27-year old ex-GI. If the odds hold, it will be the shortest price ever for a Louis fight. The Bomber has never been worse than a 9 to 5 choice before.

But time is catching up on the ex-champion. Many experienced observers believe the swarthy, crouching Brockton Belter has the necessary hitting power to halt Louis' victory streak.

Marciano has a 37-0 record, winning 32 by knockouts. In his last start on July 12, he knocked out Rex Layne in six rounds.

Louis, however, is confident he still has enough left to take care of the strong but crude newcomer. The Bomber still has the best left jab in the business, a ramrod punch that can jar the best. The old zing has gone out of his once powerful right but Joe claims he can do plenty of damage with it.

The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC. It is believed that the promoting international boxing club will receive $225,000 for the T. V. and radio rights. A razor company (Gillette) and a number of T. V. set manufacturers are footing a reported $2,000,000 bill for the video rights alone.

The Wednesday night radio-TV show will come from New York's St. Nicholas Arena where lightweights Arthur King of Toronto and Teddy (Red Top) Davis of Hartford, Conn., will clash in the top ten rounder. The bout starts at 10 p. m. (EST).

Unbeaten Alco, Fort Hill JV's Collide Today

Game To Start At 4 P. M. In Stadium

A 15-game winning streak and two unbeaten records will be on the line this afternoon when the jayvees football teams of Fort Hill and Allegany clash at 4 p. m. at Fort Hill stadium.

Both elevens are undefeated this season, Fort Hill having captured five in a row and the Little Campers four straight. However, Coach Ray Hull's Little Sentinels have a holdover streak of 10 straight last year and thus will be looking for their 16th consecutive win against Allegany over a two year period.

Each team has had three common opponents, Fort Hill defeating Keyser 20-0, Ridgeley 28-0, and Beall 31-6. The Alco eleven downed Keyser 20-0, Ridgeley 25-0, and Beall 12-0.

Fort Hill's other victories are over West Virginia School for Deaf, 26-20, when the Little Sentinels were strengthened by reserve material from the varsity, and Romney 12-6. Allegany defeated the LaSalle Jayvees 12-7, surrendering the only touchdown scored on the Campers this fall.

Hull and Coach James Hosack of Allegany have indicated both squads are in good physical shape for the impending battle. Probable lineups for today's game:

Thomas Wins 13-0, Ten Seniors Play In Final Contest

THOMAS, W. Va., Oct. 21 — Thomas High School concluded its first football season under Coach Ed Supak on Friday by defeating the West Virginia Industrial School of Pruntytown 13 to 0.

"Buzz" Yeager scored the first touchdown in the opening quarter on a 20-yard run around right end. Pete Natale passed to Yeager for the point.

Natale went over from the 10-yard line for the final td in the fourth quarter.

Thomas' record for the season was two wins and five losses.

Ten seniors who played their final game were Alvin Rumer, Pete Natale, "Buzz" Yeager, Joe Grecco, Ed Quattro, Leonard Terranto, Big Bill Snyder, Don Hoffman, Little Bill Snyder and Tom Carr. Glen Shepard, also a senior, failed to get into the final game because he suffered a cracked rib.

Quattro and Yeager were co-captains of the team during the 1951 campaign.

New Scandals May Soon Jar Cage World

Groza, Beard Are Released On Bond

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (INS) —Vincent A. G. O'Connor, assistant district attorney of New York, said today in Chicago that big time collegiate basketball may be rocked again by new "fix" scandals.

His statement followed the arrest in Chicago of All-American players Alex Groza and Ralph Beard, formerly of the University of Kentucky team, for accepting $500 each in "shaving" points.

O'Connor said a game with Tennessee also was involved and "practically every other game of the 1949 season."

34 Players Involved

Already 34 players and seven schools have been named in a series of "fix" scandals that has hit the sport across the country.

The third player involved in the newest case is Dale Barnstable, now a Louisville, Ky., high school coach. He and Groza and Beard have admitted to police they received $500 each in fixing points in the Kentuck-Loyola game in Madison Square Garden March 14, 1949. Kentucky lost, 67-56, although the team was a 10-point favorite.

Barnstable, seized in Louisville, arrived in New York for further interrogation.

Groza and Beard, freed over the weekend on $1,000 bail each, are slated to appear in Chicago's Felony Court at 11 a. m. CST tomorrow. They are expected to waive extradition to New York where they will

Yanks Tie Lions

DETROIT, Oct. 21 (INS) — The New York Yanks football team used a short punt formation passing attack today to tie the Detroit Lions, 24 to 24, in a National Football League viewed by 24,002 spectators.

The inspired Yanks retired to their quarters at halftime with the score deadlocked at 10-all. They had scored on a 35-yard pass from Bob Celeri to speedy Buddy Young and a 37-yard field goal in the closing seconds of the half by Harvey Johnson.

Detroit scored its 10 points on a field goal by Doak Walker and a pass, Bob Hoernschmeyer to Leon Hart, who was the Lions' offensive standouts today.

Pat Harder put the Lions ahead in the third period when he drove over from the 10-yard line.

The Yanks passing formation pulled them even again, with a touchdown by Zollie Toth.

An interference penalty put the Detroiters within scoring distance again, and Bobby Layne passed to Hart for the td.

The final score was set up by a long pass, Celeri to Sherman Howard, from the formation popularized by Southern Methodist U. Toth carried the ball over.

Interstate Loop Presents Awards To Six Players

Clites, Davis, Umpires Are Praised By Long

The Interstate Baseball League finished "in the black" for the sixth consecutive year, President John J. Long told team representatives at the league's shrimp and oyster feed held yesterday at the Loyal Order of Moose Home.

Long praised Roy Clites, secretary-treasurer, for his efficient handling of the league business, lauded Frank J. Davis, vice president, as an "active worker" and thanked the newspapers and radio stations for the manner in which they publicized the league.

Cecil Warnick, umpire-in-chief was commended by Long for the good job he and his staff did throughout the 1951 season.

Umpiring Staff Praised

"We feel that the Interstate League has the best umpiring staff in this area and we hope the same group will be back next season," Long concluded.

Davis presented the league's playoff series trophy to the Moorefield (W. Va.) American Legion team which was managed by Don Smith. The vice president remarked that it was the sixth season that Moorefield had been in the playoffs. The Moorefield players were chaperoned here by the sheriff of Hardy county.

"This feed is the result of the all-star game which cleared $180," Davis said. "We should be able to start the season in 1952 because we have six baseballs left over."

Seven Awards Presented

Secretary Clites announced the names of the players who earned

Bears Claw 49er's

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (INS) —The Chicago Bears clawed out a 13 to 7 victory today over the San Francisco 49er's in a National Football League game played before 43,437 fans at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

The Bears struck for touchdowns in the first and third periods with their star quarterback, Johnny Lujack, contributing to both.

Lujack passed to John Dottley for the first touchdown, the play covery of a 49er fumble gave the Bears their second touchdown. Lujack carried the ball over from the one-foot line on a quarterback sneak.

The 49er touchdown in the final period climaxed a San Francisco 60-yard drive after Rex. Berry intercepted a Lujack pass on the 49er's 40. Y. A. Tittle passed to Gordy Soltau for the six points from the Bears' 24. Soltau converted.

Lujack suffered a twisted ankle in the fourth quarter and was carried from the field. X-rays will be taken to determine the extent of his injury.

Favorites Topple As Upsets Scramble Gridiron Picture

California Defeated; Terps Win Squeaker

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The first big "upset Saturday" of the football season was in the record books today, and it was hard to tell which of the fallen favorites was the most surprised.

Favored Ohio State got its shock early as underdog Indiana smashed over three touchdowns in the first quarter and went on to win, 32-10. Texas, startled when fired-up Arkansas scored first, recovered its poise to gain a short-lived 7-6 lead but finally went down to defeat, 16-14.

California, top-ranking team in this week's Associated Press poll, blew a 14-0 halftime lead in bowing to Southern California, 21-14, but this shock was topped by Texas A & M, which had a 14-0 lead in the fourth quarter only to lose because of a Texas Christian rally, 20-14.

Buckeyes Do Fadeout

New York Giants Stay Undefeated

Safety Nets 26-24 Win Over Eagles

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (INS)—The New York Giants maintained their undefeated status in the National Football League by the margin of a safety today when they squeezed by the stubborn Philadelphia Eagles, 26 to 24.

A Polo Grounds crowd of 28,656 fans saw the Giants stay atop the American Conference by winning their third straight game after tying in their season debut with the Steelers.

The margin of victory was provided in the third period when Harmon Rowe tackled Bosh Pritchard behind his goal line for two points. Otherwise the Eagles, playing their first game under Coach Wayne Millner, surprised by matching the Giants' three touchdowns, conversions and a field goal. In fact, the Eagles actually got off to a 17-0 halftime lead.

But the Giants stormed back with 23 points in the third quarter and Jim Poole's 12-yard field goal at the opening of the fourth gave New York a 26-17 margin which was enough to withstand Philly's last td.

Rookie end Bob Walston tallied two touchdowns, kicked three extra points and a 27-yard field goal to lead the Eagle scoring with 18 points.

The Eagles, held to 49 yards on the ground, gained 206 yards through the air with Adrian Burk and Bill Mackrides doing the pitching.

Chuck Conerly of the Giants completed 20 aerials for 128 yards gained and Em Tunnell continued his sensational punt-returning for the Maramen, racing 71 yards for one score.

Score by periods:

New York	0	0	23	3—26
Philadelphia	7	10	0	7—24

EXECUTOR'S SALE OF VALUABLE IMPROVED PROPERTY SITUATED ON EUCLID PLACE, IN CUMBERLAND, ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

Under and by virtue of an order of the Orphans' Court for Allegany County, Maryland, dated October 5, 1951, in the matter of the Estate of Christopher Weires, the undersigned will, on TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1951, AT 10:00 A. M. on Liberty Street, in Cumberland, Maryland, beside the Second National Bank, sell to the highest bidder:

ALL that lot, piece or parcel of ground situated, lying and being on the Westerly side of Euclid Place (formerly Goodman's Alley) in the City of Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, which is more particularly described as follows, to wit:

BEGINNING for the same at a point on the Westerly side of said Euclid Place at its intersection with a line drawn through the center of the division wall between the brick and concrete block dwelling No. 10 located upon the lot hereby conveyed and the brick and concrete block dwelling, No. 8, located on the Southerly side of, and adjoining the lot hereby conveyed, said point of beginning being at the end of 107.9 feet measured in a Northerly direction along the Westerly side of said Euclid Place from the Northerly side of North Mechanic Street, and running thence with the Westerly side of said Euclid place, North 26 degrees 40 minutes East 19.7 feet; thence North 62 degrees 30 minutes West 65 feet to the fourth line of the lot conveyed to The Real Estate and Building Company by two deeds, one from A. A. Wilson, Trustee, dated May 27, 1911, and recorded in Liber No. 108, folio 168, and the other from DeWarren H. Reynolds, Executor, dated February 3, 1922, and recorded in Liber No. 139, folio 526, of the Land Records of said Allegany County; thence with part of said fourth line, South 26 degrees 40 minutes West 19.7 feet to intersect a line drawn in a Westerly direction through the center of the aforesaid division wall; thence reversing said intersecting line and with the center line of said division wall and the same extending, South 62 degrees 30 minutes East 65 feet to the place of beginning. All bearings refer to the Magnetic Meridian of 1911.

THIS PROPERTY IS IMPROVED BY A TWO STORY BRICK DWELLING KNOWN AS NO. 10 EUCLID PLACE, HAVING SIX ROOMS WITH BATH AND A SMALL BASEMENT AND IS EQUIPPED WITH GAS AND ELECTRIC.

TERMS OF SALE: Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) cash on the date of sale, balance upon ratification of the sale by the Orphans' Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

All rents, State, County and City taxes, water rents, insurance and other charges shall be adjusted as of the date of the final ratification of the sale.

Merrill "Pinky" May has been released by Albany (N. Y.) of the Eastern League where he was at the helm for five years.

A native of Laconia, Ind., May now 40, got his start in organized baseball with the Cumberland Colts in 1932—this city's last year in the Middle Atlantic League.

"Pinky" was an outfielder here but after he left Cumberland he was converted into a third sacker. He played at Durham, Binghamton, Newark and Oakland, Calif., and finally the Phillies. He was in the National League from 1939 to 1943. In fact, he was the best third sacker in the senior circuit in 1939 and 1941. He was the No. 1 hot corner guardian in the Pacific Coast League in 1937.

Sal Somma, native of Ridgeley, W. Va., and former New York University grid star, has another good team at New Drop High School (N. Y.), according to a lengthy article by Hal J. Squier in the Staten Island Advance.

New Drop knocked off Brooklyn Prep and blanked John Adams High (24-0) in its first two starts and is reported to have a team of championship calibre.

Several years ago, Somma won the "Coach of the Year" Award in New York's metropolitan area.

face charges of violating the state bribery law.

They were arrested late Friday in Chicago on fugitive warrants.

Groza, of Martin's Ferry, Ohio., and Beard, of Louisville, returned to their homes late yesterday to "tell our parents how it happened."

Suspended By Pro Loops

The All-Americans are owner-players of the professional Indianapolis Olympians, and were suspended by the National Basketball Association, to which the team belongs, following the "fix" revelations.

Groza and Beard were on the Olympic team in 1948 which won international championships.

Adolph Rupp, the Kentucky basketball coach, recently asserted that collegiate players who took bribes to shave points should not be classified with athletes who threw games.

He also said:

"Gamblers couldn't get at our boys with a 10-foot pole."

Rupp had no comment following the arrest of the three former Kentucky stars.

Hughes Captures Stock Car Race

Meyersdale Season Closes Next Sunday

Sessell Hughes, Dubar, Pa., won $50 first prize in the 20-lap feature stock car race on the Meyersdale, Pa., half-mile dirt track yesterday. The time trials and feature event marked the third successive week for the stock car program at the Meyersdale plant.

Next Sunday the final race of the season will be a 30-lap feature with time trials getting underway at 1:30 p. m. and the main event scheduled to start at 2:30.

Fourteen entries participated in yesterday's event with Leon Mulhollen, Somerset, Pa., finishing in second place and John Ford, Altoona, Pa., collecting third money.

Four preliminary heats were held prior to the feature race. Bill Kuhn, Stoystown, Pa., Don Replogle, Altoona, Bill Bell, Vanderbilt, Pa., and Mulhollen were the victors in these trials.

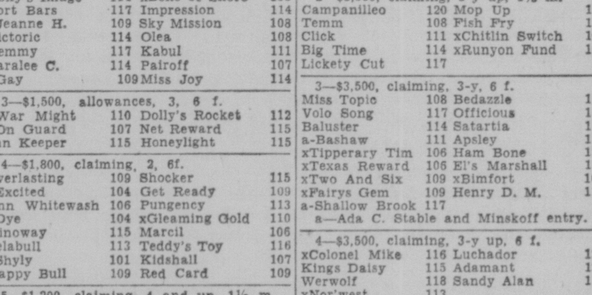
MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist



Is it smart to be bored with your job?

Answer: No, says Dr. Patricia Cain Smith of Cornell University in a report to the American Psychological Association. The fact that you are bored with your job is no proof that you are smarter than someone who isn't. A study of women factory workers doing repetitive work showed the ones who said they were bored usually were less happy in their home life, younger, and more inclined to be rebellious, but no more intelligent than their fellow workers. Dr. Smith believes "Monotony in industrial jobs is overrated." Actually, "Nobody does exactly the same thing in exactly the same way each time."

Has your body its own "language"?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Felix Deutsch in an article, "Thus Speaks the Body." A study of the response of the small blood vessels in patients with neurotic skin ailments to external or emotional stimuli showed this response to be an integrated part of the personality pattern of the patient. The way in which any given person reacts depends, not on the nature of the stimulus but on what it "means" to him. (There are people who react with distaste to all physical contacts, for example, because these imply sex to them.) A response like blushing may be "the effect of conscious and unconscious after-images of past experiences."

Mercy Errand Ends With Four In Hospital

Driver Hurt As Ambulance Upsets

A Moorefield, W. Va., ambulance driver on an errand of mercy Saturday night was admitted to Memorial Hospital along with three other accident victims from that area.

Brown M. Kessel, 32, employe of the Thrush Funeral Home, was bringing another accident victim to Memorial Hospital when the embulance turned over near Old Fields, W. Va., about four miles from Moorefield on Route 220.

West Virginia State Police said last night Kessel's vehicle failed to round a curve when the accident occurred. The ambulance left the highway and rolled over into a field. He suffered injuries of the back and x-rays were taken yesterday. His condition was reported last night as "good" by attaches.

Was On Way To Cumberland

According to police, Kessel was bringing Mrs. Lola Myers, Moorefield, to Memorial Hospital following an accident involving two cars at 10:50 p. m. at Fort Run, one mile east of Moorefield on Route 55.

An automobile driven by Foster Schell, according to police, was traveling west toward Moorefield. Mrs. Myers was also in the vehicle which collided head-on with an automobile operated by Weldon J. Fitzwater, Fort Run. Considerable damage was caused, State Police noted last night.

Woman Seriously Hurt

Mrs. Myers was taken to the hospital in extreme shock according to attaches, and suffered a possible fractured skull, lacerations and abrasions. Her condition is reported as "fair" and x-rays will be taken today.

The condition of Fitzwater is "fair." He sustained a fractured nose and jaw with lacerations about the face. Schell is reported in "good" condition and x-rays will be taken today. He suffered lacerations and abrasions.

Assisting State Police at Moorefield in the investigation is C. G. Robinette, police chief of that community.

George Greise Hurt In Crash

A Bedford Road youth was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday suffering injuries from a highway accident which occurred about 3:50 p. m. near the Pennsylvania State Line.

State Police identified the youth as George F. Greise, 18, son of George F. Greise, Bedford Road. He was reported as "resting comfortably" last night by hospital attaches, and will be X-rayed today.

About $50 damages resulted in the afternoon mishap, according to police. Greise, operating a pickup truck, was reported to be driving west on Bedford Road when he saw a parked truck headed in the same direction.

In an effort to avoid hitting the other vehicle, Greise swerved off the highway and turned over, police added. Trooper Robert Wolford investigated but no charges were preferred.

Organ Recital Will Be Given Tuesday

An organ recital will be presented tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at First Church of Christ Scientist, Washington Street, by five students of Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt, Avirett Avenue.

The pupils include the Misses Deirdre Wilson, Shirley Brinkman, Mary Linne Stitley, and Dorthalee Raines and Robert Mann.

Flue Fire Checked

A flue fire in the Thomas Street area was checked by South End firemen yesterday at 11:06 a. m. No damage was reported.

The Weather

The warm, clear atmosphere yesterday resulted in crowded area highways as residents enjoyed another Sunday drive. Temperatures, reaching into the 70s, were comfortable in spite of the high humidity percentage. A slight wind was reported coming from the East early yesterday evening indicating possible rain. The Weather Bureau predicts likely drizzle or light rain for the west portion of the state today with some cloudiness and warmer temperatures. The high temperature as reported by Constitution Park weather station was 73 degrees, the low was 35, and at 8 p. m., the mercury leveled at 58 degrees. Humidity was marked at a wet 68 per cent.

Lutherans To Confer Here Tomorrow

Presbyterians To Gather Wednesday

Beginning today with a conference at St. Luke's involving 12 Lutheran churches of the Tri-State area, at which the Rev. Dr. Paul C. Empie, of New York City, will preach, there will be three notable church gatherings in Cumberland within the week.

Following the conference this afternoon and this evening at St. Luke's, there will be a fellowship gathering Wednesday evening of Presbyterians of Western Maryland and West Virginia at Centre Street Methodist Church hall at which the Rev. Dr. Allan MacLachan Frew, of Ardmore, Pa., will be the speaker. Next Sunday at First Christian Church, Bedford street, union services to mark Reformation Day will be held with the Rev. Dr. Dwight F. Putman, president of the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the United Lutheran Church, as speaker.

Purpose Shown

Purpose of the two meetings at St. Luke's is to plan methods of completing local church 1951 goals in the $3,300,000 Lutheran World Action Appeal for relief and reconstruction abroad and for ministry to Lutherans in the U. S. armed forces. Rev. Dr. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's and conference chairman, said Saturday that the first meeting tomorrow will be at 3:30 p. m. for LWA directors, church auxiliary officials and pastors. A supper meeting at 6:30 will be for the same persons plus at least six or more laymen from each congregation. The Lutheran churches cooperating are St. Paul's, St. Luke's and St. John's, this city; St. Paul's, Frostburg; St. Mark's, Oakland; Trinity, Keyser, W. Va.; Trinity, Bedford, Pa.; and the five churches of the Friends' Cove charge in Bedford County, Pa., Bald Hill, Bortz, St. James, St. Mark's and Yeager Memorial.

Dr. Empire To Talk

The Lutheran World Action representative in charge of the conference will be the Rev. Dr. Empie, executive director of the National Lutheran Council, the agency which supervises the gathering and distribution of LWA funds from more than 10,000 local churches which are affiliated with eight general Lutheran bodies participating in the Council.

As executive director of the Council, Dr. Empie also heads the U. S. A. Committee for the Lutheran World Federation and is responsible for the whole program of relief and reconstruction abroad. During the summer of 1950, he spent two months in Europe, conferring with church leaders in England, France, Germany and Yugoslavia.

With Dr. Empie's first hand knowledge and the reports he receives from Lutheran representatives in most European countries, in Asia, Africa and South America, he has become one of the best informed men in America today on the postwar chaos which exists abroad and the challenge presented to the churches of America.

Badminton Club To Open Season

The Cumberland Badminton Club will start its winter playing schedule tonight at the Fort Hill School gymnasium.

Players in this section wishing to join the club this year should attend the meeting tonight. The club will meet Monday and Thursday evenings this winter at the Fort Hill School. As only three courts are available the membership will be limited to fifty.

THOROUGHBREDS—Lassie and Laddie, shown here by Mrs. Joseph Ansel, Jr., along with five Collie puppies, are listed among the better registered Collies in the area. The pair, almost identical to their motion picture counterparts produced their first litter of puppies, all identical, about eight weeks ago. Mrs. Ansel, the former Miss Catherine Bopp, along with her husband, makes a hobby of raising thoroughbred Collies at their home, Hazen Road. They started their hobby about two years ago.

2 Murder Cases Scheduled This Week At Court

Margaret E. Gray Trial Set Today

Two murder cases will take up most of the second week of criminal trials at the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Today Margaret E. Gray, 39, of North Branch, will undergo trial for the fatal shooting of Niles J. Michael August 2 at their home in a C. and O. Canal lock house.

She is represented by two court-appointed attorneys, Noel Speir Cook and Estel Kelley. Most of today's session will be devoted to selecting a jury.

The Gray case, the state's attorney's office said, will probably go over into tomorrow and the case against Shirley Meek Schurg, of Hoffman, will likely get underway Wednesday.

Mrs. Schurg is charged with shooting her husband as he returned home early in the morning of August 6. He died five days later in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Beeman, 25-year-old Midland man convicted by a jury of first degree murder of his wife, Donna (Airhart) Beeman, will be sentenced either to death or life imprisonment tomorrow.

A motion for a new trial was filed by his attorneys, Earl E. Manges and Thomas N. Berry, Saturday in Circuit Court. However, court attaches said the sentencing will take place as scheduled, with action on the new trial to come later.

Eleven sentences were handed down Saturday in Circuit Court by Judges Morgan C. Harris and George Henderson.

Included in the number were three prison terms.

Dr. Bonner Attending Hercules Conference

Dr. Lyman G. Bonner, LaVale, of the Allegany Ballistics Plant, is one of the research supervisors from 13 Hercules Powder Company plants attending the eighth annual company-wide research conferences at Wilmington, Del.

On the agenda are discussions on process savings as well as research plans for the coming year. In charge of Dr. John C. Robinson, Jr., the meetings will take place at the Hercules Country Club.

Heart Group To Meet

Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association board of directors will meet today at 8 p. m. in the Post Office building, Thomas F. Conlon, president, announces.

A report on the current membership drive of the group will be given at the meeting.

Today's Sermonette

What think ye of Christ? St. Matthew 22:42.

By REV. RAYMOND A. FAULDS, Jr.

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church by the pastor, Rev. Raymond A. Faulds, Jr. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

An Effective Religion

An atheist once wrote, "Every man lives by believing something." If that means anything, surely, it means that every man has a religion. If the statement of the atheist is true, then we must all examine our beliefs. If we are religious people, then — with our eyes upon the conditions prevailing in the world — we must admit there is something radically wrong with the religion of the masses. We must ask ourselves: "Are we fulfilling the requirement of an effective religion?" What is an effective religion?

Rev. Faulds

First, an effective religion must be a personal religion. It is good to hear a neighbor say, "Whereas I was blind, now I see," but it is of no benefit to us unless it drives us to the same Illuminator to have our own sight restored. It is encouraging to hear the witness of the aged that God has never forsaken them. But another man's testimony cannot be our religion. We must go beyond that and say, "Now I believe, not because of what thou sayest but I have seen Him for myself." "What think ye of Christ?" Only a personal religion can be an effective religion.

Second, an effective religion must bring succor to a weary and sinful world. We do not need denunciation; we have a conscience that plays that part well. We need kindness — someone to believe in us, someone to trust us, someone to love us. That is also what others—the cynical, the hard, the bitter—need. We cannot argue them into a belief in an all-ruling love, yet we may melt them into such a faith. An effective religion must bring succor to the weary and sinful world.

Third, an effective religion will constrain its adherents to form a community, a church. Paul said: "We are his body." But what is a body? It is that through which alone the heart, the mind, the will within expresses itself outwardly If the body of Christ fails in its work how shall the world know the thoughts of God toward it and the love of Christ for it? We are his feet to run for him, his hands to bring and carry for him. If the body fails, the world in its need will know nothing of it all.

Further, an effective religion must contain a gospel, must have some "good news." The greatest miracle which Christ wrought—our salvation — does provide a gospel. Salvation is good news. Salvation through faith is a theory, but it is a theory that works. No one can say: "I have a salvation I can explain." But millions can say: "I know whom I have believed and am persuaded he is able to keep that which I have committed to him." An effective religion must contain a gospel that sin is pardoned, that there is cleansing for every stain.

This is not a cheap gospel. It is not a light optimism encouraging the careless. It is a gospel only procured through Calvary and the Cross. An effective religion must contain a gospel which is "good news" to the worst, the lowest, the most despairing. The religion of Christ meets all the qualifications for an effective religion. "What think ye of Christ?"

15-Mile Jaunt Of Young Explorers Causes Alarm

Five Hyndman, Pa., "explorers," wondering what was on the other side of the mountain, ended up in Cumberland last night. Leaving their homes at 10 a. m. yesterday on a hike through the woods, the group probed the area causing a community-wide search.

A Bedford Road resident, who lives about five miles from Cumberland, notified city police the travelers had inquired at her home of their whereabouts and how to get back home.

The five hikers were told how to get to this city and proceeded down Bedford Road ending their 15 mile jaunt at 9:25 p. m. After notification from here, parents of one of the explorers called at police headquarters for the party.

Police identified the strollers as Vern Mowery, 9, Freeman Miller, 12, Very Miller, 13, Gloria Miller, 10 and Charles Thompson, 11. The group found out, police said, that Centerville was located "over the mountain."

Flintstone Firemen Quench Woods Blaze

Flintstone volunteer firemen extinguished a woods fire yesterday afternoon on the west side of Polish Mountain about one mile from Flintstone.

Chief Palmer Howsare said firemen arrived at the scene at 2 p. m. and had the blaze under control by 4:30 p. m.

Sportsmen Ask US To Give Catoctin Rec Area Back To Maryland

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 21 (AP)—The League of Maryland Sportsmen today adopted a resolution calling on the federal government to turn over the Catoctin Recreational Area in Northern Frederick County to the State of Maryland.

The National Park Service presently controls the 5,000-acre area. The resolution asked that the land "and improvements thereon" be placed under state control.

The League asked its president, Glenn L. Martin, Baltimore plane manufacturer, to appoint a committee to deal with government officials to bring about the transfer.

The resolution asserted "there is a disposition of the part of the National Park Service to turn back to Maryland" the Frederick County land

The resolution pointed out that the transfer would mean no expense to Maryland except the cost of future maintenance.

As the fall session of the League closed today, members discussed the possibilities of opening parts of the area for hunting. At present no sport is allowed except some regulated fishing.

The league would maintain a part of the 5,000 acres as a game propagation haven, open a part for hunting and leave undisturbed camp sites used by Girl Scouts, the League for Crippled Children and other groups.

The league also recognized that the federal government may wish to keep "Shangri La," the summer home of the late President Roosevelt.

The group voted to have its annual meeting at Ocean City June 6-8, 1952.

Yesterday the Maryland sportsmen were given a picture of work being done to clean up the state's streams. An outline was presented by Secretary Paul V. McKee of the State Water Pollution Control Commission.

McKee said some Garrett County streams are devoid of life because of pollution and said action will be taken as soon as a solution is found.

He said two Western Maryland firms have been ordered to make studies leading to construction of sewage and waste treatment plants and that one has spent several million dollars in that connection.

Another, he said has been ordered to put in waste treatment equipment to cut the amount of sand going into the Potomac.

Six additional firms have been ordered to stop practices which pollute the river.

Most of the companies are in Cumberland and Hagerstown, according to McKee's listing.

Concerning another phase of sportsmens' activities, L. H. Crickenberger of Frederick, representing the Maryland State Grange, told league members that sportsmen must take the initiative if there are to be good relations between hunters and farmers.

He offered these suggestions:

Always ask a farmer if you may go on his property. Leave your car where he can see it. Always thank him before leaving.

The League meeting continued today with a dinner and further business sessions.

Repairs On Old Water Line Will Be Resumed This Fall

Water Department crews will resume work this fall on major repairs to the old water line to Lake Gordon in an effort to cut water losses, Water Commissioner George H. Tederick announced yesterday.

He said repairs on the old line last year resulted in elimination of all known major breaks in the line.

About half of the 36 inch concrete pipe line has been reconditioned since the auxiliary line was completed in 1949.

The work will include covering the pipe in areas where it is exposed and plugging of leaks by the application of special metal bands which can be drawn around the concrete pipe.

Only emergency repairs were possible before the auxiliary line was built.

Commissioner Tederick said the plugging of the major leaks in the line has been a factor in cutting water losses and repairs planned on existing filters at Lake Gordon will cut the losses still further.

Repairs on the old filters will be undertaken when six new filters now being planned are completed.

Plans for the filter work at Lake Gordon are expected to be presented to the Mayor and Council next week.

Wolford Dies From Wounds While Hunting

Services Set Today At Slanesville, W. Va.

A short service for Irvin Glenn Wolford, Williams Road, hunting accident victim, will be held today at 1 p. m. at Kight's Funeral Home by Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of the Cumberland Methodist Circuit.

The funeral cortege will go to Mount Union Church at Slanesville, W. Va. where last rites will be conducted by Rev. Hartman. Burial will be in Mount Union Cemetery.

The father of five small children, Wolford died Saturday morning at 10:10 a. m. in Allegany Hospital and became the second hunting season victim in Allegany County within seven days.

Accidentally Shot

Wolford, according to Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator at the LaVale Barracks, was accidentally shot Friday at 5:15 p. m. by a fellow hunter and close friend, Herbert Herman Gross, 34, of Route 5, Braddock Road, also a furloughed Celanese worker.

Wolford, Gross and four others were in a party hunting in the section of Green Ridge Mountain, four miles south of the old CCC camp and just off the George Road when the accident occurred.

Investigator Baker said the party separated Friday morning and convened at noon for lunch. Again they separated and at the time of the shooting, Gross told Baker that he shot at what he thought was a squirrel.

The blast from the .12 gauge shotgun was followed by Wolford's scream," I've been shot," Baker said.

Gross yelled for help and another member of the party, James B. Smith, 33, of Cash Valley Road, helped him carry the wounded man to the Gross auto.

Gets Full Charge

Baker said the section where the shot was fired had very thick underbrush and overgrowth.

The full charge hit Wolford in the upper left arm, left side and back. Death was caused by a hemmorrhage of the lung, according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner.

The three others in the hunting party were Lloyd Gross, brother of Herbert Gross, who was a next door neighbor of the victim; Lloyd's son, Leroy, 13, and James W. Norris, 36, of LaVale.

The state's attorney's office is conducting the investigation and no charges have been placed.

Wolford was employed in the Service Department at Amcelle. He was born at Slanesville, W. Va., and had been a resident of this city for 30 years.

He was the son of Mrs. Leona (Kidwell) Wolford Deahl, of this city, and the late John Wolford.

Besides his mother, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Walker) Wolford; five children, Donald I. Wolford, Donald G. Wolford, Carolyn A. Wolford, Sonia K. Wolford and Sandra F. Wolford, all at home.

He also leaves two brothers, Jesse E. Wolford and Ernest Wolford this city and four sisters, Mrs. Gladys Nelson, Chaneysville, Pa.; Mrs. Edith Day, Paw Paw, W. Va.; Mrs. Pauline Symons, Potomac Park, and Mrs. Irene Martin, LaVale.

Bond Drive Report Given

Allegany County has attained a goal of $324,098 or 85 per cent of a quota of $378,400 in the current defense Bond Drive which ends Saturday.

A report of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury Department says that 9 per cent of the state quota of $8,700,000 has been reached.

County Bond Chairman Lynn C. Lashley urges all residents of Cumberland and Allegany County to purchase their share of bonds during this final week.

Nationally the Secretary of the Treasury reminds the people of America to become a partner in the drive. Principal purposes of the campaign are to maintain and increase the wide distribution of the public debt among as many of the American people as possible.

The discouragement of inflationary spending at a time when inflationary pressures arising out of the defense program are strong, and to encourage the continued practice of thrift and savings among the residents of the United States are also urged.

Police Warn Motorists Of High Accident Rate

Allegany County residents are reminded of the highway accidents predominant at this time of year.

Colonel Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, yesterday cautioned the people of Maryland that this is the time of year when days are shorter —when dusk with its deceptive shadows, closes in before most of us are home at night—rush hour traffic clutters the roads—accidents are at their peak.

"Always reduce your speed at night" Colonel Munshower said "because the speed a driver can safely travel at night depends not only on his physical condition, the condition of his car, the road surface, and the weather, but largely on the effective range of his head lights. At high speeds he may be traveling too fast to stop by the time the danger becomes apparent to him via his headlights.

"Posted speed limits must not be regarded, necessarily, as the recommended speed at night. Posted speeds are based on the speed considered safe in good weather, in normal traffic and during the day.

"Stop on the highway at night only when absolutely necessary. When this is the case, pull over off the road as far as possible and leave parking and dome lights on. More and more automobile travelers have discovered the advantage of carrying emergency flares with them for such occasions.

"Watch out for pedestrians."
